RESCUE 2 FLYERS FROM LAKE

DILLINGER GANG NAMED AS CHIEF PUBLIC ENEMIES

Convicts Head New Police Crime List.

In another move to stamp out criminal gangs which have been preying on the Chicago area recently the authorities yesterday issued a list of 21 new public enemies in the form of bulletins which are being placed in the hands of every policeman in Chicago and Cook county. The officers are warned to take no chance with them. Pictures of the outlaws are carried in the bulletins.

John Dillinger, leader of the desperate band of escaped Indiana convicts, heads the list as public enemy No. 1. The chronicle is conspicuous by its new names. Absent are many familiar names identified with prohibition gangland under Al Capone, although a few appear, such as Murray Humphries.

Two Women Are Named.

They have been supplanted by newcomers, largely from other states and towns, associated with kidnaping, murder, robbery, racketeering, and so on, showing a change in the complexion of crime. For the first time women are included in the list. The list, besides Dillinger, includes:

HARRY PIERPONT, 40 years old, wanted for murder, bank robberies, and escape from the Michigan City prison.

JOHN HAMILTON, 41, sought for the slaying of Sergt. William T. Shanley in Chicago, bank holdups, and Michigan City prison escape.

CHARLES MAKLEY, 50, bank holdups and Michigan City escape.

RUSSELL CLARK, 39, bank robberies and Michigan City escape.

WALTER DETRICK, 31, Michigan City escape and bank banditry.

JOSEPH FOX, 32, bank holdups and Indiana prison escape.

PEARL ELLIOTT, woman associate of Dillinger and his men.

MARY KINDER, friend of the Elliott woman and Dillinger.

These names include the known roster of the Dillinger outfit and police are warned that the men named are dangerous. The police are especially warned to shoot Dillinger if he resists.

The new public enemy list includes Murray Humphries and the following, some of them Touhy followers, some downstate hoodlums, and the rest gunmen of no particular gang:

TOM TOUHY, 41, brother of Roger Touhy, wanted for kidnaping.

CHARLES [ICE WAGON] CONNORS, sought for abduction.

EDWARD LA RUE, 31, alleged kidnaper.

BASIL BANGHART, 35, wanted for kidnaping.

CHARLES FRANCIS McGUIRE, 50, alleged kidnaper.

JOHN [JACK] KLUTAS, kidnap gang chief.

W. A. HENRICHSEN, ex-county highway policeman, alleged kidnaper.

LUDWIG [DUTCH LOUIE] SCHMIDT, alleged kidnaper and robber.

HOMER VAN METER, bank robber.

JOSEPH BURNS, wanted for bank holdups.

MERRIT R. LONGBRAKE, bank robber.

GEORGE NELSON, sought for bank jobs.

The list was compiled as a result of the rise to power of the Dillinger and Touhy gangs. From time to time it will be augmented, containing, as this one does, pictures, Bertillon measurements, and fingerprints, police announced. It is hoped to spread this information over the country.

Aids Work of Stege.

At the state's attorney's office, where the list was originated, it was explained it was an additional move to aid the work of the special police detail now commanded by Capt. John Stege.

This is the first time that a new public enemy list has failed to list such local celebrities as "Machine Gun Jack" McGurn, "Spike" O'Donnell, James [Fur] Sammons, and others. One reason is that some of them are now in prison or out of the rackets.

Doctor Sued by Doctor on Malpractice Charge

Dr. Fred S. Danziger, 4043 North Sawyer avenue, yesterday filed the declaration of a suit for $250,000 in the Circuit court against Dr. A. James Larkin, 7300 South Shore drive. The declaration charges malpractice. It alleges that Dr. Larkin treated Dr. Danziger in January, 1932, and as a result of the treatments Dr. Danziger's illness was aggravated and he had to employ other physicians.

FOUND AFTER FLOATING FOR EIGHT HOURS

Picked Up 25 Miles Out by Cutter.

Muskegon, Mich., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—Two aviators, who had been floating helplessly on the chill waters of Lake Michigan for eight hours after being forced to descend while making a Milwaukee-Muskegon hop in an amphibian plane, were rescued by the coast guard cutter Escanaba shortly before midnight.

The point at which the rescue was made was about 25 miles out in the lake, slightly south of east from Milwaukee. The Escanaba had steamed 53 miles from Grand Haven in its search. Lieutenant Commander L. W. Perkins, in command of the Escanaba, reported that the flyers were "uncomfortable but unharmed." They are H. P. [Pat] Gossett and B. W. Craycraft.

Plane Long Overdue.

A request that a search be made for the plane came to the coast guards at about 5:30 p. m., when it was learned by the Kohler Aviation corporation, owners of the plane, that she was long overdue here. The ship had taken off at Milwaukee at 3:05 p. m. and the trip across the lake usually requires only fifty minutes.

The ship is a Loening six passenger with a single motor. It is of sturdy construction and the company officials were confident it could withstand a long period of floating if it was not crushed in the ice. The Escanaba, in a radio message, stated that it was towing the plane in.

In addition to the Escanaba all the coast guard crews along both the Michigan and Wisconsin shore lines were ordered out in a search during the early evening. The smaller boats, however, were greatly hampered by the shore ice and the burden of making the rescue fell on the cutter.

Rescuers See Green Flares.

It was shortly after 11 p. m. when Lieutenant Commander Perkins and his crew descried green flares that were being sent up by Gossett and Craycraft. The signals were visible for several miles and the cutter was immediately directed toward them.

After the pilots had been taken aboard it was announced that they would be taken to a hospital in Grand Haven to let physicians decide whether they needed any treatment for exposure. They had drifted, apparently, about twenty miles since making the landing on account of engine trouble.

Flew on Regular Schedule.

The plane is one regularly scheduled to make a run daily across the lake to Muskegon and Grand Rapids, where it connects with another that goes on to Detroit. There were no passengers this afternoon, but it was reported a third pilot, M. Benedict, accompanied Gossett and Craycraft on the trip. This was later found to be erroneous, as Benedict did not board the plane.

Efforts were made shortly after nightfall to locate the disabled machine through a search plane sent out of Milwaukee. It cruised over the lake for nearly an hour and its crew reported on returning to the home hangar that mists and low visibility prevailed and no trace of the amphibion had been found. The point where the rescue was made is closer to Milwaukee than to Muskegon or Grand Haven.

3 FISHERMEN SAVED

Three fishermen, exhausted by more than twenty-four hours of battling to keep their 38 foot boat from sinking in Lake Michigan after its bow had been shattered by huge blocks of ice, yesterday afternoon won their way back to the safety of the Chicago river.

"Men who have had such an experience as ours seldom go back to the open water," declared one of the trio, Capt. Fred Hauer. "I don't think we'll try it any more, either."

With Hauer, who is 46 years old and lives at 1713 North Park avenue, were Louis Arndt, 46 years old, 1036 North California avenue, and Richard Kuse, 47 years old, 1508 Addison street.

Ice Closes In on Boat.

They had left the river early Wednesday morning in their power boat, the Seagull. Proceeding to the fishing grounds several miles off Wilmette they drew their nets, obtaining about 700 pounds of fish. They were on their way back Wednesday

Report Guilty Plea Planned by Rosenberg

Rumor persisted in the United States courthouse yesterday that Moe Rosenberg, former convict, junk dealer, and west side political power, is preparing to plead guilty on Tuesday to charges of defrauding the government of $65,000 in income tax payments during 1929 and 1930.

Rosenberg was said to have left Washington with his attorneys on Wednesday shortly after the government had rejected his offer to settle the income tax charges with a cash payment. He did not appear in Chicago yesterday and it is believed he left the train at a suburban station.

Case to Start Tuesday.

Government officials refused to comment on the reported defense plan in the absence of United States Attorney Dwight Green, who had not returned from Washington. They also refused to discuss what recommendations, if any, would be made to the court in case a plea of guilty was entered. They said only that the case would start at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon with selection of a jury in the court of Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson.

There are four counts in the indictment returned by the federal grand jury against Rosenberg. Each count carries a possible maximum punishment of five years in the penitentiary and a fine of $10,000.

A plea of guilty by Rosenberg, it was pointed out, would deprive the public of spectacular disclosures which it has been long hinted would develop at the trial. These developments were said to be rooted in the items of "income from other sources" placed at $190,709 for the years of 1929 and 1930.

Link with Politics Seen.

The indictment did not explain these items and government officials refused to comment on them. The impression has grown, however, that they would be linked with Rosenberg's political life.

The indictment showed clearly that the $190,709 could not have come from stocks, bonds, interest, real estate dealings, or from the junk business. It was pointed out that Rosenberg's rapid political rise to power in the 24th ward placed at his command power to dictate to business and individuals in the ward.

Rosenberg served 20 months in federal penitentiary after he was convicted more than 15 years ago, for conspiring to steal goods from interstate shipments. He also was indicted on an arson charge in the state courts and on a charge of perjury growing out of the arson case.

POPE DISCHARGES 600 WORKMEN IN ECONOMY DRIVE

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Pope Pius extended his economy program today to workmen employed on Vatican City construction and repair jobs. More than 600 who had been on the pay roll during the last year were discharged.

This was in addition to the cancellation of contracts with skilled artisans, announced Dec. 15, and an order for a 10 to 15 per cent cut in the salaries of prelates and civilian officials of the church in Rome and Vatican City.

In connection with the pope's order it was explained that the amount of work in immediate prospect did not justify the retention of such large forces.

Sheriff Suspends His Own Mother-in-Law, a Bailiff

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 28.—(AP)—The fearlessness of Sheriff William J. Fitzgerald was a matter of record today in the form of an order signed by him suspending his mother-in-law, Mrs. Mary Kaunitz, a jail bailiff with a civil service rating, for one week on a charge of inattention to duty.

Women Pilots Set a Record; on Ninth Day

Miami, Fla., Dec. 28.—(AP)—Helen Richey and Frances Marsalis today broke the women's endurance flying record by remaining in the air over Miami 8 days 5 hours and 5 minutes.

The record was broken at 6:08 p. m. eastern standard time, one hour after the old record held by Mrs. Marsalis and Mrs. Louise Thaden was passed. They set the mark of 196 hours and 5 minutes at Valley Stream, L. I., Aug. 22, 1932.

The Miami endurance flyers had to stay up one hour longer to gain official recognition for their record.

There was no indication of how long the flyers would remain aloft. Notes said they were becoming tired and exhausted, but would not land tonight unless necessary.

"Pretty Tired," Note Says.

In a note signed "Poor Little Frances," Mrs. Marsalis said they were "pretty tired."

"Gee, I want to stay up," she said. "I hadn't figured on landing this eve in any case. How is this:

"Wait until in the morning to see how everything is—how the motor behaves and so forth, and how we feel, then write you by 11:30. How long would you like for us to stay up?

"Would Saturday help?

"I am pretty tired and last night's work wore me right out. You know, patching and working on the leak in the gas connection.

"We'll see how everything is tomorrow.

Motor May Decide Issue.

"Of course, if the motor isn't exactly right, I'll be in. Hadn't figured to land tonight. It probably will be hard enough for me to land in the daylight, account my depth perception is probably off a trifle.

"If weather and motor stay good we might stay up until 1:03 p. m. Saturday—make a nice record."

The note was addressed to ground officials.

Widow of Wanderwell, Slain on Yacht, Weds

New Orleans, La., Dec. 28.—(AP)—Mrs. Aloha Wanderwell, whose husband, Capt. Walter Wanderwell, was mysteriously shot to death Dec. 5, 1932, on board his yacht at Long Beach, Cal., and Walter Baker were married in Gretna, La., on Dec. 26, it became known today. Baker is a member of the Walter Wanderwell Educational club, which is touring North America.

HUNT WILMETTE FIRE CAPTAIN; CAR ABANDONED

Sheriff Lester Tiffany of Lake county and the north shore police began a search last night for George Mailfald, 121 16th street, Wilmette, a captain of the Wilmette fire department, whose abandoned car was found Wednesday afternoon in Route 21 between Lake Zurich and Half Day. Capt. Mailfald left his home Tuesday night to visit his brother-in-law, Aaron Krell, in Wauconda. He started for home shortly afterward. At 5:30 a. m. Wednesday he was seen in his car near Half Day by deputy sheriffs. Then his empty car was found that afternoon not far away.

It is feared Capt. Mailfald may have been frozen in the bitter cold or that he was waylaid by bandits and left to die.

Comrades and others will search the fields between Half Day and Lake Zurich today.

Capt. Mailfald is 42 years old. He is married, but is separated from his wife. They have two sons.

TAXICAB SERVICE A BIT POOR, BUT HE GETS 'HOME'

Paul Ludwig, 40 years old, a former Evanston policeman, almost lost his "home" last night, but didn't, demonstrating that where there's a will there's a way.

Because of the cold Ludwig has been staying at the police station for the last two days. Last night he went out for a stroll and wandered so far he didn't feel equal to walking back. So he stopped at an oil station at Dodge avenue and Dempster street and urged the attendant to call police.

Policemen George Peska and George Gunnerson responded at high speed, only to find on arrival that Ludwig wanted to be driven "home." They refused. Fifteen minutes later a man was taken to St. Francis hospital with his feet supposedly frozen. It was Ludwig and his feet weren't frozen. The hospital notified police when Ludwig refused to get off the operating table. This time police took him back "home."

London Has Tenth Day in Succession with No Sun

(Copyright, 1933, By the New York Times.)

LONDON, Dec. 28.—The tenth sunless day in succession darkened London today, blotting out almost the last chance that 1933 might be known as the sunniest year ever recorded in Great Britain. Not a movement of sunlight has been registered at the Kew observatory since Dec. 19. It is the longest "gloom wave" since the 13 sunless days in January, 1929.

LONE U. S. ARMED INTERVENTION TO END AS A POLICY

Tells New Stand at Wilson Meeting.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—With Woodrow Wilson's doctrine of nonaggression as his text, President Roosevelt tonight proclaimed a new deal in the relations of the United States to the other American republics.

Addressing 800 friends and admirers of the world war President at the dinner given at the Mayflower hotel by the Woodrow Wilson Foundation in celebration of the seventy-seventh anniversary of his birth, Mr. Roosevelt decreed the abandonment of single-handed armed intervention by the United States to preserve order in neighboring countries. Presiding at the meeting was Robert S. Morris, president of the foundation.

Widow Leads Applause.

To the accompaniment of applause led by Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, the President scrapped the principle of foreign policy that the United States is obligated to police the western hemisphere which was developed from the Monroe Doctrine by Grover Cleveland and Theodore Roosevelt and followed by succeeding administrations.

There was more applause when the President declared it the joint obligation of the American republics to intervene in any one of them if such interference should become necessary to the protection of their interests.

Coming to the crowning accomplishment of Mr. Wilson's career—the league of nations—Mr. Roosevelt dispassionately appraised the institution, blaming selfish European statesmanship for its failure to fulfill its author's dreams.

But the league, though we have no intention of joining it, Mr. Roosevelt pronounced "a prop in the world peace structure and"—here departed from his manuscript and turned and smilingly addressed his remark to Mrs. Wilson—"and it must remain." At the conclusion of his address, Mrs. Wilson, who was seated two places away, rose and warmly shook the President's hand.

Condemns Intervention.

Mr. Roosevelt led up to his enunciation of a new American policy in this hemisphere with a sweeping condemnation of the interventionist practices of preceding administrations, including, perforce, that of Mr. Wilson, who broke all records for armed intervention in neighboring countries.

"As a citizen of some other republic," said Mr. Roosevelt, "I might have found it hard to approve of the occupation of the territory of other republics, even as a temporary measure."

Pausing and intently surveying the survivors of the Wilson regime, with their vivid memories of Mr. Wilson's occupation of Vera Cruz and Haiti, the President proclaimed the change of policy in this pronouncement:

"It, therefore, has seemed clear to me as President that the time has come to supplement and to implement the declaration of President Wilson by the further declaration that the definite policy of the United States from now on is one opposed to armed intervention."

Prefers Joint Action.

The President did not rule armed intervention to preserve order completely out of consideration. But if there is to be armed intervention, he declared, it is not to be by the United States alone, but jointly by the American nations.

"The maintenance of constitutional government in other nations," said Mr. Roosevelt, "is not a sacred obligation devolving upon the United States alone. The maintenance of law and the orderly processes of government in this hemisphere is the concern of each individual nation within its own borders first of all. It is only if and when the failure of orderly processes affects the other nations of the continent that it becomes their concern, and the point to stress is that in such an event it becomes the joint concern of a whole continent, in which we are all neighbors."

Takes Text from Wilson.

The President found his text in Mr. Wilson's Mobile speech in 1913 declaring that "the United States will never again seek one additional foot of terri-

MISS KUESTER'S CASH STILL BEARS CURSE, IT SEEMS

Curse or no curse, Miss Goldie Kuester, 30 years old, 5847 North Maplewood avenue, wants her $2,000 life savings returned, she told Sergt. Edward Erickson of the Summerdale station last night.

About two weeks ago, she said, she met Mrs. Emily Palmer, 25 years old, a medium at 2319 Devon avenue, who suggested that if Miss Kuester would produce some money she would remove its curse and make it grow.

Miss Kuester produced $2,000. Last night Mrs. Palmer appeared at Miss Kuester's home, put an envelope supposedly containing the $2,000 under her pillow, and said: "The curse will now be removed," according to Miss Kuester. Mrs. Palmer left. Miss Kuester looked into the envelope. The curse apparently was still in effect, for Miss Kuester found only torn up newspapers in it. The police are looking for Mrs. Palmer.

tory by conquest," and invoking toward the Latin American republics a policy of subordination of material interests to considerations of human liberty.

Mr. Wilson's high ideals had not been lived up to, Mr. Roosevelt thought, largely because of the convulsion of the world war.

Refraining from any fulsome eulogy of Mr. Wilson, in whose administration he served as assistant secretary of the navy, the President dwelt on the circumstances that prevented a realization of Mr. Wilson's vision of world reorganization. Mr. Wilson, said the President, stirred the imagination of the masses but failed to move the "so-called statesmen" who gathered to make the "so-called peace" of 1919. The league of nations was handicapped from the start by motives of "political profit, personal prestige, and national aggrandizement."

"We are not members and we do not contemplate membership," the President added. "We are giving cooperation to the league in every matter which is not primarily political and in every matter which obviously represents the views and the good of the peoples of the world as distinguished from the views and the good of political leaders, of privileged classes or of imperialistic aims."

ROOSEVELT'S SPEECH

Washington, D. C., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—The text of the speech by President Roosevelt tonight before the Woodrow Wilson Foundation follows:

"'Comprehension must be the soil in which shall grow all the fruits of friendship.' These words, used by President Wilson in the Mobile speech in 1913, can well serve as a statement of policy by the government of the United States. That policy applies equally to a comprehension of our internal problems and our international relations.

"Woodrow Wilson was a teacher, and when he used the word 'comprehension' he meant it not in terms of the statesmen and political leaders and business executives and financial kings; he meant it rather in its application to the peoples of the world who are constantly going to school to learn simple truths in order that they and their neighbors can live their lives more safely, more happily, more fully.

Gives Credit to Wilson.

"In every continent and in every country Woodrow Wilson accelerated comprehension on the part of the people themselves. It is, I believe, true that the events of the last ten months have caused a greater interest in government, the problems of government, and the purposes of government than in any similar period in our history; and yet this recent interest and comprehension would have been impossible for the American people had they not had from Woodrow Wilson the original stimulus and the original understanding of which he spoke twenty years ago.

"In that speech in Mobile President Wilson first enunciated the definite statement 'that the United States will never again seek one additional foot of territory by conquest.' The United States accepted that declaration of policy. President Wilson went further, pointing out with special reference to our Latin American neighbors that material interests must never be made superior to human liberty.

All Share Responsibility.

"Nevertheless and largely as a result of the convulsion of the world war and its after effects the complete fruition of that policy of unselfishness has not in every case been obtained. And in this we, all of us, have to share the responsibility.

"I do not hesitate to say that if I had been engaged in a political campaign as a citizen of some other American republic I might have been strongly tempted to play upon the fears of my compatriots of that republic by charging the United States of North America with some form of imperialistic desire for selfish aggrandizement.

"As a citizen of some other republic I might have found it difficult to believe fully in the altruism of the richest American republic. In particular, as a citizen of some other republic, I might have found it hard to approve of the occupation of the territory of other republics, even as a temporary measure.

Opposes Armed Intervention.

"It therefore has seemed clear to me as President that the time has come to supplement and to implement the declaration of President Wilson by the further declaration that the definite policy of the United States from now on is one opposed to armed intervention.

"The maintenance of constitutional government in other nations is not a sacred obligation devolving upon the United States alone. The maintenance of law and the orderly processes of government in this hemisphere is the concern of each individual nation, within its own borders first of all.

"It is only if and when the failure of orderly processes affects the other nations of the continent that it becomes their concern; and the point to stress is that in such an event it becomes the joint concern of a whole continent in which we are all neighbors.

"It is the comprehension of that doctrine—a comprehension not by the leaders alone but by the peoples of all the American republics—that has made the conference now concluding its labors in Montevideo such a fine success. A better state of feeling among the neighbor nations of North and Central and South America exists today than at any time within a generation. For participation in the bringing about of that result we can feel proud that so much credit belongs to the secretary of state of the United States, Cordell Hull.

"In the wider world field a chain of events has led, of late, away from rather than towards the ultimate objectives of Woodrow Wilson.

"The superficial observer charges this failure to the growth of the spirit of nationalism. But in so doing he suggests a nationalism in its narrower, restrictive sense, and a nationalism of that kind supported by the overwhelming masses of the people themselves in each nation.

"I challenge that description of the world population today.

"The blame for the danger to world peace lies not in the world population but in the political leaders of that population.

"The imagination of the masses of world population was stirred as never before by President Wilson's gallant appeal to them—to those masses—to banish future war. His appeal meant little to the imagination or the hearts of a large number of the so-called statesmen who gathered in Paris to assemble a treaty of so-called peace in 1919. I saw that with my own eyes and heard that with my own ears. Political profit, personal prestige, national aggrandizement attended the birth of the league of nations, and handicapped it from its infancy by seeking their own profit and their own safety first.

"Nevertheless, through the league directly, or through its guiding motives indirectly, the states of the world have groped forward to find something better than the old way of composing their differences.

League Provides Machinery.

"The league has provided a common meeting place; it has provided machinery which serves for international discussion; and in very many practical instances it has helped labor and health and commerce and education, and last but not least, the actual settlement of many disputes great and small among nations great and small.

"Today the United States is cooperating more openly in the fuller utilization of the league of nations machinery than ever before.

"I believe that I express the views of my countrymen when I state that the old policies, alliances, combinations and balances of power have proved themselves inadequate for the preservation of world peace. The league of nations, encouraging as it does the extension of nonaggression pacts, of reduction of armament agreements, is a prop in the world peace structure.

"We are not members and we do not contemplate membership. We are giving cooperation to the league in every matter which is not primarily political and in every matter which obviously represents the views and the good of the peoples of the world as distinguished from the views and the good of political leaders, of privileged classes or of imperialistic aims.

Ninety Per Cent for Cuts.

"If you figure the world's population at approximately one billion and a half people, you will find it safe to guess that at least 90 per cent of all of them are today content with the territorial limits of their respective nations and are willing further to reduce their armed forces tomorrow if every other nation in the world will agree to do the same thing.

"Back of the threat to world peace lies the fear and perhaps even the possibility that the other 10 per cent of the people of the world may go along with a leadership which seeks territorial expansion at the expense of neighbors and which under various pleas in avoidance are unwilling to reduce armament or stop rearmament even if everybody else agrees to nonaggression and to arms reduction.

"If this 10 per cent can be persuaded by the other 90 per cent to do their own thinking and not be led we will have practical peace, permanent peace, real peace throughout the world. Our own country has reduced the immediate steps to this greatest of objectives to practical and reasonable terms.

Outlines His Program.

"I have said to every nation in the world something to this effect:

"1. Let every nation agree to eliminate over a short period of years, and by progressive steps, every weapon of offense in its possession and to create no additional weapons of offense. This does not guarantee a nation against invasion unless you implement it with the right to fortify its own border with permanent and nonmobile defenses, and also with the right to assure itself through international continuing inspection that its neighbors are not creating nor maintaining offensive weapons of war.

"2. A simple declaration that no nation will permit any of its armed forces to cross its own borders into the territory of another nation. Such an act would be regarded by humanity as an act of aggression and, as an act, therefore, that would call for condemnation by humanity.

"3. It is clear, of course, that no such general agreement for the elimination of agression and of the weapons of offensive warfare would be of any value to the world unless every nation, without exception, entered into the agreement by solemn obligation. If then such an agreement were signed by a great majority of the nations on the definite condition that it would go into effect only when signed by all the nations, it would be a comparatively easy matter to determine which nations in this enlightened time are willing to go on record as belonging to the small minority of mankind which still believes in the use of the sword for invasion of and attack upon their neighbors.

"I did not make this suggestion until I felt assured, after a hard-headed practical survery, that the temper of the overwhelming majority of all men and women in my own country, as well as those who make up the world's population, subscribes to the fundamental objective I have set forth and to the practical road to that objective.

Up to People, He Says.

"The political leaders of many of these peoples interpose and will interpose argument, excuse, befogging amendment—yes, and even ridicule. But I tell them that the men and women they serve are so far in advance of that type of leadership that we could get a world accord on world peace immediately if the people of the world spoke for themselves.

"Through all the centuries and down to the world conflict of 1914 to 1918, wars were made by governments. Woodrow Wilson challenged that necessity. That challenge made the people, who create and who change governments, think. They wondered with Woodrow Wilson whether the people themselves could not some day prevent governments from making war.

"It is but an extension of the challenge of Woodrow Wilson for us to propose in this newer generation that from now on war by governments shall be changed to peace by peoples."

EARLE REYNOLDS FILES PETITION IN BANKRUPTCY

Former Chicagoan Acts at Los Angeles.

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—Earle H. Reynolds, formerly president of the defunct People's Trust and Savings Bank of Chicago and son of George M. Reynolds, today filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy in the federal district court here.

The bill listed liabilities of $1,623,723 and assets of only $18,721. The only exemptions asked by Reynolds were wearing apparel and jewelry, valued at $100. Unpaid items to more than a score of clubs scattered throughout the country were listed, including one for $5,000 owed to the Polo Beach club of Miami.

Reynolds has been living here since his retirement from the banking business in Chicago and now resides at the Huntington hotel in Pasadena.

People's Depositors All Paid.

Reynolds is the only son of George M. Reynolds, for many years the head of the Continental Illinois National Bank of Chicago. The elder Reynolds retired from the Continental last year, a few months after the resignation of his younger brother, Arthur, as an officer of the bank.

Earle Reynolds became head of the People's Bank and Trust company in 1914 and was then the youngest bank head in Chicago. The bank was liquidated in June, 1932, paying off all depositors in full. He also served as president of the Chicago Clearing House association for two years.

Among the items listed in Reynolds' bill was debt of $150,000 to the Middle West Utilities company. This loan was made while Samuel Insull was still head of the utilities company in 1931 and was the subject of severe criticism by the receivers of the company.

Loaned Funds by Insull.

In a report to the federal court in Chicago the receivers declared that Insull had wrongfully diverted funds in making the loan to Reynolds. The money was loaned to Reynolds for the use of the bank.

The loan was secured by People's bank stock. Reynolds listed secured claims of $1,502,369. Unpaid state and local taxes, mostly in Illinois, were listed at $17,949.

The schedule was one of the most complete filed here in recent months, setting forth the indebtedness of the petitioner in detail. The petition was referred to Federal Referee Rupert B. Turnbull.

U. S. HAS SOLD 39,000 CASES OF BOOTLEG LIQUOR IN GOTHAM

Washington, D. C., Dec. 28.—(AP)—Government sales of confiscated bootleg liquor have approximated 39,000 cases in the New York area since the repeal of prohibition, Attorney General Cummings said today that between 115,000 and 120,000 cases were seized in the southern and eastern districts of New York and in New Jersey during the year and a half prior to repeal. This stock was kept on hand in expectation of the legalization of sales.

GREEN TO TAKE PATLAK EVIDENCE BEFORE U. S. JURY

United States Attorney Dwight H. Green, who will return today from Washington, is understood to have obtained permission to institute a federal grand jury investigation of Attorney David Y. Patlak, accused of defrauding clients of more than $160,000 on the representation that he could get loans for them from the Home Owners' Loan corporation.

Melvin Purvis, Chicago agent of the division of investigation of the department of justice, was reported to have gathered evidence of Patlak's activities sufficient to justify grand jury action. Attorney Green will take the case before the jury Jan. 4, it was reported.

Chief Justice Philip J. Finnegan of the Criminal court yesterday granted a petition for a sanity hearing.

GOVERNOR BACKS KELLY'S PLAN TO PAY TEACHERS

Intends to Provide for Legislative Aid.

Gov. Horner in Springfield last night announced that he was heartily in favor of Mayor Kelly's program for paying the Chicago teachers and other school employés up to date. The governor stated that he would make his call for a third special session of the legislature broad enough to include any measure intended to bolster the finances of the schools.

The mayor's program would mean the sale of $40,000,000 worth of school bonds to the federal government. Under this plan the school property not used for educational purposes would be offered to Uncle Sam as additional security. In order to pledge the property, which under the present law it can only sell or lease, the board of education would require authority from the legislature.

"I am more than willing to support Mayor Kelly and the school board in the struggle to pay the teachers," asserted Gov. Horner. "If any special phase of the school problem would be included in the call for the third special session the legislation might be too limited. That is why the call should be made broad enough to help out not only Chicago but other financially crippled school districts in the state."

Discusses Other School Issues.

The governor then discussed the other three points in the reconstruction program proposed by the school trustees at a meeting Wednesday.

Referring to the suggested apportionment of state liquor taxes to the school districts, he said the liquor revenues of the cities should also be turned over to the schools.

"I shall insist that the cities assume their local responsibilities toward financing the schools as well as the state," said Gov. Horner. "This question undoubtedly will be broached when school legislation is discussed at the next session."

Favors Other Proposals.

The other two measures advanced by the school board, which had to do with the manipulation of the building and educational funds of the board, found favor with the governor, with the qualifications that they must be legal and a real aid toward paying teachers.

In connection with one of the proposals, that for paying all operating help, such as school engineers, janitors, and firemen, out of the building fund instead of the educational fund, the governor stated that this could be done if ample consideration were given to the school housing situation. The salaries of the operating employés, now paid out of the educational fund, which has a huge deficit, amount to $5,500,000 for 1933. The building fund does not have a deficit.

The governor expressed a similar opinion regarding the last measure in the school reconstruction program, that of cutting the building fund tax rate 15 cents and adding this amount to the educational fund.

Hopes for Permanent Solution.

"It is the board's responsibility to see that schools are made safe and healthful," said Gov. Horner. "We must guard against unwise legislation that might mortgage the future. There is always a tendency in times like these to jump at conclusions. I am hopeful that bills can be passed that will not only solve the Chicago school problem temporarily but permanently."

The pay day for the school workers for their services during the last two weeks of April of this year probably will start next week. The teachers and other employés will be given 1933 tax anticipation warrants in lieu of cash. Board officials explained that it would require several days to prepare the warrants and have them signed.

MIKADO CONFERS NAME OF AKIHITO ON INFANT HEIR

TOKIO, Dec. 29.—[Friday.]—(AP)—Emperor Hirohito, in court ceremonies founded in the lore of the ages, today conferred a name upon the infant heir to the Japanese throne, born seven days ago. The name chosen was Akihito Tsugu No Miya, meaning "prince of the august succession and enlightened benevolence." As the 125th emperor of Japan, the little crown prince will be known as Akihito.

The naming ceremony lasted for two hours and was invested with all the pomp that is the heritage of Japanese royalty. The name was chosen, not by the infant's father, but by learned men of the imperial household.

The characters were written by Emperor Hirohito on a sheet of soft white paper and carried into the presence of the unimpressed infant. Included in the procedure was the giving of the ceremonial bath. While the bath was in progress, eloquent passages from ancient Japanese literature were read to the infant by attendants hidden from his view by screens. These passages are believed to influence the character and destiny of the future emperor. Other attendants meanwhile kept up a musical twanging on a bow of old design.

WIN FIRST MOVE TO STOP CHANGE IN CRAWFORD AV.

City to Wait for Court Hearing.

Crawford avenue business men who are seeking to enjoin city officials from carrying out the changing of the name of the thoroughfare to Pulaski road won an initial victory yesterday before Julius Miner, master in chancery to Circuit Judge William V. Brothers.

Leon Hornstein, first assistant corporation counsel, entered a gentlemen's agreement that no action will be taken by city officials to change street signs until Master Miner has made his recommendations on Jan. 5 on the business men's plea for an injunction. The master in chancery, in his comment on the arguments, gave strong indication that he may recommend an injunction.

The bill for injunction was brought by five business concerns on Crawford avenue, who stated in their bill that 76 per cent of the property owners on the street oppose the name change, as well as some 40 civic associations. They charged that they have spent, collectively, millions of dollars in advertising their locations, and that to change the name of the street would destroy the good will built up by the advertising. Attorney Vernon Loucks appeared for them yesterday.

Calls Council Unreasonable.

"There is no sense in our going to this great expense in changing the name," said Attorney Loucks. "The city council was unreasonable in its exercise of power and it is up to the courts to use discretion and reason in this matter."

Attorney Hornstein argued in reply that the city council has absolute jurisdiction in the matter of street names, and that property owners cannot appeal to the courts for an injunction unless they can show definite property damage.

"If a citizen has a property right which is being impaired the courts can protect him," commented Master Miner. "In this case I can see the invasion of a property right in the loss of advertising, but the question is, Has a citizen a property right in the actual name of the street?

Admits Damage.

"The bill shows that the property owners would sustain damage, and the city has not shown that a court of equity cannot spike an unreasonable abuse of power. There does not appear to me any great benefit or great need to the city in this change. However, I will take the matter under advisement to go into the law, and ask that the city consent to leave the matter in status quo until I rule on Jan. 5."

After some discussion, during which Master Miner said he would issue a temporary injunction if city officials did not agree to leave the street name unchanged, Mr. Hornstein agreed to withhold action on street signs. Master Miner suggested that the complainants might amend their bill to include a charge that they would suffer a loss as taxpayers through the cost of changing the street signs.

BABY FLOWN 1,400 MILES UNDERGOES OPERATION TODAY

Baltimore, Md., Dec. 28.—(AP)—A brain operation which hospital attachés described as "very dangerous" tonight was scheduled for 5 month old Sue Trammell, the baby flown here from Houston, Tex. It will be performed, they said, "sometime tomorrow morning."

By the operation Dr. Walter E. Dandy, brain surgeon, hopes to cure the hydro-cephalus, or water on the brain, from which the baby is suffering.

Without the operation, it was said at Johns Hopkins hospital, the disease soon would destroy the brain. Another child of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Trammell, Sue's parents, died of the same disease several months ago.

The Trammells and Sue's grandmother, uncle and nurse, who made the 1,400 mile, 11 hour airplane trip with her, were tense today as surgeons kept the baby under constant observation. They understood that Sue's life depends upon the success of the operation and that she is small and weak.

However, doctors were pleased at the baby's condition today, and Dr. Dandy was determined to make the life saving attempt unless some unforeseen change developed.

2 BOYS, 19, PLAN AIR TRIP TO FIND OLD CIVILIZATION

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Two 19 year old New Jersey boys will set out from here within a few days on a dangerous aerial expedition to chart the hitherto unmapped jungle regions of southeastern Mexico, Guatemala, and Honduras.

Robert Buck, the pilot, and Robert Nixon, photographer and artist, both of Westfield, N. J., plan to wait until Sunday to see a bullfight. Then they will set out on the two months' trip, during which they will try to locate traces of ancient Indian civilization in the now uninhabited tropical sections of the three countries.

They expect to retrace part of the territory mapped by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh several years ago. The archaeological department of the University of Pennsylvania has given them "assignments" to fulfill, and the sketches and photographs Nixon makes will be turned over to the university.

GOVERNOR URGES CITIES TO BACK LIQUOR RULE BILL

Says Municipalities Lack Licensing Power.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Gov. Horner, in a long distance interview from Springfield yesterday, urged that Chicago and the other municipalities of the state throw their strength behind his effort to pass a state liquor control bill.

"The time has come," he said, "when the cities of Illinois must join with the state to pass liquor control legislation. Otherwise those cities are helpless so far as licenses and regulation are concerned."

Earlier in the day the governor had reiterated his assertion that city licensing ordinances are worthless until a state statute is enacted, and he added that any retailer could refuse to take out a city license and could obtain a court injunction to restrain municipal interference with his business.

Governor Clarifies Stand.

This was construed in Chicago as a hint to tavernkeepers to ignore the city license. It also was seen as threatening a battle between the police and huge batteries of lawyers. But in his second interview Gov. Horner indicated that he had no such thought in mind, that he was not advising retailers to defy the city, but was urging the cities to join him in unquestionably establishing full legal power for control of the situation.

Following the governor's first interview, Mayor Kelly condemned the assertion that cities have no power of control. He said that sound legal advice was to the contrary and that he would continue to use his powers for the enforcement of the temporary ordinance in all its phases, including the closing of hoodlum owned bars and other disreputable places.

"Under the present legal conditions," said Gov. Horner, "I am satisfied that neither Chicago nor any other city in Illinois has the power to adopt a valid ordinance to regulate and license places for the sale of liquor. They have the right to prohibit, but not the right to permit. Any city's attempt to license before state legislation is enacted will result in confusion and probably in litigation.

"Any tavernkeeper can refuse to take out a license from the city, and if the municipality seeks to enforce its ordinance he may go into court and seek an injunction to restrain the municipality from enforcing its ordinance."

Reply from Mayor Kelly.

Mayor Kelly's reply to this was in a "let them try it" tone, implying that he is prepared to use the police power to its fullest extent against unlicensed venders.

"The cities," he said, "have a duty as well as a right to control the sale of liquor, at least until the state has some law to regulate it. It would be hard to imagine what would happen if the cities did not do so. The cities throughout the state have received legal advice that their rights are the same as we construe ours here to be."

There was no suggestion of a rapprochement between Gov. Horner and Mayor Kelly. The legislative battle over the proposed state law is not scheduled for resumption until next Wednesday. The Lager house bill is on second reading in the senate. The general belief is that it must go to a joint conference committee of the two houses before there is a final showdown on the proposed act.

DIES SUDDENLY OF HEART ATTACK.

BRITTEN TO REQUEST EMBARGO ON FRENCH WINES AND BRANDY

Washington, D. C., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—Assailing the state department as a "spineless institution" for having consented to permit the importation of French wines and brandy, at a time when France was in default on its war debt to the United States, Congressman Fred Britten [Rep., Ill.] today announced that he would seek a complete embargo against French liquors.

"The state department once more showed itself to be a spineless institution," Britten said, "when it humbly consented to trade some American apples and pears for a million and a half gallons of French wines and brandies for importation into the United States at a time when the French government is deliberately defaulting in its payment of its debt of honor to us.

"Defaulter France will later find excuse for not taking our apples and pears just as they have found subterfuge for breaking other agreements with us.

"Whatever influence I may have with the Roosevelt administration will be used to bring about a complete embargo of French wines and brandy."

EXCLUDE WOMEN FROM NEW BAR OF YACHT CLUB

Women will not be served at the bar of the S. S. Edgewater Beach, new home of the Edgewater Beach Yacht club, to be opened tomorrow on the ground floor of the Edgewater Beach hotel, officials of the club announced yesterday. William M. Dewey, president of the club, announced that the step was taken because it was believed that the city had reacted unfavorably to the serving of women at public bars. He announced that women with escorts may be served at tables and that a special room will be set aside for women who go to the club without escorts.

STRIKE AGAINST GASOLINE PRICE IN PORTO RICO

Traffic Is Crippled in All Parts of Island.

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Dec. 28.—A gasoline boycott as a public protest against the price of 25 cents a gallon paralyzed from noon on today all normal means of transportation throughout the island.

Public motor vehicles, including 200 busses, which carry 70,000 passengers daily between residential and downtown San Juan, stopped promptly at noon. Private cars not off the streets by that time went into garages.

Those remaining on the streets received flattened tires and frequently broken windshields. No horse drawn carriages are to be found in the entire city, but horse drawn carts, usually carrying light freight from piers, did a thriving business taking business men and others to their homes in the suburbs three or four miles out of San Juan.

Bicycles Commandeered.

Men on roller skates, with their coats under their arms, went to or from offices down the middle of the highways, while bicycles, some brought by Santa Claus for sons and daughters, were commandeered by fathers.

During this most complete tieup of transportation the island has ever known a conference was held at La Fortaleza, where Acting Governor Horton called officials and citizens to discuss the best means of maintaining order.

Horton warned that vandalism must stop and that if the police were not able to preserve order the national guard and then the army would be called. United States District Judge Wells insisted that the only effective means of averting serious trouble was the arbitrary fixing of a gasoline price by the government pending an investigation as to an ultimate fair price.

Suggests 20 Cent Price.

Judge Wells suggested that a price of 20 cents a gallon be set, with the understanding that neither the companies nor the public be prejudiced by that price in the final finding. His plan was adopted by acclamation and Horton immediately notified gasoline company representatives and strikers.

Col. E. Francis Riggs, chief of the insular police, broadcast early tonight instructions to the police to keep order at any cost. During the day Col. Riggs' automobile, in a seven mile drive between San Juan and Rio Piedras, received 23 punctures in six tires.

At Mayaguez the chamber of commerce and Rotary club voted to protest to Secretary of War Dern against the conditions of anarchy which they said exist on the island as a result of the gasoline boycott.

RECORDS SHOW CRIMES FEWER HERE IN 1933

There was a general decrease in crime in Chicago in 1933, as compared with 1932, especially as regards automobile thefts, Police Commissioner Allman pointed out yesterday in his annual report to Mayor Kelly. Automobile thefts were reduced 19.5 per cent below the 1932 level.

Robberies decreased 8.9 per cent; burglaries, 5.3 per cent; aggravated assaults, 4.6 per cent; rape, 8.8 per cent, and larceny cases involving more than $50, by 5 per cent. There was a 12.7 per cent increase in larcenies involving less than $50, which Commissioner Allman laid to the depression. Murders also increased by 1 per cent over the 1932 toll.

"This record is remarkable," commented Mayor Kelly, "especially in view of the fact that we had 7,000,000 World's Fair visitors in the city last summer, and that tens of thousands more automobiles than usual were parked on the streets nearly every day of the Fair period."

HARVEY BAILEY LOSES HIS FARM IN WISCONSIN

Kenosha, Wis., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—Harvey Bailey, in Leavenworth federal prison for life, lost his 160 acre farm in Kenosha county in the Circuit court here today when a $14,400 mortgage was foreclosed.

Mary K. Peterson, Burlington, held the mortgage. Papers were served on Bailey in his cell. He purchased the farm several years ago under the alias of Thomas Brennan.

Gilbert A. Karcher, Burlington attorney, represented the plaintiff in the hearing and the judgment was ordered by Judge E. B. Belden. Bailey went to prison from Oklahoma for kidnaping.

JUDGE FEINBERG TO HEAR FACTOR KIDNAPING TRIAL

4 Touhy Hoodlums Win Delay to Jan. 16.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Bert Mayfield, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary; Walter Engle, robbery, sentenced to 20 years in the penitentiary under the habitual criminal act; Walter Jansen, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary by Judge Harry B. Miller.

Aaron Brown, assault to rape, sentenced to 1 to 14 years in the penitentiary; Edward Braber, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary by Judge Grover C. Niemeyer.

Judge Michael Feinberg was assigned yesterday by Chief Justice Philip J. Finnegan of the Criminal court to preside at the trial of Roger Touhy and three members of his gang who are charged with the kidnaping of John Factor, wealthy speculator. At the same time start of the trial, which had been scheduled for Jan. 2, was delayed until Jan. 16.

The continuance was granted after Attorney Aaron Gerch, said to be an office associate of Attorney William Scott Stewart, appeared in court and announced that he had just been retained as counsel for the defense.

The appearance of Attorney Gerch, court attachés said, made certain the fact that the defense would be conducted by Attorney Stewart, who successfully defended Touhy, Edward [Father Tom] McFadden, and Gustav [Gloomy Gus] Schaefer in a St. Paul federal court on charges of kidnaping William J. Hamm, wealthy brewer.

Insist They Are Penniless.

At a previous court hearing here, Touhy, McFadden, and Schaefer joined the fourth defendant in the Factor case, Albert [Polly Nose] Kator, in a statement that they were penniless. Public Defender Benjamin Bachrach, appointed to the defense at that time, was refused his request to withdraw yesterday until the start of the trial.

Attorney Stewart, it was learned, is on a boat trip to South America and is scheduled to return to the United States in time for the trial. Court attachés persisted in their belief that Attorney Stewart would appear in the face of a denial by Attorney Gerch that he is affiliated with the absent attorney.

First Assistant State's Attorney Wilbert Crowley argued against the delay in the start of the trial and insisted that the hearing start on Jan. 2.

State Ready for Trial.

"The state is ready and anxious for trial," the prosecutor said. "The defendants have had ample time to hire counsel. As a matter of international courtesy this case should be brought to trial as soon as possible. Mr. Factor has been ordered removed to England and has been allowed to remain for the kidnaping trial only through courtesy of the two governments involved."

Prosecutor Crowley referred to the fact that Factor was ordered to England by the United States Supreme court to stand trial on a charge that he defrauded British investors of more than $7,000,000.

Judge Feinberg warned the defense that all preliminary motions must be disposed of by Jan. 8, and declared that no further delay would be tolerated in starting of the trial.

SIX ARRESTED BY DILLINGER SEARCH SQUAD

Six men were arrested last night by Sergt. Frank Reynolds and his squad, working on Capt. John Stege's special Dillinger detail. Just why they were picked up police declined to say.

The prisoners were Jake Silverman, 41 years old, a restaurant owner, and Max Schiaber, 40, his friend, both of 3057 North Kedzie avenue; Joseph Burke, 31, of 4905 Quincy street, owner of a tavern at Trevor, Wis.; Anthony Romano, 36, of 647 Rush street, a clerk, and Sam and William Marcowsky, brothers, of 4144 Roosevelt road. Sam, 58 years old, is a salesman, and William, 64, is a commission merchant.

According to Sergt. Reynolds, the six "were found in a taxicab at Ohio and Clark streets." The men were turned over to the detective bureau.

Police said that Romano carried a loaded automatic pistol and wore a star bearing the number 497 and inscription "Inspector Board of Local Improvements."

Five Masked Bandits Raid Plant for $1,000

Five bandits, disguised by black masks cut from women's stockings, yesterday took $1,000 in a holdup of the office of the Northwestern Yeast company, at 1750 North Ashland avenue. The gang, three of whom were armed with shotguns, entered the plant, dragged Miss Lucille Rabiega, telephone operator, away from her switchboard, and forced her and a dozen other women and several men to lie on the floor. Raymond Brose, cashier in the office, was compelled to open a cash box and surrender the money. They fired several warning shots into a wall before they left.

WOMAN KILLED, 3 HURT AS AUTO HITS STREET CAR

Victim's Sister, Son and Niece Hurt.

Mrs. Josephine Tamillo, 40 years old, 7121 Milwaukee avenue, Niles, was fatally injured and her 10 year old son, her sister and a niece were critically injured last night when the automobile in which they were riding skidded on icy pavement and crashed into an east bound street car in 79th street near Yale avenue. Mrs. Tamillo died while being carried to the Auburn Park hospital, where the injured also were taken.

The automobile was driven by Mrs. Tamillo's niece, Mrs. Genevieve Wilnowski, 29 years old, 4015 North Mansfield avenue. Mrs. Wilnowski, her mother, Mrs. Martha Hejga, 50 years old, who is Mrs. Tamillo's sister, and Mrs. Tamillo's son, Norbert, were the injured.

Visit Victim's Daughter.

The Gresham police were informed that the party was returning from a visit to Mrs. Tamillo's daughter, who is in the St. Mary Magdalene convent at 83d street and Saginaw avenue. Mrs. Tamillo's husband, Paul, is the owner of the Niles Gardens, a tavern in Niles, and the Dew Drop inn, 3350 Diversey avenue.

Walter C. Brown, 53 years old, 246 North Washtenaw avenue, a deputy state oil inspector, was killed last night by a hit and run car in Washington boulevard at Sacramento boulevard. Police said he was crossing the street on foot against the lights. The automobile which hit him, a new sedan, contained a man and two girls. Brown was a former city license bureau employé.

Year's Toll Now 1,114.

These two deaths increased the 1933 motor toll in Cook county to 1,114.

John Bell, 92 years old, was killed last evening when he was struck in front of the Lake county poor farm at Libertyville, of which he was an inmate, by an automobile driven by Earl T. Langworthy, 131 West Park avenue, Libertyville. At the home it was said that Bell had slipped away, contrary to regulations, for a walk in Milwaukee avenue. He was formerly a landscape gardener.

Teacher Hurt in Crash.

Lawrence Collins, 42 years old, 8316 South Elizabeth street, and his wife, Mrs. Mabel Collins, 41 years old, were seriously injured last evening when their automobile collided at 76th street and Ashland avenue with another driven by John Surchik, 6734 South Maplewood avenue. Collins is a teacher at the Harper High school. Surchik was arrested and charged with reckless driving.

BACK ROOSEVELT RECOVERY PLANS, W. H. HAYS' PLEA

Sullivan, Ind., Dec. 28.—(AP)—Will H. Hays, former national chairman of the Republican party, in an address here today, urged "sympathetic support, regardless of politics, be given the leadership in this emergency for the great and essential purposes of recovery."

Mr. Hays, who is president of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, Inc., is spending the holidays at his home here. He spoke before the Rotary club.

"I am not suggesting a blind agreement on economic questions against one's own judgment," Mr. Hays said. "Nor am I suggesting that there be no minority party.

"There will be mistakes, of course. The question is whether or not the objectives are worthy and necessary, and whether or not the general direction is right.

"President Roosevelt welcomes constructive criticism and suggestions always. Many of his measures for economic recovery are already succeeding. A fair and full trial, with the sincere help of every one, should be given them all."

Mr. Hays declared that business in many lines is very much better, but that "we still have a long and hard way to go." It took five years, he said, to get to the bottom of the depression, and "we cannot get out of it in five months."

Frederick Rex, secretary of the Chicago census commission, which plans to conduct an occupancy and population census of Chicago by the employment of CWA workers, announced yesterday that the ten census districts into which the city was divided in 1930 by the federal census bureau will be followed in compiling the information.

SCIENCE TELLS HOW TO IMBIBE AND STAY SOBER

Black Coffee Is Still a Good Remedy.

Cambridge, Mass., Dec. 28.—(AP)—How to drink liquor and stay sober was described by a psychologist today before the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

It was an incidental result of new experiments on the effects of alcohol and coffee on the human body, conducted at Cornell university by Dr. A. L. Winsor and Dr. E. I. Strongin.

The experimenters confirmed the old belief that drinking black coffee is a good way to recover from the effects of drinking liquor, and made the new discovery that alcohol and coffee have an antagonistic effect against each other in the body. Taken together, alcohol and coffee have a tendency to "cancel out" each other's effects, leaving the drinker about where he started.

The tests showed also why one cocktail before eating and coffee afterward may aid digestion, and why drinkers are thirsty for water after a number of alcoholic drinks.

Alcohol Has Two Reactions.

The reason was, the scientists found, that alcohol stimulated the flow of saliva from the parotid gland, situated in front of the ear, while a drinker is sipping his drink, but greatly reduces the saliva flow as soon as it enters his blood.

Coffee, on the other hand, increases the flow of saliva, both while being swallowed and when the caffeine enters the blood, about fourteen minutes later. But when liquor and coffee are taken together, the tests showed, the coffee's effect offsets that of the alcohol and the saliva flow is normal. The saliva flow was measured by collecting it through a suction disc placed over the duct through which it entered the drinker's mouth.

Another new development at the meeting today was a chart showing the first universal, scientific war curve, plotting 902 major wars since 500 years before Christ, and showing the late world war eight times bigger than all the others rolled into one.

Great Powers Dwindle.

All of ancient Greece, of Rome, and ten centuries of Europe's sight foremost fighting nations dwindle before the statistics and implications of 1914 to 1919, as presented to the association today by Prof. Pitirim A. Sorokin, Harvard sociologist, and Lieut. Gen. N. N. Golovin.

Their curve, showing nearly the whole historical rise and falls in warlike spirit among men, points to universal peace, in their own words, as only a "miracle." It shows wars steadily worse in modern times; their apex nearly always at the peak of "cultural" and commercial influence.

A "warm and dry" weather forecast for the rest of the twentieth century and warning of a coming period of disastrous droughts were issued by a weather specialist today before the association.

These great droughts will result, he said, from the fact that four great weather cycles controlled by the sun will synchronize somewhere around the year 2000. At that period the hot, dry phases of each of the four cycles all will strike the earth at about the same time. The cycles are 27, 33, 300, and 1,400 years in length, the short ones repeating themselves several times during one long one.

FACES TAX SUIT

CLARA KIMBALL YOUNG.
[Associated Press Photo.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—Clara Kimball Young, once most famed of movie stars but in recent years battling adversity, faces a federal court battle because of income tax trouble.

United States Attorney Peirson Hall today received orders from Washington to sue the actress for $31,018, which is said to represent $19,981 erroneously given back to her as an "overpayment" from her 1917 income tax payment, although she had paid a tax of only $6,682 for that year.

Miss Young is accused of cashing the voucher for the erroneous refund, and in a previous discussion between government attorneys and her counsel made an admission of a mistaken cashing of the government check, but set up the statute of limitations and offered the government $5,000 for a compromise settlement. The case was reviewed in Washington, ending in the current orders for prosecution.

TEXAS EXECUTES 2 NEGROES, ONE WHITE SLAYER

Huntsville, Tex., Dec. 29 [Friday].—(AP)—In quick succession Dewey Hunt, convicted slayer of a Dallas street car motorman, and two Negroes sentenced to death for slayings went to their deaths in the electric chair at the state penitentiary here early today.

Hunt walked into the death chamber with a smile on his face and the current was turned on at 12:02 a. m. He was pronounced dead at 12:10 a. m.

Immediately afterward one of the Negroes, Carl Stewart, 23, sentenced to death for killing an Austin Negro, was electrocuted.

He was followed to the chair by Clarence Booker, 25, given the death penalty for killing and robbing Andy Smith, a storekeeper at Cameron, Milam county.

Arrested as Girl's Slayer as He Goes for Telegram

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—Arrested as he walked into a telegraph office to receive a message from his mother, William McMann, 20 year old electrician, was held for Grand Rapids, Mich., authorities tonight on a warrant charging him with the murder of a young woman. McMann signed a waiver of extradition.

FIND EVIDENCE OF HUMAN LIFE HERE IN ICE AGE

Savants Decide Skeleton 20,000 Years Old.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

In the map that geologists expect to draw soon, depicting the main feature of that resurrected and ghostly world known as the Pleistocene or ice age in North America, a human footstep now may be placed.

Lake Agassiz, the ice age lake, long since drained, that once covered what is now terra firma along the Canadian boundary, is 20,000 years old, according to geological measurement, and therefore the skeleton of a girl found deep in the silt at the bottom of the lake shows that man was in America before the close of the glacial age.

These things were discussed yesterday at the opening session of the Geological Society of America at Mandel hall, the University of Chicago, by Dr. George A. Thiel and Prof. Clinton R. Stauffer, both of the University of Minnesota. They linked their geological findings with the report of Prof. Albert E. Jenks of the department of anthropology of the University of Minnesota, which is expected to be published soon.

Skeleton Found in 1931.

The skeleton was found in 1931 near Pelican Rapids, Otter tail county Minn., by road builders. It has taken since then to decide what it signifies scientifically. Dr. Jenks in a partial report describes the scene.

The tractor operator, ploughing through the silt of the ancient lake bed, saw "something white and shimmering in the yellowish gray silt." The scientists were notified, and under cover of clam shells, near the broken dagger of antler horn, the face of a human skull was exposed. It lay on its left side, face turned upward. The legs were bent slightly backward at the knees and the upper legs were flexed forward at the pelvis. A shell pendant was found. The bones were of ivory color, hard and smooth, the jaws and teeth excellent.

"The indications of the skeleton," Dr. Jenks reported, "are that of a young woman, about 17 years. The skull shows distinct Mongoloid affinities. The rounding of the borders of the nasal aperture is extraordinary and is strongly reminiscent of the condition seen in anthropoid apes. It is not in the primitive American types. Morphologically, aside from the geological evidence, it is of a nature to compel its assignment as an early type of homo sapiens. It is generalized Mongoloid, not specialized American."

Might Be Eskimo Ancestor.

Dr. Thiel said that this girl might have come from a group that were the ancestors of the Eskimos.

Col. Lawrence Martin, chief of the division of maps of the Library of Congress, spoke of the possibilities of a standard map showing the glaciation in North America. From the time when it was first recognized that this country was once the scene of great advances of ice from Canada attempts have been made to visualize the shape of these ice blankets that buried the land surface. The question now is whether a point has been reached when geologists can agree on this. Dr. Frank Leverett of the United States geological survey and Prof. D. C. MacLachlan of the College of the City of Detroit talked of the Pleistocene shore lines. The positions of these old lakes are well enough known for them to receive names, such as Lake Agassiz, Lake Warren, Lake Arkona. These experts have found that the shores of these ice age lakes are not now level but have definite slopes, proving that the land has been slowly warped and tilted.

Study Origin of Moon.

How the moon originated, the present status of astronomical forces in geology, the geology of Antarctica, the famous "golden tree" rooted at the center of the earth which was supposed to be the stem from which ore veins came up as branches, were other subjects discussed. Dr. Lawrence M. Gould, geologist with the Byrd south pole expedition, reported that coal seams showed that vegetation here at one time was temperate and subtropical.

The Geological Society of America is one of the richest scientific societies and its membership is only by invitation.

FOREIGN LAW DELAYS ARKANSAS WEDDING OVER OCEAN PHONE

Eldorado, Ark., Dec. 28.—(AP)—There were unexpected difficulties in Czechoslovakia today, causing a postponement of the trans-Atlantic telephone wedding of Banjamin Labowitz and Miss Weisz Hermina, set for this morning.

While all arrangements were completed here, proof was required in Czechoslovakia that one of the contracting parties was a citizen of the United States. Labowitz is a naturalized American.

There will be a delay of about ten days.

EASY MONEY FUND GONE; TO SEEK MORE BILLIONS

Exact Amount Is Up to the President.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—The federal government's 3 billion 300 million dollar easy money fund for public works went broke today.

Jamming through a final flood of projects which took the last nickel of the huge easy money fund, and more beside, Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes, as public works administrator, also revealed definitely, for the first time, that he intends to seek more money from congress—perhaps another 3 billions.

How much the new public works fund will be, Secretary Ickes indicated, will be up to President Roosevelt, who is now busy drafting a budget for the coming year.

Although actually penniless the public works administration will continue to grind through for approval projects still pending so that they will be ready if and when congress ladles out more easy money.

Many Projects Now Stranded.

Hundreds of projects, including many from Chicagoland, have been left stranded high and dry by the ebbing of easy money. Secretary Ickes admitted that he could use another 3 billion easily on these and other projects now taking shape.

Last of the grants were approved at a public works board meeting today, but they are not to be made public until next week. So great was the last minute flood of approvals that one official declared "they would have passed the phone book if it had been before them," and Secretary Ickes admitted that the board actually allotted more money than it had left.

Some approvals will have to be rescinded before the list is made public next week.

Illinois Allotments Known.

A long list of projects involving 84 million dollars which the public works board approved on Tuesday was made public today. Seven Illinois allotments were included as follows: West Dundee, $82,000 for a sewage plant; Oswego, $19,000 for a water system; Lake county, $350,000 for a school; Catlin, $45,000 for a water works; Lincoln, $8,000 for street paving; Highland, $194,000 for school; and Springfield, $35,000 for waterworks.

Included among the other important allotments announced today was $27,534,000 to six railroads, including $9,300,000 to the Illinois Central.

Secretary Ickes also turned over $500,000 to the aeronautics branch of the department of commerce to develop a low cost airplane for widespread consumption.

Col. Theodore Roosevelt Fears Growing Debt Burden; Sees 1½ Billion as Interest

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—Unless the federal budget soon is balanced inflation will be inevitable and national credit will be destroyed, declared Col. Theodore Roosevelt today. Addressing the Manufacturers and Bankers' club at a luncheon, the former governor of Porto Rico and of the Philippines set forth that the national debt is rising until it soon will be above the wartime peak of $26,500,000,000 in 1919, while interest and sinking fund charges run a billion and a half dollars a year, or twice what it cost to run the federal government in 1916.

Attacks Public Works Relief.

The public works program was declared by Col. Roosevelt to be a "ruinously expensive" form of relief. He said it would cost only half as much to give direct cash aid to the unemployed. He urged that the problem of relief be faced on the basis of direct cash payment to those out of work.

"We seem to feel we can waste our way into prosperity," he remarked after describing some of the government's spendings of PWA easy money.

The first steps in adjustment Col. Roosevelt set forth as rigid economy through consolidation of departments and bureaus, reduction of the personnel of bureaucracy, and curtailment of semi-luxury services, but these will not suffice to balance the budget.

Seeks Another Method.

"What we must face, then, are the facts," he said. "We cannot continue year after year to finance the care of the unemployed through such great issues of bonds, as the credit of the United States will crumble and we shall not be able to obtain the money.

"We shall have the unemployed with us and, equally obvious, we must take care of them. We must find some solution which has not been tried and which will decrease national expenditures to a point where balancing the budget is a feasibility.

"We are not in good financial condition and unemployment is bound to continue for years to come. We therefore must count the costs. The facts of the matter are that a public works program is ruinously expensive. We create through the bonds issued a heavy annual fixed charge for sinking fund and interest. Many of these public works come clearly under the category of nonessentials.

Cash for Tourist Hotel.

"In list No. 3 there is a grant of $50,000 to the governor of the Virgin Islands for a tourist hotel at St. Thomas, which I am convinced will be vacant most of the year.

"The PWA also has adopted as a policy loaning money to municipalities who wish to build their own utility plants to compete with plants now in existence. I am not discussing whether or not utilities should be owned or operated by municipalities. The common sense of the matter is that if it is decided a municipality should own and operate its own plant, proper condemnation proceedings should be begun and the municipality should condemn and acquire the existing plant. Any such proceeding as the building of a competing plant is reduplication and waste of capital.

Some Examples of Waste.

"The instances I have given are but a few of many. I use them merely to show a large percentage of the work being done is not a necessity and often can be classed as a luxury.

"Furthermore, money spent through public works which finds its way into wages does not by any means all of it find its way to the unemployed in dire need. Various estimates have been given me as to the percentage of the money spent on public works that goes to the unemployed. They vary greatly, some being as low as 20 per cent. To be sure I am safe, I shall take 50 per cent.

"To illustrate my point let us take one million dollars of funds spent for public works. It makes no difference whether it is all derived from the federal government or comes in part from the states. Only about 50 per cent of its goes direct to the unemployed—namely, $500,000.

High Interest Charges.

"The interest and sinking fund charges on a bond issue for this purpose would be at least $60,000 annually. The average maintenance charges on the public works constructed would be $5,000.

"We have, therefore, saddled the people with at least $65,000 to pay annually for the $500,000 which went direct to the unemployed. If, on the other hand, $500,000 is given direct through the emergency relief administration, we have on the same basis only the annual charge of $30,000. The people have, therefore, been saved 55 per cent of the annual carrying charges.

"If the moneys expended on public works run to many billions, it can be easily seen that the annual sums are colossal, and that such a policy will spell insolvency for the nation. With public works our policy should be to spend no money unless they will become self-supporting or unless they are necessities. That should be our policy, and obviously the majority of the unemployed will not be put to work thereby, so we must find some other means.

Believes in the CCC.

"I believe that the theory of the CCC put into operation by the administration is sound. I believe it can well be a part of the government permanently. On the other hand, I do not believe the emergency relief as distributed by means of the high wages to the young men working there is the most effective way of getting governmental funds to those in greatest need.

"A determined effort on the part of the government should be made to encourage all corporations to establish for themselves old age pensions and emergency funds for unemployment. I believe unemployment reserves or insurance should be initiated, but obviously they will not be very effective at a time when unemployment is at its height.

For More Relief Funds.

"Finally, we must face this situation squarely and admit that the only way in justice to the unemployed and to the rest of the community that we can meet conditions is by expanding the distribution of emergency relief funds to the unemployed.

"We have the means at hand. The present federal emergency relief act is broad and comprehensive in its scope. After reading it, I am convinced that it contains practically all the provisions that are necessary. It provides for federal aid on a basis of one to three where state and localities do their part, and in addition places in the hands of the administrator a fund which he can use, within limits, should any individual community be in such condition that it cannot contribute its share.

"This federal emergency relief act is the basis on which I believe we can handle our necessities. We cannot let our unemployed starve, but we must take care of them in the least expensive manner possible to the government. If we do not we will pull down the entire structure and crush beneath the ruins the people we are striving to aid.

Program for Industry.

"Let us meet the matter squarely therefore on this basis of direct cash aid for the unemployed.

"It will cost only one-half as much to states and nation as we pay in the public works program. It will also give those unavoidably unemployed a sense of security which they lac know, when they can look forward only to spasmodic employment on specific public projects.

"We might profitably try to stimulate directly the recovery of industry along some such line as suggested by the Kent plan. Sixty per cent of our unemployed are in those industries which make goods to be used in production, such as machinery, tools, etc. Incentives held out by the government to get the larger consumers of this class of product to spend their money on purchasing would aid in a business revival and strike at the heart of the unemployment.

For Tax Increases.

"To sum up, I feel that to meet our present situation the country must—[a] increase taxes where practical, bearing in mind the danger involved, [b] economize in government operations on the lines I have indicated, and [c] discard our haphazard method of dealing with our unemployed as a nonrecurring phenomenon and face it squarely by

"[1] The work camps,

"[2] Full use of the federal Emergency Relief act under the conditions I have outlined for cash relief,

"[3]. Such additional aid as may come from a public works program based on paying investments and necessities, the organized individual action of various companies on emergency unemployment funds, old age pensions, etc.

"[4] Some such stimulus for the capital industries as proposed under the Kent plan."

A balanced budget the speaker held was a prime requisite.

"There is but one way to balance a budget," said Col. Roosevelt, "and that is to cut governmental expenses to the bone and to increase taxes where possible. All other moves are sophistry. We have made no genuine attempt to do so."

"At the moment the federal government is spending many more billions than it is collecting."

HOLDS NEW DEAL TEST RESTS WITH PEOPLE OF U. S.

Courts Too Slow, Says Dean Gilmore of Iowa.

Responsibility for testing the constitutionality of the provisions of the New Deal rests with the people of the United States and not with the Supreme court. This statement was made yesterday by Dean Eugene A. Gilmore of the University of Iowa law school, former vice governor general of the Philippines, speaking at the public affairs round table of the Union League club.

Dean Gilmore pointed out that the check of the Supreme court is a "very limited and postponed check, difficult to set in motion" and usually operative long after the crisis has arisen. After the matter has been placed before the court, the speaker said, the justices may rule only on the particular point raised by the suit.

Penalty of Waiting.

"To sit by and wait for the court to preserve fundamental rights is, or may well be, constitutional suicide," Dean Gilmore said. "The execution of the present recovery program has been carried on vigorously for six months and may be carried on for another six months or even a year before the Supreme court will have an opportunity to decide anything as to the constitutionality of the various statutes.

"In fact, some unbiased observers see in what is now going on a deliberate and clever guiding of the administration of this most unusual body of legislation so as to avoid a conflict in the courts on the question of unconstitutionality, and thus to establish a new social order before the complication of a possible adverse decision of the Supreme court may arise.

"Moreover, by skillful publicity, by the plea of emergency, by appeals to patriotism and party loyalty, by exhortations in the name of social justice, by fears of economic disaster and of worse alternatives if the experiment fails, criticism has been temporarily quieted or softened and resort to the courts has been discouraged.

May Find Liberties Gone.

"Those who are stressing the rôle which the Supreme court is to play in the present drama would do well to remember that through inertia, ignorance, indifference, cupidity, and fear a people may find their essential liberties gone, or practically nullified, and their constitutional institutions seriously impaired long before the judicial check can come into operation."

Dean Gilmore termed the attitude of those waiting for the Supreme court to act "an evasion of responsibility," and pointed out that there is practically no judicial check on the spending of money by congress. He said that the voters by their action last November "could hardly be said to have approved the present elaborate program," either as to constitutionality or economic soundness.

The overwhelming victory of the Democrats Dean Gilmore termed a vote of protest against the depression and pointed to the fact that the new deal at that time was only a vague and general thing

Fear of economic collapse and the avowed temporary character of proposed new deal legislation welded people together and tended to suppress opposition, the speaker said. He pointed out, however, that subsequent comment indicates that serious differences of opinion have arisen even among the dominant figures in the controlling party.

New Political Alignment.

"There are beginnings of a new political alignment," Dean Gilmore said. "Old party classifications are no longer accurate. Radical and conservative, progressive and reactionary, right and left, fundamentalist and modernist, will eventually describe the two major political parties. Voters will experience temporary difficulty in finding their proper classification.

"Pending clarification of the issues and the marshaling of men of similar beliefs there is likely to be little effective organized opposition to the present program. Therein lies a substantial danger, at least from the point of those who still believe in the essentials of the present social order."

Dean Gilmore told his audience that the administration's official family appears to be made up of an unusual association of persons of divergent social and economic beliefs in which, so far, the conservative branch has seemed to have lost out. In order to clarify the problems raised by the new deal, Dean Gilmore traced briefly the history of the constitution.

He pointed out that the framers of our constitution, men "familiar with the struggles for human liberty against tyrannical powers—whether vested in kings, in parliaments, or in mere majorities"—sought to avoid the tyranny of autocracy and the tyranny and gross incompetency of direct democracy.

Laws and Not Men.

Dean Gilmore gave the following quotations as embodying the principles of the United States philosophy of government: "The fundamental principle of American constitutional jurisprudence is that laws and not men shall govern"; "that government governs best that governs least." A third important principle, he said, is the familiar doctrine of separation of powers of government.

"There has never been among us," Dean Gilmore said, "any great enthusiasm for the state as such. We have never said, 'Government is a good thing. Let's have lots of it.' There is much, however, in the present program which indicates that there is an unusual group of very able men, willing to lend themselves to the government and working from within to make it a real state.

"With an almost evangelistic zeal and amazing confidence in governmental machinery, they seem to desire to erect a great state, national in jurisdiction, a great machine of government, which altruistically and with terrifying precision will control and direct our entire industrial and economic life.

"This assumption of power by the central government in the present recovery program is sought to be justified on the grounds of emergency, the inability or inefficiency of the states, and the greater efficiency of the federal government. As to the claim of improved efficiency, a stream rises no higher than its source. Nothing added to nothing is nothing. Inefficiency added to inefficiency gives inefficiency.

Things Far Away.

"Some people, however, seem to believe that if the addition takes place in Washington it gives efficiency. There is a strange fascination about things far away. An expert is just an ordinary man far from home. In reality the government in Washington, as to a large part of its recently assumed jurisdiction, is just another government far from home, and it is not one whit more efficient, not one whit more honest."

Dean Gilmore said that if a person viewing the problems of the New Deal still believes in a social order where the individual, under reasonable regulation and with a fair opportunity, is left to work out his own welfare he will see much to give him concern.

He pointed out that the holding corporation, with interlocking directorates, has "been vigorously and properly denounced as depriving the stockholders of their rights and as creating an irresponsible management of larger units of industry."

The Way of Planned Economy.

"There are multiplying evidences, however," Dean Gilmore said, "of a disposition, at least on the part of some participating in establishing the present 'planned economy,' to make free use of this same device as an easy way around delay and inconveniences of representative parliamentary government."

Dean Gilmore concluded with the statement that "if we are to have fundamental changes in our social order the new program ought to be set out with sufficient clearness that the average citizen can make an intelligent decision between it and the old social order. But whether it is ever thus set out the process of peaceful penetration from within must ultimately disclose its objectives, and the people and not the court must make the decision"

The speech was enthusiastically received by an audience of more than 150 guests. Many members of the audience crowded around Dean Gilmore at the conclusion of the discussion to congratulate him and question him further concerning obscure points of the New Deal.

50 MAKERS OF JEWELRY MEET TO PROTEST NRA

Declare Code Ruinous to Their Industry.

Fifty jewelry manufacturers, specializing in the production of school and college fraternity pins, held an emergency meeting yesterday at the Palmer house to protest that they and nearly a hundred other manufacturers will be driven out of business by the provisions of the precious jewelry producers' NRA code.

If the present code is permitted to stand, approximately 140 manufacturers will be wiped out, it was stated, and the $5,000,000 business they do annually will be monopolized by about ten manufacturers who are benefited by the code. A committee is to be organized to plead at Washington for a change.

Blame "Short Clause."

According to Charles D. Ellbogen of Wendell & Co., Chicago, the harm has been caused to the great majority of the manufacturers by the insertion of a short clause in the code which reads as follows:

"Where a fraternity controls the manufacture and distribution of its insignia under contract, it is an unfair trade practice for unauthorized persons to manufacture, solicit or accept orders for such insignia."

"That clause was slipped over without the knowledge of most of the manufacturers," said Mr. Ellbogen.

"It means that manufacturers making fraternity insignia for fifty and more years will be barred from business if some competitive company gets a contract with a fraternity.

Threatens Existence.

"The very existence of all but about 10 of the 150 manufacturers of school and college jewelry is threatened by this monopoly.

"The ten manufacturers benefited by the code have obtained contracts from a large number of fraternities, and the code makes it impossible for any other manufacturer to compete with them.

"The clause referred to is obviously unjust and should be eliminated if a monopoly is not to be created. That certainly was not the purpose of the national administration in setting up a code of fair practice."

ROUTS 4 WINDOW SMASHERS.

Waddie Campbell, a Pinkerton service watchman, fired on and routed four burglars who broke a window early yesterday in the Harrison liquor store, 50 East Harrison street.

150 START CWA PROJECT TEARING UP SENECA ST.

One hundred and fifty men on the CWA pay roll were busy yesterday with picks and shovels tearing up the rough foundation of Seneca street between Chicago avenue and Pearson street. This block once was macadamized. Recently deep holes in the old surface have made the street almost impassable. A resurfacing a few weeks ago of crushed rock from the old Chicago avenue water tunnel failed to remedy the situation. The present plan calls for a surface of asphalt. Max Kaplan, foreman of the project, said the men working on the job would receive employment for five weeks.

THREE HELD AS BURGLARS.

Judge Jay A. Schiller yesterday held Paul Patoky, 21 years old, 600 Roscoe street; Frank Douvikas, 21 years old, 801 Cornelia street; and Leroy Krause, 24 years old, 1800 Adams street, to the grand jury on two charges of burglary each.

106 TO GET JOBS IN CWA PROGRAM OF EDUCATION

Wilfred S. Reynolds, executive secretary of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, announced yesterday that 11 educational research projects to be conducted as part of the civil works educational program had been approved by the relief commission. The projects will be under the supervision of the graduate library school of the University of Chicago and will give employment to 106 persons, most of them research workers.

The largest of the projects calls for employment of 26 persons to make a comparative study of delinquency records and records of supervised recreational activities of children in South Chicago.

A study of library service in the metropolitan area of Chicago in relation to adult, secondary, and elementary education will give employment to twelve senior librarians, four senior research workers, and four junior clerical workers. Five research workers will conduct a survey of reading materials for use by persons enrolled in adult education classes. Other projects in the program are a study of the effect of high school education on behavior and a study to determine the effect of depression on the birth rate.

SENDS RETIRED ARMY OFFICER TO ALIMONY CELL

Circuit Judge Daniel P. Trude yesterday sent Maj. William Ogden Johnson, 1025 Central avenue, Wilmette, a retired army officer, to the county jail because he was unable to post a $2,000 bond in an alimony hearing.

Attorney Dwight McKay obtained an attachment for the arrest of Johnson, charging he is $280 in arrears in payments to Mrs. Lee Cable Johnson, who divorced him in May and was given the custody of three children. Johnson told Judge Trude that he had refused to pay the alimony because his wife had taken the children to San Diego, Cal., with her, making it impossible for him to visit them, as he was given permission to do by the divorce decree.

Judge Trude set the case for hearing Jan. 4 and set a bond of $2,000. When Johnson was unable to post it he was sent to jail. He is a son of Brig. Gen. Arthur Johnson, retired, of 322 14th street, Wilmette, and his former wife is the daughter of a retired army colonel.

BREAK WINDOW; STEAL COATS.

Burglars yesterday escaped with four fur coats valued at $1,000 after tossing an iron bar through the show window of the Morris B. Sachs Clothing company at 6638 South Halsted street.

BROTHER PLEADS TO SAVE YOUTH FROM GAS DEATH

Denver, Colo., Dec. 28.—(AP)—Hopes of Walter Reppin, 18 year old murderer, to escape death in the state's new lethal gas chamber rested tonight in an appeal for executive clemency by his brother, Herbert Reppin of Newark, N. J., to Gov. Ed C. Johnson.

The governor announced he would give a decision tomorrow.

"I will give Walter's case every consideration," Gov. Johnson said. "I don't like capital punishment. I never did, and I like it less now."

Herbert Reppin, 25, his eyes filled with tears, pleaded before Gov. Johnson for the life of the condemned youth while a 30 pound pig was killed by gas in the state penitentiary at Cañon City to test the efficiency of the chamber which replaced the gallows by legislative order.

"The test disclosed gas is far more effective and humane than any other method of execution," said Warden Roy Best.

The pig died after two plunges in an attempt to free itself from the crate in which it was confined.

DECLARES U. S. WILL CLING TO PRESS LIBERTY

Whatever the trend of political organizations in the United States, its people will cling to the freedom of the press, Dr. Willard G. Bleyer, head of the department of journalism at the University of Wisconsin, declared yesterday. He spoke before the annual convention of the American Association of Schools and Departments of Journalism in the Hotel Sherman.

"Whether we move to the right toward Fascism or to the left toward socialism and communism," said Dr. Bleyer, "we shall still hold to the right of newspapers to furnish us with the news of the day in as complete and accurate form as possible."

Yesterday's meeting was presided over by Prof. Frank Luther Mott, head of the school of journalism at the University of Iowa, because of the illness of Prof. Frederick J. Lazell of that school, who is president of the association. Today the American Association of Teachers of Journalism will open a two day convention at the Hotel Sherman.

Wife Sues for a Divorce from Duncan W. Dietrich

Mrs. Lyn Marie Dietrich, 41 years old, 258 Ridge avenue, Winnetka, yesterday filed suit for divorce in the Circuit court against Duncan W. Dietrich, head of the D. W. Dietrich Paper company at 228 North La Salle street. The bill alleges that Dietrich has been a habitual drinker for two years and has failed to support his wife and four children. Mrs. Dietrich asks alimony and the custody of the children. The couple were married on Feb. 12, 1915, and separated last July 2. A previous divorce bill filed by Mrs. Dietrich was dismissed in July, 1932, when she was reconciled with her husband.

URGE FIGHT ON U. S. 'USURPATION' BY PROSECUTORS

Press Freedom Backed by State's Attorneys.

State's attorneys representing the 102 counties of Illinois were called upon yesterday to fight attempts by the federal government to usurp the rights and prerogatives of the states.

The dangers inherent in "attempted government control of private business and proposals to curb the freedom of speech and press" were cited by State's Attorney C. W. Reed of Du Page county, president of the Illinois State's Attorneys' association, in an address to the organization. The prosecutors are holding their thirty-seventh annual convention in the Palmer house.

In former years the state's attorneys usually have considered only problems of crime and the prosecution of criminals at their gatherings. But in these days of governmental experiment it is incumbent upon all law enforcing officials, Mr. Reed said, to consider seriously "the gradual onslaught upon the basic principles of our government" and to work to preserve the constitution intact.

See Usurpation by U. S.

"There has been a tendency on the part of the government since the war to usurp more and more the rights enjoyed by the states," he said.

"Experience has taught us that criminal statutes affecting the lives, conduct, and associations of individuals with each other can be more justly enforced in limited units of territory, where judges, prosecutors, lawyers, and jurors know local conditions and local sentiment.

"A law that is unpopular in one section of this country cannot adequately be enforced in that community, and if arbitrarily executed by a government remote from that community is regarded by citizens as despotic and tyrannical.

"Attempted government control of private business under the guise of interstate commerce, where there is no element of interstate commerce, cannot and does not create respect for such law, and proposals to curb the freedom of speech and press will promote no more favorable reception on the part of the public than did unreasonable searches and seizures in the prohibition era we have just passed through."

Urges Habeas Corpus Change.

Prosecutor Reed also urged the association to take the lead in obtaining legislation to correct present habeas corpus procedure. Referring to the "Fur" Sammons case, where a notorious criminal was released from prison on the order of Judge Edward D. Shurtleff, who sat in another county than that in which Sammons was convicted, Mr. Reed asserted that only judges having original jurisdiction over a criminal should be allowed to issue writs of habeas corpus for such release.

In an interview later Prosecutor Reed discussed the liquor regulation question in Illinois. He asserted the sale of liquor should be regulated immediately and predicted more crime than during the prohibition period if regulations are not made legal soon.

State's Attorney Courtney also addressed the convention, outlining the work of his office in eliminating rackets. He urged coöperation between all the state's attorneys in the state, asserting that criminals could be more successfully prosecuted if county lines were forgotten.

Loesch Tells of Work.

Frank J. Loesch, president of the Chicago crime commission, told the prosecutors how the crime commission works and described the bulky files it keeps on all known criminals. This information has been of great value in the prosecution of such criminals, he said.

United States Attorney Dwight H. Green will be the main speaker at this morning's session.

Urges Guilds of Lawyers to Raise Legal Standards

Charging that bar associations are inert and will not act on their own initiative, Prof. Karl N. Llewellyn of Columbia university yesterday told the 31st annual meeting of the Association of American Law Schools in the Stevens hotel that action by the federal government is necessaray to form a "guild sense of responsibility of the bar as a bar to justify its law created monopoly of affording service to all who need it at a reasonable fee."

The building up of such a guild structure, he asserted, would remove the legal keystone supporting political-criminal alliances as well as afford means for a decent living for "that half of the metropolitan bar now struggling for a scant livelihood."

Points to Evils of System.

"Although few lawyers will admit it," said Prof. Llewellyn, "the present system is fundamental to certain rotten conditions. The poor man, not knowing where to turn for legal assistance, finds only lawyers who are 'too busy,' or who ask fees above his means. Then he turns naturally to his local political club for help. In this lie the roots of a widespread corrupt alliance."

The bar is the only monopoly without a central responsibility, he pointed out, and is not answerable directly for giving the public service required of it.

Prof. Llewellyn proposes that a legal organization be set up similar to hospital clinics in the medical and dental professions. The various bar associations would be required to furnish the names of reputable lawyers who will furnish their services to the "little man" at stated, reasonable fees. Further, he would have them advertise this service to make its availability generally known to the public. Prof. Llewellyn's plan, described by other teachers as socialized law, would set up a union similar to the trade guilds of Fascist Italy and would have full power to regulate fees and assign attorneys to cases.

"Happily," he pointed out, "the machinery is available for this guild system with very little expansion of the present structure. Court action now is possible to force lawyers to defend certain clients. The plaintiff is not considered, however, and this action seldom is taken in civil cases."

Question for Law Schools.

The question before the three day meeting of the association is whether the law schools are doing their part in seeing to it that the legal profession fulfills its social obligations in modern society.

Dean Charles E. Clark of Yale university, president of the association, proposed in his address that the Law School association undertake a complete study of the bar's functioning. Dean Clark said the time had come for law schools and teachers to accept some measure of responsibility for the activities of graduates and that the association should not "content itself with mere battling over problems of legal pedagogy."

His suggestion foreshadowed the broader proposal by Prof. Llewellyn.

"The report of a national commission of inquiry—say on legal service to the community," said Prof. Llewellyn, "would rouse attention as no private report could. With the law schools coöperating, such a study could have far flung effects on improving legal service."

Plan Considered at Washington.

Such an inquiry, it was learned yesterday, is under consideration at Washington. Although no decision has been reached, it is not thought unlikely that some action will be taken early in 1934. Prof. Llewellyn pointed out that this would be a comparatively inexpensive undertaking. With the coöperation of the law schools he estimated the cost at $25,000.

Leaders of the 250 teachers representing 75 of the 76 schools in the association greeted Prof. Llewellyn's plan with varying degrees of warmth. Prof. Leon Green of Northwestern university said it "surged with possibilities for social good," and called it a measure for "forgotten lawyers" and the "forgotten man."

Will Shafroth, assistant to the president of the American Bar association, declared himself in "hearty accord" with Prof. Llewellyn's proposal for a survey, but thought socialization plans premature until a survey showed them necessary.

Mr. Shafroth said that "many low grade products" are included in the 175,000 lawyers of the country and urged elimination of "wildcat law schools."

Requirement of an apprenticeship of three to five years for lawyers, similar to medical interneship, was advocated by Prof. James G. Rogers in the evening symposium "The Relationship of the Law Teacher to the Profession." This is necessary, he said, to round out technical legal training with social background and the skills which the practicing lawyer should have.

STATE LAWYERS TAKE STEPS TO PURIFY ETHICS

Put Stamp of Disapproval on Nepotism.

The board of directors of the Illinois State Bar association yesterday placed their stamp of disapproval upon the practice by some judges of the Supreme or Appellate courts of hiring relatives as secretaries, receivers, or as counsel for receivers. The board also adopted a resolution disapproving the splitting of fees between lawyers and organizations they are hired to represent.

These and two other similar resolutions were adopted by the board as new canons of legal ethics in a meeting held yesterday at the Stevens hotel. At the same meeting the board took under consideration still another canon which would disapprove the appearance of lawyer members of the general assembly before either the state parole board or the state board of claims.

The adoption of the new canons was made public last evening by Floyd E. Thompson, president of the state association board and a former justice of the state Supreme court. Mr. Thompson indicated that the board would probably adopt the canon now under consideration at the next meeting in Peoria about next Feb. 12.

Frown on Grouping.

The other two canons adopted yesterday disapproved the hiring of attorneys by any organization to represent the members of that organization and disapproved the practice of law by lawyers who hold positions as secretaries to Supreme or Appellate court judges or as secretaries to branches of these courts.

"Our canon condemning the hiring of relatives by judges of the two higher state courts is the result of the discoveries made public in May this year when Judge Oscar E. Heard of Freeport, Ill., was campaigning for reëlection. It was discovered then that his son, Oscar E. Heard Jr., received the annual salary as his father's secretary although another man was on the state rolls for the post," said Mr. Thompson.

"The fee splitting is frowned upon because it tends to stir up legislation like the tax strike fostered by the taxpayers' associations. That sort of thing also is used by collection agencies and similar organizations.

Both Part of Assembly.

"I think we will adopt the canon disapproving the appearance of members of the legislature before the parole and claims boards. Both these boards are creatures of the general assembly, having been created by legislation, and the members are dependent upon the legislature for their jobs. This is one situation that has been abused seriously by members of the general assembly.

"We also disapproved of the hiring of lawyers by an organization to represent the members. We feel that the organization should hire lawyers to represent it as an entity, but we feel that the individual members should hire their own counsel."

New York Widow Elected to Husband's Congress Seat

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 28.—(AP)—Showing a surprising strength in the face of a light rural vote, Mrs. Marian W. Clarke of Fraser today was elected representative from the 34th congressional district, to succeed her husband, John D. Clarke, Republican, who was killed last month in an automobile accident.

N. Y. PROSECUTOR FIRES TEN AIDS; ONE PASSES OUT

New York, Dec. 28.—[Special.]—Ten of District Attorney T. C. T. Crain's assistants were notified today that they would not be retained by William C. Dodge, district attorney elect.

William R. Maloney fainted when he heard the news. He was one of three $10,000 a year men to go.

The other $10,000 men not retained were Thomas F. Kane, head of the bureau of commercial frauds and larceny, and John J. Joyce of the homicide bureau. Joyce obtained eleven first degree murder convictions last year, a record for the office.

Others ousted included Rose Rothenberg, $7,500, Tammany co-leader with Nathan Burkan in the Seventeenth assembly district, and James J. Daly, also $7,500, Mr. Crain's secretary.

Mr. Maloney, son-in-law of Edward E. McCall, Tammany candidate for mayor against John Purroy Mitchel in 1913, was seated in General Sessions when the news was whispered to him. He collapsed, but was revived.

G. E. Q. JOHNSON FLAYS CROOKED CRIME LAWYERS

McAlester, Okla., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—Former United States District Attorney George E. Q. Johnson of Chicago this evening told the Oklahoma Bar association that many criminal lawyers have become "utterly unworthy of either confidence or respect." He reviewed his dealings with gangsters and made recommendations for improvements in the fight against crime, finally answering his own question: "What of our profession?"

"What impression can the public gain," the silvery haired former prosecutor demanded of the assembled lawyers, "when the same attorneys year after year represent the same men or groups of men who openly and brazenly defy all law, and are able to escape its penalties?"

When a survey is made of the profession and the traditions of the past are remembered there is little cause for smugness, Mr. Johnson said. The practice of law has suffered from specialization, and in no branch so much as in the field of criminal defense, he declared.

"Many such men have become warped, and many become utterly unworthy of either confidence or respect. This is, of course, one of the problems that confront the legal profession in the discharge of duties we owe to the community.

"Many men who have a large clientele among criminals go far afield. I do not believe that any lawyer has a right to present an alibi defense when it is perfectly obvious that it reeks with perjury. When a lawyer has a client who is a criminal his contact with his client should begin when the enters his office and end when he leaves it. When a lawyer pals and mingles with criminals in the underworld he should be promptly haled before the grievance committee of his bar association."

The former prosecutor declared that changes in the code of professional ethics were needed.

SLAIN FINANCIER FOUND ON ISLE OF SAN JOAQUIN

Martinez, Cal., Dec. 28.—(AP)—Julian C. Whitman, 50, San Francisco financier, was found shot to death today on Jersey island in the San Joaquin delta. It was said he had some trouble with farmers.

There was a bulelt wound in the left temple and a revolver wrapped on a powder burned handkerchief lay nearby but beyond reach of the dead man's hand. Only a few drops of blood were found near the body, indicating, police said, he had been shot elsewhere and dropped by the roadside. There were auto tracks, but no auto near by. There was no indication on his shoes that Whiteman had walked near the spot where the body was found.

Whitman left San Francisco in his automobile for a trip to Antioch, Benecia, and Tracy. No money or jewelry was found on the body. He was secretary of the California Irrigation and Reclamation District Bondholders Protective association, a former partner in the San Francisco stock brokerage firm of Leib, Keyston & Co., and a former official of the San Francisco Stock exchange, as well as a graduate of the University of California and a member of the varsity football squad of that institution in 1906.

Whitman's family reside in Palo Alto and there it was said a pistol belonging to him had been left. He was on an inspection trip when killed.

WIDOW CHARGES LOSS OF $1,900 IN STOCK GAME

John Grady, 40 years old, a salesman living at 163 East Walton place, was arrested yesterday on a warrant charging him with conspiracy in a confidence game in which Mrs. Bessie Wilkie, 35, 1020 Lawrence avenue, a widow, was fleeced out of $1,900. A man named Black is sought as the chief swindler.

Mrs. Wilkie, an employé of the city civil service board, charges that Black cheated her out of the money by promising to buy stocks for her in South Bend, Ind., before the stock went up. She gave the money to him there. During the negotiations, she charged, Black telephoned several times to Grady. The swindle is said to have taken place in September.

After losing her money Mrs. Wilkie obtained warrants in South Bend against Grady and Black. Grady was arrested in Chicago and held on a fugitive charge. Yesterday, when he appeared in South State Street court, he was served with a new warrant charging conspiracy. He will appear in Felony court today.

HALF A MILLION SPENT BY LOBBY AFTER SEAWAY

Chicago Business Group One Contributor.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 28.—[Special.] — One agency, lobbying and propagandizing for the building of the St. Lawrence waterway, in the last 14 years has spent $549,792.

This figure was disclosed to THE TRIBUNE today by Charles P. Craig, executive director of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Tidewater association, under whose direction the large sum was expended. The association is recognized as having exerted a leading influence in procuring the treaty between the United States and Canada for the building of the waterway to the Atlantic.

This treaty, signed by former President Hoover on behalf of this country, is expected to provide one of the battles royal when it is brought up for ratification at the approaching session of the United States senate.

Clark Attacks Activities.

Senator Bennett Champ Clark of Missouri, a leading opponent of the treaty, has attacked the lobbying activities of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Tidewater association, and today indicated that he may ask the senate to investigate the manner in which its funds were received and how they were spent.

THE TRIBUNE learned from Mr. Craig that the state of Illinois has contributed $91,950 to the association, of which $12,500 was advanced by the Chicago Association of Commerce and the remainder by the state legislatures.

Pointing out the irony of this contribution by the citizens of Illinois, Senator Clark declared that the treaty as finally agreed upon, with the support of Mr. Craig's association, endangers the right not only of Illinois, but of the whole Mississippi valley, to enjoy the commercial advantages of a lakes to the gulf waterway. Mr. Clark referred to the much disputed article 8, under which the diversion of water at Chicago for maintaining the navigability of the Illinois-Mississippi waterway, would be reduced arbitrarily by 1938 to a volume of 1,500 cubic feet per second.

Major Burden for U. S.

But Senator Clark also asserts that the treaty, obtained after the expenditure for propaganda of $549,792 of American funds by the Tidewater association, puts upon the United States the major financial burden of building the St. Lawrence waterway, which would be of greatest benefit to Canada.

Although Senator Clark said his information was to the effect that the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Tidewater association had received financial support from Canadian and power interests, Mr. Craig denied this charge, and asserted that every dollar of the amount reported was contributed by various state legislatures, with the one exception of the $12,500 given by the Chicago Association of Commerce.

The association was created in 1919, when Mr. Craig went about the middle west obtaining the passage of appropriations from the legislatures of Minnesota, Wisconsin, and Michigan. Illinois declined to join up in that year, so the Association of Commerce provided an equivalent amount.

Expenditures Are Listed.

From that year the states named and Illinois continued to support the association with appropriations, and were joined at times also by Indiana, Iowa, Nebraska, North Dakota, South Dakota, and Ohio. The total amounts expended in the bienniums since 1919, as given by Mr. Craig, are as follows:

1919-'21	$ 45,450
1921-'23	64,022
1923-'25	89,351
1925-'27	124,056
1927-'28	98,281
1929-'31	68,138
1931-'33	60,494
Total	$549,792

Other states whose legislatures passed bills in support of the association and appointed commissions to coöperate with it, but which did not contribute financially, are California, Colorado, Idaho, Kansas, Kentucky, Missouri, Montana, Oregon, South Carolina, Utah, Washington, West Virginia and Wyoming.

In the last year Illinois has withdrawn, Gov. Henry Horner having refused to permit the legislature any longer to contribute to such an enterprise, and the state of Missouri has also withdrawn from the association.

The purposes of the association, as outlined in its literature, are as follows:

"A voluntary association of 23 member states associated to assemble and disseminate helpful information in regard to the improvement of the St. Lawrence to connect the great lakes with the ocean."

Accusing the association of spreading misinformation and misrepresentation concerning the fairness of the proposed treaty to the United States, Senator Clark said its agents had put pressure on many senators to induce them to support the treaty.

The senator qualified his statements, however, by saying he was not charging that any of the hundreds of thousands of dollars spent by the association was spend corruptly.

Craig Is Interviewed.

Mr. Craig, a mild mannered, white haired man, received an interviewer in his small two room office suite, and, in response to a leading question concerning lobbyist activities of his association, he turned to include two young women employés in a gesture and said:

"You see the whole lobby right here."

But further conversation brought concessions from Mr. Craig to the effect that many of the members of the association in the various states had "done all they could" to influence senators to support the treaty and the project.

Somewhat vague as to the exact manner in which the large sums at his disposal had been spent, Mr. Craig said they went for researches, studies, preparation and publication and distribution of literature. Asked if propagandists were paid for speech-making, Mr. Craig denied it, but he conceded that "normal traveling expenses" were paid for speakers.

Recalls Fee for Bede.

Then, when the activities of Adam Bede, former congressman from Minnesota who has been lobbying for the treaty, were mentioned, Mr. Craig recalled that he had once paid a fee to Bede for making a speech.

Most of the expense funds were expended, he said, by himself and by the members of the state commissions when they were paid traveling expenses for going about the country making addresses for the cause.

Answering the charge that he had received funds from Canadian interests, Mr. Craig said this was "nonsense."

"We have not spent one single, solitary dollar," he declared, "which has not come from the appropriations of the member states. Nor has there been any money spent by any one else, from Canadian or outside interests, in support of this project, to my knowledge."

Opposes Diversion Change.

Asked his opinion on amending or withdrawing article 8, which limits the diversion at Chicago, Mr. Craig said:

"We stand for the treaty in its present form because it is our belief that no amendment to article 8 such as is asked by the city of Chicago can ever be gotten from Canada. And for that matter, outside of a little 14 miles of shoreline along Lake Michigan [at Chicago] none of the lake states is in opposition to article 8."

Mr. Craig said that every dollar he has expended for the association has been accounted for to the various states paying the bills.

Fight Scheme to Enlist Support for Seaway Treaty

The proposal of the federal government to spend $15,530,000 for additional improvements in the Illinois waterway in an effort to placate Mississippi valley senators and win their votes for the St. Lawrence waterway treaty, will not have its desired effect, opponents of the treaty said yesterday.

Among those who expressed opposition to the latest move on the part of the administration were United States Senator William H. Dieterich, Robert I. Randolph, president of the Mississippi Valley association, and members of the sanitary district who prepared a resolution directed against article 8 of the St. Lawrence treaty, which would limit diversion of water from Lake Michigan at Chicago to 1,500 cubic feet a second.

The other United States senator from Illinois, James Hamilton Lewis, could not be reached, but he is known to have the same attitude on the waterway question as Senator Dieterich.

Just So Much Bait.

Howard W. Elmore, trustee of the sanitary district, said the proposed expenditure of $15,530,000 looks like "so much bait to hook the people of this territory for the St. Lawrence treaty." Mr. Randolph said the plan would "simply be adding $15,530,000 to the bounty we are already proposing to pay Canada."

"Under the treaty with Canada, which the senate has not ratified," Mr. Randolph declared, "we are committed to spend $50,000,000 in Canada for Canadian labor and materials on a project that is economically unsound. But if the treaty is carried out and diversion at Chicago is limited to 1,500 cubic feet a second, that will not be enough for the purposes of navigation, so the government is planning to spend another $15,000,000 in order to help our Canadian friends."

President Gets Report.

It is proposed to spend the $15,530,000 for the construction of new locks and dams at La Grange and Peoria. Mr. Randolph said this might assure adequate levels for navigation in the Illinois waterway, with a diversion of 1,500 feet a second, but that it would create "high stagnant pools and an extremely unsanitary condition."

The expenditure of the $15,530,000 for the locks and dams was recommended in a report from the chief of army engineers made to President Roosevelt on Wednesday. Mr. Randolph said this same report virtually admitted that a diversion of 1,500 feet a second would be inadequate for the requirements of sanitation.

"The report states that sanitary conditions with a diversion of 1,500 feet will not be any worse than they are now," Mr. Randolph pointed out. "This is an admission that the conditions will be bad, for there was a nuisance at Joliet all last summer, when the diversion was more than 6,000 feet."

Senator Dieterich said a diversion of 1,500 feet, as decreed by the United States Supreme court and proposed in the treaty, would not be enough for navigation or sanitation.

"Even if adequate sewage disposal plants have been constructed by the sanitary district by 1938, when the 1,500 feet a second diversion becomes effective," said Senator Dieterich, "the smaller towns along the river will continue to dump their sewage into the stream."

Doubts Treaty Ratification.

Senator Dieterich said he does not believe the Mississippi valley senators will be won over to the cause of the treaty by the proposal to spend another $15,000,000, nor does he believe that the administration, under President Roosevelt, will try to force ratification of the treaty.

In speaking on the proposed expenditure, Trustee Elmore of the sanitary district said "We should take the bait but not get hooked." Trustee Ross A. Woodhull agreed with Mr. Elmore, saying "We all rebel against the 1,500 foot limit on diversion."

"Our congressmen and senators to a man are against it and Gov. Horner is violently opposed to it," Trustee Woodhull said. "I'm against the treaty in its entirety, because the United States is spending far more than Canada and what we propose to spend will go for Canadian labor and materials."

Mr. Elmore suggests the resolution against article 8, which was dictated by Trustee Woodhull. When some of the trustees sought time to study the question the resolution was put over for action at the next meeting.

VIENNESE URGES PSYCHOLOGICAL TEST OF PUPILS

Need of Health Training in College Stressed.

The use of phychology in determining the possibilities of all students entering college, and also as an aid to their adjustment to society was suggested yesterday by Dr. Alfred Adler of Vienna to health directors attending the meeting of the American Student Health association. Dr. Adler is in this country as visiting physician at Long Island Medical school. He came to Chicago to deliver a series of lectures before the Chicago Society for Individual Psychology.

At the Student Health association meeting, which opened in the Stevens hotel and at the conference of the College Physical Education association, also meeting at the Stevens, health leaders and educators considered health problems now confronting the American college. They pointed to the lack of health precautions during the college years as responsible for an increasing frequency of breakdowns in early middle life. Some criticism was directed against the medical profession for its failure, in many instances, to coöperate with college health programs.

Questions for Students.

Dr. Adler gave typical questions to be put to a student entering college.

"You should find out his particular personality," Dr. Adler said. "Ask the student: 'What is your first recollection?' This is an important question because you can see into his life. It is important to learn something of the student's social interest. No student should be permitted to leave school before the university years if he has not adapted himself to social life. Ask him if he was tidy or untidy as a child to find if he can order his life; ask if he can easily make friends; if not, you can be sure he loves himself."

Criticism of Medical Men.

Dr. D. F. Smiley of Cornell university pointed out that some members of the medical profession criticize efforts of colleges and universities to meet health responsibilities through student health service. Dr. Smiley revealed that 26 million public school children are in the field of the general practitioner to be served in their homes while a million more in the higher schools come from great distances and must rely on the health facilities of the college.

"If the medical profession already were doing a good piece of health work among the 26 million public school children and were casting about for new worlds to conquer, criticism of the college health service among the one million students on the ground that it took away private practice might be justified. But such is obviously not the case, since less than 10 per cent of the 26 million receive adequate health service at the hands of general practitioners."

At the meeting of the College Physical Education association, President William Mather Lewis of Lafayette college, Easton, Pa., declared that the stoop shouldered and anemic graduates are evidence that breakdowns are coming with increasing speed among the educated classes in early middle life. Dr. Lewis said physical education and health should be more closely connected with academic courses.

OPERATION TO CURE GIRL OF TUBERCULOSIS CALLED A SUCCESS

Doctors at the county hospital announced yesterday that a chest operation performed recently in an effort to cure Mary Pacheco, 6 years old, of tuberculosis, had been successful. They expect the child to recover completely from the disease.

Meanwhile a new note of hope marks the conversations between Mary and her mother, of 626 West 25th place, conversations neither understands. The child, who has been in hospitals with tuberculosis for the last three years, speaks English. The mother speaks Spanish. She is allowed to visit Mary once a week, when they try with little success to understand the other.

Fo rthe last year Mary has been a patient in the county hospital. Previously she was confined in the Oak Forest infirmary for two years, where she forgot the few Spanish words she knew and learned to speak English. Mary's 5 year old brother is in Oak Forest with tuberculosis, and her father died of the disease in 1930.

Last week a brother-in-law of Mrs. Pacheco, at whose home she stays, obtained his first job in more than a year, a few days' employment with the CWA. He bought a chest support for Mary with his first pay check of $6.

SEEK AN ADDED $90,000 TO FIGHT TUBERCULOSIS

The Chicago Tuberculosis institute yesterday issued an appeal for $90,000 to complete the annual health program budget for 1934. According to Homer J. Buckley, chairman of the Chicago Christmas seal campaign, the response to the seal sale was not sufficient to care for the institute's needs in the coming year and additional contributions must be made. The follow-up campaign, he said, should reach those who were unable to purchase seals before Christmas.

First on the institute's schedule for 1934 is the early diagnosis campaign to teach people the necessity of timely physical examinations, regular visits to the dentist, and other important health habits.

Lord Decies Deplores Sit Down Drinking in N. Y.

New York, Dec. 28.—[Special.]—When Lord Decies, Irish peer and husband of the late Vivien Gould, arrived on the French liner Champlain today, his first question was of drinking regulations under repeal. Informed that he would have to sit down to do his drinking, he remarked: "That's not like New York at all. In the old days the city was a masterly place for perpendicular drinking."

32 Get Interneships at County Hospital

President Emmett Whealan of the county board yesterday gave 32 medical college graduates commissions to serve 18 months as internes in the county hospital. The young doctors had the highest grades of 207 graduates who took the examination for the interneships.

RAISE BONDS OF GREEK WHO ASKS TO RETURN HOME

Constantine Giovan, president of the Drexel Ice Cream company, 3000 Shields avenue, who is under indictment on a charge of concealing assets in bankruptcy, was allowed to leave the jurisdiction of the federal court yesterday to go to Athens, Greece, where his son was killed in an automobile accident.

Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan entered the order after raising the bond of $5,000 to $25,000 to insure the return of the defendant.

OFFICIALS BEGIN SCALING DOWN 1934 BUDGETS

Slash in Tax Valuation Gives Them Problems.

Officials of the major local governments yesterday began revising downward their tentative budgets for 1934 on the basis of the 25 per cent reduction in assessed value of all property in Cook county as announced on Wednesday by Assessor J. L. Jacobs.

Although the reduction in assessed value is for 1932 tax purposes, it will also apply to 1934 budget making, it was pointed out, since 1934 is grouped with 1931, 1932, and 1933 in the same quadrennial assessment period. During such a period tax assessments may be lowered but cannot be raised because of legal complications. Thus the local governments can look for no higher assessed values in 1934 than they have for 1932.

Since the budget appropriations for 1932 and 1933 have been spent and were based on higher valuations than the assessor now has fixed, the governments already have deficits for those years. The problem of how to absorb these deficits in 1934, with the reduction in valuations, further complicates their budget making.

Schools and County Hit.

School board officials and county commissioners asserted yesterday that they were the hardest hit by the reduction in assessed valuation. This reduction has brought the total assessed valuation in the county to $3,067,288,525 for 1932.

The county commissioners said they would find it impossible to balance their 1934 budget on the income which the assessment roll would produce. Commissioner Amelia Sears estimated that the county would face a deficit of not less than $5,000,000 in 1934. She pointed out that the county's corporate fund is usually $10,000,000, but that its maximum tax rate of 32 cents on $100 of valuation would produce only $3,600,000 when applied, with the 37 per cent equalization factor, to the total assessed value.

Preparation of the county budget, however, will not begin for at least another month. The commissioners are awaiting the recovery of Deputy Controller Michael J. O'Connor, who is convalescing from an attack of pneumonia.

School Board's Situation.

Harry H. Brackett, school board auditor, said that the reduction in assessed valuation leaves the board with a new deficit of $1,600,000 for 1932, 1933, and 1934. This will be distributed at approximately $500,000 for each year, he said.

The board has already absorbed a $9,000,000 deficit for 1931 as the result of a 26 per cent reduction in the assessed value of real estate for that year, Brackett said.

The board has been aware of the imminence of the new deficit and has prepared a plan for getting aid from the state legislature. The trustees propose to ask either for a raise in the maximum in tax rates allowed for their educational fund, for a portion of the state liquor tax revenue, or for the right to transfer part of the school employés now being paid from the educational fund to the building fund. The latter fund does not have a deficit, while the educational fund will have a $7,000,000 deficit at the end of this year.

Sanitary District Hopeful.

Ross Woodhull, chairman of the sanitary district's finance committee, said that his committee had already anticipated the reduction in assessed valuations. He declared the district will probably be able to balance its 1934 budget.

"One thing I can say positively," he asserted; "I know that the district is not going to ask for legislation to increase its tax rate."

City Controller Upham said his assistants are making a complete revision of the tentative city budget which had been prepared for 1934. What effect the figures announced Wednesday by Assessor Jacobs will have upon this budget the controller was unable to say.

TEN PROPERTIES PUT UNDER TAX RECEIVERSHIPS

TAX COLLECTIONS.

Real estate tax collections yesterday were $258,161, making a total of $97,968,737 collected since enforcement of the Kerner-Skarda act began on April 28. The day's collections of real estate taxes and the uncollected taxes for the last four years follow:

	1928.	1929.
Dec. 28	$ 34,560	$ 55,544
Uncollected	15,826,339	42,241,445
	1930.	1931.
Dec. 28	$ 62,593	$ 105,464
Uncollected	67,012,910	66,377,383

The day's collections of 1931 personal property taxes totaled $8,288.

Ten income bearing properties were ordered into tax receivership under the Kerner-Skarda act by County Judge Jarecki yesterday. The judge appointed County Treasurer McDonough receiver to enable him to collect taxes totaling $14,000 for 1928, 1929, and 1930. Other property owners paid $14,000 during the day to avoid receiverships. The treasurer filed 20 new petitions for receiverships in the County court yesterday, naming properties owing $45,901.

WHITE COLLAR MEN TAKEN OFF RELIEF BY CWA

13 Nursery Projects Approved.

Wilfred S. Reynolds, director of relief in Cook county for the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, announced yesterday that 14 professional and 29 clerical workers in the unemployment relief service were dismissed during the week of Dec. 11. This was because of the reduction of the relief administration personnel resulting from the starting of the civil works administration program, which gave these workers CWA jobs.

Additional professional and clerical workers have been discharged since then almost as rapidly as heads of families have been taken from the relief rolls and placed on CWA jobs, Mr. Reynolds said, but the information as to the number is not available as yet. So far two relief stations of the unemployment relief service have been closed because of reduced relief rolls.

Nursery Projects Approved.

Mr. Reynolds yesterday announced the approval of 13 nursery school projects for Chicago by the state civil works service, of which he is director. These projects, with six others involving instruction which were approved yesterday, will give work to 44 teachers. All of the projects are to be under way next Tuesday.

The nursery school projects were developed and submitted to the nursery advisory committee of the school board through its chairman, Mrs. Rose H. Alschuler. All children of pre-school age are eligible for enrollment in the nurseries, for which rent-free space has been made available at the following locations: Northwestern University settlement, 1400 Augusta boulevard; Sarah Hackett Stevenson Day nursery, 2412 Prairie avenue; Smyth school, 1057 West 13th street; Burr school, 1621 Wabansia avenue; Franklin school, 226 West Goethe street; North Avenue Day nursery, 2023 Pierce avenue; Mitchell school, 2233 West Ohio street; Rogers school, 1247 West 13th street; Ogden school, 9 West Chestnut street; Helping Hand Community Day nursery, 3146 Vernon avenue; Sherman school, 5116 South Morgan street; Chalmers school, 1220 South Fairfield avenue; Association house, 2150 West North avenue.

For Foreign Born Adults.

One teacher is to be assigned to Garibaldi institute to supervise a program of education for foreign born adults, largely Italian, and several others are being assigned to University of Chicago settlement discussion groups.

In connection with the relief commission's campaign to rid of the rolls of relief cheaters ten cases of alleged cheaters were continued yesterday by Municipal Judge Robert J. Dunne to allow jury trials between March 1 and 9.

BEG YOUR PARDON

An item on Dec. 6 stated that according to a bill filed in the Circuit court officials of the village of River Grove were co-mingling funds collected for street improvements with funds collected for other special assessments and that they were not making proper payments on the street improvement bond issue. It was meant that the bill alleged that a previous group of village officials, who went out of office last April, had co-mingled the funds, and the suit was brought to determine deficiencies which developed in past years.

Charles Allis, president of the executive board of the Brewery Drivers and Helpers' union, local 342, states that an item on Dec. 22 erroneously referred to Edward Islander as business agent of the union. Oswald Meggison, secretary and treasurer of the union, says that Islander was at one time employed by the union as a collector of dues but did not have the title of business agent.

SUES TO PREVENT PAYING ALIMONY FOR REST OF LIFE

Charles T. Picard, 3159 Hudson avenue, went before Judge Rudolph F. Desort yesterday with a petition to set aside the separate maintenance decree which Mrs. Louise Picard, 21 years old, got Feb. 9, with alimony of $7 a week for life. They were married Sept. 18, 1932, and she charged that he deserted her 25 days later. Picard is a son of Napoleon Picard, retired banker.

"It is not equitable and it is against public policy to grant separate maintenance for life for a marriage of such duration," Attorney Harry X. Cole argued on behalf of Picard. "This woman induced Picard to marry her at Crown Point, Ind., because she wanted to enter the social swim with his parents."

Attorney Cole sought leave to file a bill on behalf of Picard, asking a divorce on charges of desertion. Judge Desort continued the case to Jan. 19.

Woman Collector Sued by Village of Oak Lawn

Alleging that Mrs. Cora Montgomery failed to account for funds received by her in the year and a half period during which she was collector of the village of Oak Lawn, the village yesterday filed suit for $1,000 in the Circuit court. The suit is for the amount of the surety bond furnished for Mrs. Montgomery by Walter A. Hopkins and names him as co-defendant. Mrs. Montgomery was appointed collector on Dec. 8, 1931, and served until last April. Mrs. Montgomery, who is the widow of James Montgomery, former president of the village, said last night that the bookkeeping system in the village was responsible for a misunderstanding.

CUBAN FACTIONS TRY ONCE MORE TO GET TOGETHER

Roosevelt Envoy Holds Parleys on Warship.

BY GUSTAVO RENO.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Dec. 28.—Lifting of martial law by Jan. 3 was promised tonight in a resolution adopted by the Cuban cabinet, providing political opponents discontinued acts of terrorism.

This gesture, said in some circles to be due to effective diplomatic pressure by Jefferson Caffery, President Roosevelt's personal representative here, is believed to mark the reopening of efforts to bring opposing political factions together.

The scene of these efforts apparently has now shifted from the presidential palace to the United States battleship Wyoming, anchored off Havana. There for the last three nights President Grau, San Martin, Col. Fulgencio Batista, army chief; cabinet secretaries, and members of Grau's "brain trust" are reported to have met with Caffery.

Oppositionists Present.

Prominent oppositionists, including Col. Carlos Mendieta, Col. Alberto Mendez Penate, Dr. Miguel Mariano Gomez, and Dr. Cosme de la Torriente, are reliably reported to have participated in this morning's parley on the battleship.

This noon the foreign diplomatic corps were luncheon guests of Caffery and Rear Admiral C. F. Freeman on the battleship. Although the luncheon was officially declared to be devoid of political significance, it was persistently reported that the present dangerous situation for foreigners was fully discussed.

Five thousand lawyers affiliated with the Cuban National Bar association and the Lawyers' club today called a strike at noon tomorrow against "a régime which enforces its administrative policies with bayonets."

Refuses to Free Ex-Officers.

The strike was precipitated when Col. Batista refused to release 450 former army officers imprisoned since the National hotel battle, Oct. 2. The Supreme court justices, magistrates of the Court of Appeals, and judges of the correctional courts have threatened a similar strike Saturday unless Batista reconsiders.

With the strikes effective, lawyers and judges throughout the island will be asked to refuse to sign any sentences or legal documents until the officers are released.

A rioting mob tonight attacked a Woolworth store protesting against "Yankee imperialism." Three show windows were broken with rocks, some merchandise was destroyed, and employés were beaten with clubs. Soldiers finally restored order. Five soldiers and several civilians were wounded.

Twelve bombs exploded in Havana in the last 24 hours, injuring nine persons. One explosion wrecked the residence of Armando Canalejos, Spaniard, owner of one of the largest department stores here.

McAdoo, Daughter Better, Remains in Washington

Washington, D. C., Dec. 28.—(AP)—Senator William G. McAdoo of California arrived in Washington at noon today and said he would not fly to New York today. McAdoo flew from Los Angeles in two and a half days to reach the bedside of his daughter, Mrs. Edward Spencer Cowles, who was stricken with pneumonia, but upon arriving here and being informed she was out of danger, said he would remain in Washington.

BRITISH BISHOP FACES TRIAL ON HERESY CHARGE

Accused of Condoning Unitarian's Act.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 28.—What may prove to be the most sensational heresy trial in modern times loomed today when Lord Hugh Cecil petitioned the Archbishop of York to call before him the bishop of Liverpool and the dean of Liverpool cathedral.

The alleged heretic is Dr. Lawrence Pearsall Jacks, famous nonconformist preacher, who is a Unitarian in faith and formerly was principal of Manchester college, Oxford [1915-'31].

Couched in Medieval Language.

The petition, which was couched in medieval language, sets forth that the bishop of Liverpool "being bound to banish and drive away all erroneous and strange doctrine contrary to God's world and both privately and openly to call upon and encourage others to do the same, sanctioned and or permitted, and or condoned, and or approved, and or neglected and failed to rebuke and forbid all or some of the offenses against the laws ecclesiastical committed within his diocese by the Very Rev. Frederick William Dwelly."

Dr. Dwelly is the dean of Liverpool cathedral who arranged the sermon by Dr. Jacks.

Dr. Albert Augustus David, bishop of Liverpool, is known as a liberal prelate who is deeply interested in Christian reunion, while Lord Hugh Cecil, a brother of Lord Cecil of Chelwood, is one of the leading members of the high church party in the Anglican church and is its principal spokesman in parliament.

May Be Placed on Trial.

The petition goes on to state that both the bishop and the dean were aware that Dr. Jacks was a Unitarian, that is to say, a person holding heretical opinions inconsistent with the essential doctrines of the Church of England.

Dr. William Temple, archbishop of York, belongs to the liberal party in the church, but he is bound by church law to take cognizance of Lord Hugh Cecil's petition. The probability is that the bishop and the dean will be placed on trial for condoning a heresy.

TEACHERS ASK LARGER ILLINOIS SCHOOL FUND

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 28.—(AP)—Larger school appropriations drawn from new sources of revenue were asked by the Illinois State Teachers' association as its convention closed here today after electing Senator N. M. Mason, Ogiesby, its president for 1934.

An annual appropriation of $35,000,000 for the school distributive fund was urged by the association to be derived from taxes on retail sales, gasoline, liquor, incomes and grain futures transactions.

A program of legislation designed to tap new sources of revenue for the schools was adopted by the association.

The program includes a three per cent tax on net incomes for corporations, a two per cent tax on all other incomes, and a ¼ cent tax per bushel on sales and purchases of grain futures.

The association also protested the wages paid teachers by the civil works administration and asked that teachers be paid no less than the minimum wage of skilled labor and that only regularly certified teachers be given relief employment.

The association went on record as opposing the return on the saloon in any guise, lauded the recovery program of President Roosevelt and gave support to Chicago teachers in their local problems.

RENO AND AIDS HOPE TO FORM RADICAL PARTY

To Meet in New York Next Week.

New York, Dec. 28.—[Special.]—Out of a massmeeting at Cooper Union on Jan. 4, to be addressed by Milo Reno of Iowa and others, is expected by its promoters to emerge the framework of a third major political party, a radical one. Reno led the recent farmers' strike.

Other speakers will be Alexander F. Whitney, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen; Thomas R. Amlie, a former congressman from Wisconsin, a La Follette Progressive, and Matthew Napear, president of the consolidated home owners' committee.

Alfred M. Bingham, editor of Common Sense and executive secretary of the Farmer-Labor Political federation, will preside at the meeting.

Hints at La Guardia Boom.

"A powerful third party movement for the elections of 1934 is more than likely," he said today. "Neither a Roosevelt nor a La Guardia can meet this great national crisis successfully, even if they would, without a strong third party movement and an intelligent American radical program."

This was the first intimation here that Mayor Elect La Guardia was regarded anywhere as a possible Republican candidate for president in 1936. Renomination of President Roosevelt is regarded among Democrats as certain.

Sketch of Other Leaders.

Mr. Whitney is chairman of the Railway Labor Executives' association. Two weeks ago he practically declared for government ownership of railroads by advocating that banks be left out of the future history of the railroads. He urged railroad financing be exclusively a government function.

Ex-Congressman Amlie is president of the Farmer-Labor Political federation. While in congress he was a close associate of Mr. La Guardia. The promoters of the massmeeting see the possibility of a La Follette-La Guardia alliance through Mr. Amlie.

DIES OF AUTO INJURIES.

NEW HAVEN MAN IS GIVEN N. Y. HEALTH POST BY LA GUARDIA

New York, Dec. 28.—[Special.]—Two more commissionerships were filled by Mayor Elect F. H. La Guardia today. He announced Dr. S. S. Goldwater as his commissioner of hospitals and summoned Dr. John L. Rice from New Haven, Conn., to be commissioner of health. Mr. La Guardia becomes mayor on Jan. 1.

Both men are widely known in their respective fields. The soviet government used Dr. Goldwater as a consultant regarding its hospitals. Of Dr. Rice, who has for ten years been the chief health officer of New Haven, Mr. La Guardia remarked that "he is the best man I could find in a search of the whole country."

In Dr. Goldwater the mayor elect obtained a man who is regarded as one of the hospital experts of the country. He was commissioner of health here in 1914-'15. In 1918 and 1930 he was consulting expert for the United States public health service.

VEHICLE TAXES DROP $487,099 FROM 1932 TOTAL

Chicago vehicle tax collections fell off $487,099 this year below the 1932 level, with a drop in the number of every classification of vehicle registered, City Collector Edward J. Kaindl reported yesterday. Collections this year were $4,555,624, as compared with $5,042,723 in 1932. The registrations of various types of motor vehicles for the two years were as follows:

	1933	1934
Passenger, 35 h. p. or less	354,336	382,671
Passenger, over 35 h. p.	13,065	14,113
Trucks, 1 ton or less	31,853	34,311
Trucks, over 1 ton	17,083	17,998
Demonstrators	1,346	1,493
Motorcycles	541	708
Transfers	5,902	10,437

The old four horse dray has disappeared completely from Chicago streets, and only one license was issued for a three horse dray, as against four in 1932. There were 238 licenses for two horse vehicles this year, as against 566 in 1932, and 4,517 for one horse vehicles, as against 5,525 in 1932.

2 FLYERS SAVED FROM CHILL LAKE BY COAST GUARD

Found After Floating for Eight Hours.

afternoon when ice blocks about five inches thick closed in on the craft. They were then about two and a half miles off Navy pier.

All their efforts were unavailing to keep the blocks from pressing on the hull of the vessel. One pile up cracked a hole a foot square in the starboard bow and the frigid water of the lake began to flow in.

"Something had to be done right away," said the skipper. "If we had not stopped the hole we would have sunk early last night. Kuse bailed while Arndt and I took boards and canvas and nailed a big patch over the hole. He would hold my legs while I reached down to the water line and, with the waves lapping me in the face, tacked at the patch. Then when Arndt was exhausted I held him and he finished the job.

Bail All Night.

"Somehow we got it done. But water still leaked in and we had to bail all night. All we could do was to drift with the ice. The wind shunted us around all night and at daylight we were near Michigan City.

"Finally we got free of the ice, started the motor, and came back to the four mile crib off Roosevelt road. We were cold and miserable and the only thing we had to eat was fish. They were good fish, but I am sure fed up on them now."

Notified by the crib master, coast guards in a small boat went out with supplies and aided the fishermen in. Earlier in the day Capt. John O. Anderson, in charge of the river station of the coast guard, had chartered a tug and started in search of the trio. He had gone north to the fishing bank, however, and was searching there when the crew came in from the south.

LETUP IN COLD TODAY

Another cold wave, which is expected to force the mercury down to zero again early today, is forecast by the weather bureau.

However, according to Forecaster J. R. Lloyd, there should be a rise in temperature this afternoon and tomorrow, with a maximum of 25 degrees above probable. The weather man predicted snow for tomorrow but not for today. However, a light snow fell last night.

There was a wide variation in unofficial temperatures reported early today. The thermometer at Tribune Tower had risen to 15 degress above zero at 3:30 a. m. The lowest temperatures reported by suburban police stations at 3 a. m. were 2 below zero at Morton Grove and 1 above at Willow Springs.

Cold well below normal continued to prevail yesterday, with the high in Chicago only 14 above zero. In Minnesota and the Dakotas temperatures of 30 to 40 below were common, and the east was having its chilliest weather of the winter.

1933 a Year of Extremes.

The annual report of the Chicago office of the weather bureau, issued yesterday, showed that 1933 was a year of extremes. The hottest June on record was one of the gifts of the weather, while the minimum of 19 below zero last Feb. 9 was the coldest in 34 years.

On June 20 and June 27 readings of 100 degrees were registered. Last January was the second mildest January since the establishment of the bureau here. Another of the oddities was that July, usually the warmest month of the year, failed to touch the heat records of June.

Year Warmer Than Usual.

As a whole the year, up to yesterday, was 3 degrees warmer than usual. Precipitation for the twelve months was 31.97 inches, .71 of an inch below normal.

A summary of the months showed that January's temperature was 13 degrees above normal; February's and March's normal. April also was normal in temperature, but 1.47 inches above normal in rainfall. May was somewhat warmer than usual, as was June. July and August were drier than usual.

September was 4.6 degrees warmer than usual, but October and November were cooler than usual. December was a mild month until Christmas, and even to last night the records showed that the month's temperature average was 2.8 degrees above normal.

Fire Causes $200,000 Damage.

Firemen in Chicago and the suburbs battled yesterday against a series of fires that resulted in most cases from overheating of furnaces and stoves. The most spectacular of the blazes occurred in the plant of the Arcady Farms Milling company, 500 West 138th street, Riverdale. The Harvey and Blue Island fire departments aided the Riverdale force in fighting it, but an elevator and 2,000 tons of materials, 100 tons of molasses and 110,000 grain sacks were consumed. The damage was estimated at $200,000.

H. L. WILLIAMSON.

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 28.—(AP)—H. L. Williamson spent the day before the Sangamon county grand jury, at his own request, to defend his activities while state superintendent of printing for 21 years.

The jury is expected to complete its investigation of Williamson's administration tomorrow. He signed a waiver of immunity. He went before the grand jury soon after 10 a. m. He did not leave intil 5:25.

Neither Williamson nor the state and county officers conducting the examination would comment on what took place during the day's testimony.

Before the session Williamson insisted that he had nothing to hide, saying:

"I never got a penny dishonestly from the state of Illinois, and those political enemies who have been persecuting me know it. I want the opportunity to answer any question any one might wish to ask."

Soviet Chauffeur Gets Death for Fatal Accident

MOSCOW, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Although soviet Russia's criminal codes provide a maximum sentence of only ten years' imprisonment in such cases, the Moscow City court today decreed death for Valentine Ivanov, a chauffeur convicted of reckless driving in an accident which resulted in four deaths. He was found guilty of driving a speeding automobile into a marching column of Red army soldiers.

FINLAND REVEALS SPY PLOT TO KILL MILITARY CHIEFS

U. S. Couple Linked with Assassin Conspiracy.

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Dec. 28.—(AP)—What officials called a conspiracy to poison Finnish military technicians, one of whom died, was linked by government authorities today with an alleged spy ring in connection with which two Americans were arrested last fall.

The body of Lieut. Col. Fritz Walter Asplund, director of the state munitions works until his sudden death last April, was ordered exhumed in the belief he was murdered.

A. A. Oksala, minister of national defense, announced definitely that Asplund had been poisoned, that attempts had been made on the lives of three important men in the army's technical works, Engineer Mantsas, Bureau Chief Tera, and Engineer Ax. He ordered an investigation.

Americans Linked With Ring.

Lieut. Col. Asplund's death was originally attributed to lung inflammation said by doctors to be similar in symptoms to certain kinds of poisoning.

Mr. and Mrs. Arvid Jacobson, former teachers in the schools of Northville and Monroe, Mich., were among those accused of being involved in the alleged espionage syndicate.

Jacobson was said by police to have formed connections with the Russian secret political police while in the United States. He and his young wife, Sally, were widely known here in student circles.

The group is accused of coöperating with a Finnish staff lieutenant named Pentikainen, who, authorities believe, fled to Russia with Finnish military information.

Frequently Visited U. S.

Chief Riekki of the secret service said he believed there was a connection between alleged espionage cases here and in Paris. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gordon Switz, Americans, were arrested in Paris last week in connection with the French case.

Riekki said Jacobson and Marie Martin, who also was arrested here, and Mme. Lidia Tchekaloff Stahl, one of ten held in Paris, often visited the United States. Mme. Stahl told friends here that she was born of peasant parents in the Ukraine and that she married a rich business man from Petrograd.

Miss Martin was said by Finnish police to be of British origin, although she carried a Canadian passport, and to have entertained on a lavish scale in her apartment here. The arrests followed upon a raid on her apartment when she was giving a dinner for a party that included several prominent Finnish society persons.

A young servant girl, Jenny Anttila, was arrested in connection with the alleged poisonings.

Russian Woman Denies Charge.

PARIS, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Investigators' efforts to connect the mysterious Mme. Lidia Tchekaloff Stahl, whom they described as the master mind of an international spy ring, with a young American couple and an alleged espionage syndicate in Finland met firm denials today from the middle aged Russian woman.

An examination by Magistrate Genon of Mme. Stahl, who studied in Columbia university and the Sorbonne, and of Louis Martin, a translator in the marine ministry, failed to establish a link, police said, between them and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gordon Switz of New Jersey, also held on espionage charges.

Mme. Stahl coolly insisted that she had never been connected with a group of thirty, including Mr. and Mrs. Arvid Jacobson, former Michigan school teachers, who were arrested last fall in Finland and accused of spying.

Admits Living in Finland.

Mme. Stahl admitted she lived in Finland in 1915 and 1920, when she was confronted with a police declaration that a Finnish sculptor, whose name was not made public, had denounced the woman to authorities and that she possessed a document bearing the letterhead of the French ministry of marine.

Martin's bank strong box was opened in his presence today. It was said by police to have been rented for him by Ingrid Bostrom, Mme. Stahl's friend, before she left Paris in 1927 with police trailing her.

[In Helsingfors it was said Miss Bostrom left Finland in 1923 with Mme. Stahl and that she had lived in the United States the last four years.]

Martin's bank box contained 90,000 francs [currently about $5,400], $100 in American currency, some silver, and women's jewels. He said the money was saved from his annual salary of 50,000 francs [$3,000] and a recent bonus of 25,000 francs, and that his chief expenses were books.

INJURED BY BANDIT

MRS. GLORIA CRAIG.
[Acme Photo.]

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—Police today were investigating a mysterious attack on Gloria Craig, film extra, who was treated at Hollywood Emergency hospital last night for a gun wound in the chest and knife wound in the right leg.

Hearing her scream, a passer-by frightened a man away from her at a Selma avenue street corner, and Miss Craig said she had been robbed. Her opened purse was found near by, but the police report notes no gun or knife holes were found in her coat.

Miss Craig is the wife of John Craig, adventurer and stunt man, with whom she was rescued from lonely Cedros isle, off the Mexican west coast, two years ago by the yacht of W. J. Hole, wealthy California sportsman. At that time the Craig party told of being besieged on the island by Mexican bandits.

FLYING GRANDMA HOME FROM HER ZEPPELIN FLIGHT

Mrs. Peter Holland, "the flying grandmother," who was a passenger on the Graf Zeppelin's flight from A Century of Progress to Germany last October, returned this week to spend the holiday season with her daughter, Mrs. J. W. Young, 1548 East 61st street. Mrs. Holland is 74 years old, and boarded the Graf without letting her relatives know of her plans.

Originally planning to return to New York in Novembe on the Deutschland, the runaway grandmother prolonged her stay "because I was having such a good time that I couldn't bear to leave." She arrived in New York Dec. 22 on the Bremen.

Practically all Germany seems to approve of Hitler and his policies, she said, and regards the chancellor as "a great man."

U. S. RECOGNITION YEAR'S BEST JOB: SOVIET PREMIER

Molotoff Opens Meeting of Red Parliament.

MOSCOW, Dec. 28.—(AP)—The United States' recognition of Russia was listed as the outstanding success of the soviet policy in 1933 by Vyacheslaff Molotoff, president of the council of commissars, tonight at the opening meeting of the all-union central executive committee, the soviet parliament.

He elicited prolonged cheers whenever he mentioned the name of Maxim Litvinov, the Russian foreign commissar who engaged in recognition negotiations with President Roosevelt.

Calls Russia Invincible.

Molotoff warned the 800 representatives from all parts of the soviet union that the danger of war was never more threatening than now and declared that soviet Russia was invincible because of its policy of keeping the peoples fully informed.

The representatives assembled in the new and modern theater built inside the historic Kremlin walls for Kremlin employés.

In his recital of the relationships between Russia and the principal nations the soviet premier paid tribute to President Roosevelt's initiative and maintained that the removal of the "abnormal situation" of nonrecognition was welcomed by the peoples of both countries.

The resumption of diplomatic relations, the speaker went on, will open the way to a development of trade and will tend to stabilize the general international situation.

Criticizes Germans and Japs.

His speech threw into sharp contrast the betterment of relations with France and Poland with the uncertainty regarding Germany and Japan.

The president sharply criticized circles in both of the latter countries which, he said, fostered hostile feelings and projects toward the soviet government.

In this connection he made a friendly gesture toward the league of nations—unusual for a soviet statesman—when he asserted that the league "played a positive role," inasmuch as it served as a break on the warlike attitude of Japan and Germany.

The soviet attitude toward Germany and Japan are unchanged and peaceful, however, Molotoff continued, although Japanese elements were responsible for published canards and provocations because of a fear that the United States, the soviet union, and China would coöperate in the far east.

In opening his address with remarks on domestic affairs the premier declared the successes of the first year of the second five year plan included a rise of 11 per cent in the output of heavy industry and a crop unprecedented in Russian history.

France Yields to Germany's Demand for Army of 300,000

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Dec. 28.—Andre Francois-Poncet, the French ambassador to Germany, will return to Berlin in a day or two bearing a proposition couched in firm language but nevertheless allowing the reich considerable flexibility in the effort to get together with France on arms demands, according to reliable information tonight.

The most important point of the French offer is to give Germany a reichswehr (regular army) of 300,000 men—if she will take it in a manner agreeable to France. The principal French reservation is that the whole matter be finally thrashed out at the Geneva disarmament conference, where the French want to present the proposition at an arms convention if the Germans agree to it as a basis of discussion.

What France Wants.

The French are willing to grant Germany an army of the size Berlin demands on condition that the additional effectives be drafted from the Nazi storm troopers within three or four years, at the end of which time the storm troopers will disappear as part of the nation's military organization.

However, Paris lets the hint drop that Chancellor Hitler's private army might be transformed in a manner acceptable to France, becoming, for instance, a sports society like the Czechoslovakian sokols.

Germany must submit to strict international supervision of armaments and France is not to reduce her own armaments until a second trial period of four years, according to the proposal. Then, however, she will be willing not only to destroy her so-called offensive weapons but will give up at least half her bombing planes if other nations will do the same.

Has British Approval.

On the matter of aviation Germany is asked to agree to internationalization of civil aviation—which she has steadfastly refused to do heretofore—but it is hoped that the French concession in this field will cause Hitler's government to change its mind.

It is reliably stated that the latest French proposition as the ambassador will present it to Chancellor Hitler has the full approval of Great Britain as well as the little entente. The British, it is said, feel that if it does not meet full German approval at once it will at least form a reasonable basis of discussion at Geneva late next month after Berlin's reply is received.

BAULER'S TRIAL IN ASSAULT CASE SET FOR JAN. 10

Trial of Ald. Mathias [Paddy] Bauler of the 43d ward, who is under indictment for assault to kill Policeman John J. Ahearn, was set for Jan. 10, by Judge Donald S. McKinlay in the Criminal court yesterday. The charge grew out of a shooting brawl in front of Bauler's tavern at 343 West North avenue on Dec. 19. Ahearn and Deputy Sheriff Frank Wright were wounded, the latter by a wild bullet.

He's Shot, and He's Only Waiting for Street Car!

J. Fisher, 2727 Lincoln avenue, a junkman, was waiting for a street car at Roosevelt road and Crawford avenue yesterday. Inside the Roosevelt Currency exchange, 4005 West Roosevelt road, employés were being instructed in the use of a shotgun purchased as a precaution against bandits. One of them touched the trigger. The blast shattered the front door of the exchange office and Fisher fell with several wounds in his leg. They were not serious.

BOOST IN SUITS SHOWN IN 1933 IN SUPERIOR COURT

Suits filed in the Superior court during 1933 totaled 20,577, an increase of 68 over 1932, when 20,509 suits were started. The increase was in the chancery division, where 13,769 suits were filed in 1933, a rise of 822 over 1932. In the law division, 6,808 suits were filed, a decrease of 754 from 1932. The revenue of the court in excess of expenditures decreased this year to $297,853 from $384,100 in 1932.

WATCHMAN ACCIDENTALLY SHOT.

Homer Elder, 41 years old, a private watchman in a building at 5024 Quincy street, was shot in the leg yesterday when his revolver fell to the floor and accidentally was discharged.

GERMANY BARS 28,000 STUDENTS FROM COLLEGES

Limits Women Entrants to 10% of Total.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 28.—Minister of Interior Wilhelm Frick today ruled that only 15,000 of the 43,000 eligible graduates of secondary schools will be allowed to enter universities this year. These will be picked by Nazi authorities for their "learning gifts, but above all for the mental attitude required in the Nazi state."

Only one woman will be allowed to enroll to every ten men regardless of ability. Thus, Nazi Germany for the first time has officially curtailed the education opportunities for women as compared with men.

The new measure has for its objective the reduction of the number of doctors and experts crowding the academic professions and conservation of funds.

Universities Jammed in Recent Years.

In prosperous pre-war years an average of 8,000 youths entered the universities, but in recent years between 23,000 and 30,000 newcomers have jammed the institutions annually in quest of sheepskins which they believed would help them get jobs.

An elaborate organization to guide the remaining youths in the choice of a profession will be formed by German employment agencies aided by school authorities. The government plans to reduce further the number of students in coming years.

Prussia today announced a reorganization of its citizenship. Henceforth the state will have two classes, to be known as full fledged citizens and inhabitants. Citizens must be at least 25 years old, must be of German nationality and have lived in their community for at least one year. They may be inscribed on the citizens' roll and may be called upon to work for the state free of charge. Those classed as inhabitants will have no prerogatives in the community.

To Dissolve Local Councils.

All of Prussia's local councils chosen previously at elections are to be dissolved by April 1. They will be replaced by councils composed of the highest local Nazi leader and storm troop leaders.

The Protestant church conflict continues to stir Germany, though the German press is silent. Dr. Friedrich von Bodenischwingh, who was elected reichsbishop by the pastors last summer and was subsequently ousted by the government in favor of the Nazi German Christian, Dr. Ludwig Mueller, had a long conference with President Paul von Hindenburg today.

The Pastors' Emergency federation charges that Dr. Mueller violated the church constitution by signing an agreement with the Hitler youth leader, Baron Baldur von Schirach recently without the approval of a legal church cabinet. The pastors have called a meeting for tomorrow to decide on measures against Dr. Mueller.

Freeman Tells Evanston Druggists 3.2 Is Limit

Chief of Police William O. Freeman of Evanston sent letters yesterday to seventy drug and food stores in Evanston advising them that the new Evanston city ordinance, passed Nov. 21, prohibits the sale of beverages containing more than 3.2 per cent alcohol. This means that so far as selling is concerned Evanston will be dry.

TAKES OWN LIFE

Dr. Clifford E. Steckbauer, 35 years old, shot himself yesterday in his apartment at 1903 East 73d street. He died of the wound, near the right temple, a short time later in Jackson Park hospital.

His widow, Mrs. Nell Treva Steckbauer, who also is a physician, told police that Dr. Steckbauer was in good spirits and only a few days ago had purchased their tickets for a holiday trip to New Orleans. He had been worrying over his health, she said.

Mrs. Steckbauer said that she was preparing breakfast while her husband played with their dog in another room. Suddenly she heard him call out, "Goodby, Nell," and then heard a shot. She found him lying wounded in a hallway with the revolver in his hand.

Dr. Steckbauer was formerly an assistant professor at the University of Illinois college of medicine. Two years ago he was the complainant on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon against Police Chief Albert A. Terry of Midlothian, whom he charged with striking him with a blackjack when Terry arrested him on a traffic charge. Terry was indicted but was acquitted in the Criminal court.

WYNEKOOPHANDY MAN SHOWS UP; TELLS KIDNAPING

John Van Pelt, 69 years old, who was handy man about the home of Dr. Alice L. Wynekoop at 3406 West Monroe street at the time of the murder of her daughter-in-law, Rheta, appeared last evening at the Fillmore street police station with a tale of having been kidnaped on Dec. 17 by two men who held him prisoner until yesterday.

They treated him "like a king," he said, but placed him in a lie detector and questioned him about the murder. Capt. John Ryan listened to his story and then sent him home, saying he placed no credence in it.

Attorney Benedict J. Short, a veteran in the practice of criminal law, may conduct the defense of Dr. Wynekoop in her trial Jan. 4. This was revealed yesterday after two of the defendant's children, Walker and Dr. Catherine Wynekoop, had conferred with the attorney.

IRISH BLUE SHIRT WORKER FIGHTS SEDITION CHARGE

Describes Fight in Prison with Soldiers.

BY HUGH CURRAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Dec. 28.—A story of how his blue shirt was forcibly removed after a fight with jailers at Arbour Hill prison was told today by Commandant E. J. Cronin, general secretary of the Young Ireland association. Cronin appeared before a military tribunal to defend himself against charges of sedition and membership in unlawful associations.

Cronin, a lieutenant to Gen. Owen O'Duffy, Blue Shirt leader of the opposition to President Eamon de Valera, was arrested Dec. 10.

At today's hearing Cronin testified he had anticipated an attempt to take away his blue shirt.

Blue Shirt Concealed.

"So I wore it under an ordinary shirt," he said.

Three days after his arrest, the defendant continued, the governor of the prison visited his cell accompanied by soldiers and said he had orders from the minister of justice to remove the shirt. Cronin said he bound a muffler about his neck and replied, "You'll have to take it by force."

The soldiers then seized him, the Blue Shirt commandant said. While he clung to the ends of his muffler the soldiers tried to break his hold by bending his fingers and twisting his hands. He said he was thrown to the floor and that the soldiers cut off his clothes with knives. The blue shirt came off in pieces. Cronin added that he sustained body bruises and was placed under medical care.

Following the struggle, the Blue Shirt worker went on a hunger strike for three days. He said he ended the strike on orders of his lawyers.

Says Ammunition Was Planted.

The specific charge against Cronin is that on Nov. 30, while civic guards were searching the offices of the Young Ireland association, he uttered seditious words, the purport of which was that the guards had "planted" ammunition in his quarters. The second and third counts charge him with membership in the Young Ireland association and the National Guard on Dec. 9.

Cronin pleaded not guilty on all counts.

Cronin's counsel pointed out that the National Guard was dissolved last September and that the Young Ireland association was not created until Dec. 12. The lawyer insisted that police witnesses contradicted each other and charged the prosecution with holding caucus to fabricate a new charge when it discovered the original charges could not be sustained. The hearing will be continued tomorrow.

Dies from Beating.

BANDON, Irish Free State, Dec. 28—(AP)—Hugh O'Reilly, 38, a prominent member of the blue shirt organization in this district who was taken for a motor ride two months ago by armed and masked men and beaten, died today. O'Reilly had been left bleeding by the roadside by his attackers.

STEVE O'DONNELL PLEADS ILLNESS.

Steve O'Donnell, brother of the more notorious "Spike" O'Donnell, south side gang leader, is ill with pneumonia, his attorney, Jay J. McCarthy, told Judge Alfred O. Erickson yesterday in gaining continuance of a charge of disorderly conduct against his client until Jan. 6.

REPORT 'CAPTURE' OF REBEL CITY BY CHINESE NAVY

Secret Deal Seen in Seizing of Amoy.

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, China, Dec. 28.—Chinese newspapers today reported that the Nanking (Nationalist government) navy has captured Amoy, an important port on the southern Fukien coast, without resistance from the rebellious 19th route army.

A dispatch from Hongkong, however, asserted that the Chinese navy has merely gone over to the Fukien provience rebel government. It was stated that the rebels have made a secret deal with the navy forces whereby the latter will occupy Mamoi fortress at the mouth of the Min river outside Foochow and the Foochow naval club headquarters, occupied by the 19th troute army when the Fukien People's government was formed, will also be returned.

Major Clash Presaged.

SHANGHAI, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Chinese reports said today that rebel troops in Fukien province were advancing toward the border, presaging a major clash with nationalist government soldiers stationed along the Fukien-Chekiang line.

Meanwhile, Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek, nationalist commander, was said to be preparing to take command of a concerted attack to put down the revolutionaries, who set up the "people's independent government" a few weeks ago at Foochow, capital of Fukien.

Foreigners Fear Bombs.

FOOCHOW, China, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Foreigners living here feared today that their section of the city might become a target for bombs from the airplanes of the national government. The government at Nanking has given no assurance that the air raids would not be extended to the foreign section.

BYRD FLAGSHIP RIDES OUT ANTARCTIC GALE; CREEPS ON TO GOAL

ABOARD ADMIRAL BYRD'S FLAGSHIP OFF ANTARCTICA, Dec. 28.—[Via Mackay Radio.]—(AP)—The flagship of the Byrd antarctic expedition this afternoon crept at reduced speed through iceberg strewn seas after high winds, which had buffeted her for 36 hours, subsided this morning.

Until 6:30 a. m. today the vessel was still headed into a northwest gale in order to give the big seaplane cradled aft the benefit of the lee of the midships deckhouse.

When the sun broke clear for a few minutes and the wind abated the flagship was swung around and headed east. Admiral Richard Byrd was anxious to make up for four days lost on account of fog and storms.

GIRL, 12, KILLS CHUM WHO TOLD OF LOVE AFFAIRS

Strangles Her, Crushes Head with Rock.

White Plains, N. Y., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—A 12 year old girl confessed tonight that she was guilty of the murder of Josephine Woropay, 8 years old, who was found last Sunday beneath St. Matthew's Lyceum building at Hastings-on-Hudson with her skull crushed and the strands of a mop twisted around her neck.

The girl slayer is Mary Kavala. Her family lives in the same tenement as that of the dead girl.

Confesses to Prosecutor.

According to District Attorney Frank H. Coyne, to whom Mary confessed she slew the girl for revenge, while in a fit of temper, because Josephine had been circulating stories about her and her family.

The confession came after hours of questioning in which, at first, Mary denied all knowledge of the crime, but finally confessed and in addition to telling how she had lured Josephine under the Lyceum Saturday and had strangled her with the strands of a mop, crushed her skull with a rock, she made other disclosures that led to the arrest of Sebastian Martil, 46 years old, on a charge of impairing the morals of a minor. This charge is said to have been based upon stories the Kavala girl told of orgies held in the neighborhood, wherein middle aged men and young girls participated.

Some of Stories True.

Martil, who was taken into custody Monday as a suspect in the murder case, was cleared of direct connection with that crime. So was Harry Sulka, 48 years old, who was released tonight.

The stories that Josephine Woropay is alleged to have circulated, and that led to her murder, District Attorney Coyne said, related for the most part to the Kavala girl's relations with boys in the neighborhood. Mary is said to have admitted that some of the stories were true.

When she had finished her confession, Judge George Smyth of the Children's court, who had been present, signed commitment papers, holding her as a juvenile delinquent. District Attorney Coyne said he could prefer a charge of first degree murder against her despite her age, and ask the grand jury for an indictment, but that he had not yet decided whether he would take that step.

Caught in Petty Crimes.

Mary, who will be 13 on Jan. 8, attends public school in Hastings and is in the eighth grade. She has been caught in petty crimes previously, Mr. Coyne said, and has the sex knowledge of a girl several years older. Her interest in the case was what first caused the police to question her, and a remark made by her that she had been with Josephine in the backyard of their home about 5 p. m. Saturday led the district attorney to prolong the questioning until the confession was exacted.

INDICT MOTHER FIVE WAYS FOR SLAYING HER BABY

New York, Dec. 28.—[Special.]—A young mother was indicted today. The charge: Killing her baby in five different ways.

She is Mrs. Elsie Smith, aged 35, of Fort Wadsworth, Staten Island.

The Richmond county grand jury handed up the indictment—murder, first degree.

District Attorney Walsh said the five counts were to discomfit "smart defense" counsel.

On Nov. 26 the body of a boy of eight months was found in a swamp near Annadale, Staten Island. For three days police tried to identify it.

Then on Nov. 30 detectives learned the baby was Mrs. Smith's. She was arrested.

The five counts in today's indictment charge:

1. That Mrs. Smith caused the death of the child "by exposure to the elements."
2. That she caused its death by the administration of poison.
3. That she caused the death by exposure and poison.
4. That she is guilty of murder because while abandoning the child she caused its death.
5. The common law count; that "she did actually cause the death of the child willfully and maliciously.

PLAN AIR LINE TO LINK ALASKA WITH CHICAGO

See Final Extension to the Orient.

BY HUGH SEXTON.

The first step toward connecting the United States and the orient by air travel will be taken next spring when Pan-American Airways, an American owned system which operates air lines around South America, opens an air line between Spokane, Wash., and Alaska, it was revealed last night by officials of Northwest Airways, who met here.

The new route will skirt the west coast of Canada to Alaska, inside a natural barrier of islands which provide a protected route for almost the entire distance from Spokane to Alaska. Pan American Airways now owns an Alaskan air system, which will connect with the new route. Spokane, southern terminus of the route, is served by Northwest Airways, which plans to inaugurate a high speed mail, passenger and express service direct to Chicago at the same time the route is opened to Alaska.

Lindbergh Makes Survey.

Decision of Pan American Airways to begin operating the Alaskan route follows the survey flight made by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh in 1931 from New York to the orient by way of Alaska. Col. Lindbergh is technical adviser for Pan-American Airways.

Col. Lindbergh flew on a great circle route from New York along the western shores of Hudson bay to the northern coast of Alaska on his survey flight. That route, although it is shorter than the route along the west coast of Canada, was abandoned because of the difficulty of carrying supplies to intermediate stops. The supply depots on the west coast of Canada, however, can be reached by boat.

See Extension to China.

Although Northwest Airways officials who disclosed the Pan-American plans had no information on the possible extension of the air line from Alaska to the orient, aviation authorities believe that this will follow successful operation of the Alaskan route. Col. Lindbergh's route to the Orient was along the east coast of Kamchatka and the Japanese islands to China. In China Pan American Airways are operating an air line system in conjunction with the Chinese national government.

SIX RAID FRUIT MART; TERRORIZE 10 AND BEAT TWO

Six armed men invaded the Fullerton-Hamlin fruit mart at 3801 Fullerton avenue last night and after terrorizing two employes and eight customers fled with $1,500. The customers, five of whom were women, were forced by the bandits to lie on the floor.

When the band entered two men who appeared to be the leaders seized Morris Katz, one of the managers, and Abe Colite, a clerk. Both were beaten when they were slow in disclosing where the receipts were held.

Katz said that one of the robbers asked for his brother, Harry Katz, who is treasurer of the firm, indicating accurate knowledge of the organization. Harry was absent at the time.

SIX NAVY PLANES PLAN MASS FLIGHT JAN. 15, COAST TO HONOLULU

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 28.—(AP)—Six navy seaplanes expect to try a mass flight from San Francisco to Honolulu next month, navy headquarters announced today, the first flight in five years over the longest all water route in the world.

The planes ordered to make the flight about Jan. 15 under Lieutenant Commander Knefler McGinnis flew recently in a group from Norfolk, Va., to San Diego, Cal., by way of Panama. They will be permanently stationed at Pearl Harbor, big mid-Pacific naval base on the Hawaiian island of Oahu.

San Francisco is 2,400 land miles from Honolulu. There is no land between.

Five airplanes made nonstop flights from Oakland airport, across San Francisco bay, to Hawaii in 1927 and 1928. Three others failed and carried seven persons to death.

Maj. E. H. Bowie of the weather bureau here said weather conditions would govern the exact time for the flight, commenting that severe storms between here and Honolulu are not unusual in the winter.

RENEWS HEARING OF CONTEST ON BENCH ELECTION

The hearing on the election contest brought by Charles F. McKinley, former Municipal judge, was resumed yesterday by County Judge Jarecki. McKinley is contesting the election of Judge George V. McIntyre to the Municipal bench on Nov. 4, 1930. Judge McIntyre was shown to have won by 2,368 votes but McKinley contends that a recount of ballots will prove him to have been the victor.

Judge Jarecki yesterday heard arguments by attorneys for the contestants on whether votes in 10 precincts in the First ward should have been included in the official canvass. McKinley's attorney, Frank Tyrrell, said the votes were improperly marked and should be excluded. The hearing was continued to today.

McKinley several weeks ago filed a petition for mandamus in the Illinois Supreme court to compel Judge Jarecki to continue with the recount, charging that Judge Jarecki had been dilatory in proceeding with the case. Although Judge Jarecki has filed a formal answer to McKinley's charges, citing the volume of tax cases in the County court as one reason for the delay, he is continuing with the recount without awaiting a decision at Springfield.

United Air Line's Total Mileage Passes 60 Million

United Air Lines, operating out of Chicago to the east and west coasts and the southwest, flew its 60,000,000th mile last night, officials announced. This is the greatest mileage ever flown by any air line in the world, they said. Included in the mileage total is 27,000,000 miles of night flying. The air line operates over 6,870 of airways linking forty-five cities in nineteen states.

He was the last surviving Austrian field marshal of the world war period. From December, 1912, until April, 1917, Von Krobatin was war minister, and in the war supported the army in the field by bold measures. Gas is Always at Customers' Command

Your butcher, baker, grocer and druggist all have their stores stocked with the best of goods, but getting this merchandise to your larder brings up the question of delivery.

There is no waiting for gas.

The Peoples Gas Light and Coke Company has been at work 83 years building a perfect distribution system!

Under the streets of Chicago 3,727 miles of mains form this service. You turn on a burner and there is gas. No telephoning, no waiting. Gas service is instantly at your command.

And this prompt service is yours at a cost which is the most reasonable item in your general household budget.

DITCHING HORSE AND BUGGY IDEAS FOR 1934 AUTOS

New Models Displayed and Illustrated.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—The automobile industry's first decided departure from horse and buggy contours was shown on 1934 models displayed to distributors today by Walter P. Chrysler, president of the youthful corporation bearing his name.

The cars are stream lined, yes, but not in the hackneyed sense of the word meaning merely rounding the corners. The architecture is based on sound aerodynamics, tear dropped, such as the artists of yesterday have been conceiving the automobile of some remote future.

Its style may possibly be the conventional style of all automobiles in 1935 if the public takes well to the innovation.

Overriding Skeptics.

"Is it true," an interviewer asked Mr. Chrysler, "that you personally had to override conservatives in your own organization to initiate this revolution?"

"Yeh," he grinned, "Fred Zeder and I had to fight a bit at the start, but the whole organization was sold with the first ride."

Zeder is the chief engineer.

"There never has been anything that rides like it," Mr. Chrysler continued.

Harold B. Evans of the engineering department was called to take the reporter for a ride—the first demonstration given to a writer not paid for testimonial advertisements.

A heavy nosed vehicle with tapered tail, like the gondola of a dirigible, was wheeled from a garage. The headlights, front fenders and radiator grille presented a rounded front of one unit. The windshield slanted sharply into the highest part of the car, the top sloping down to the rear.

Independent Shock Absorbers.

Inside, the front seat was wide, six inches wider than the rear seat of 1933 models, Mr. Evans said. It was a six passenger sedan, comfortable for three in the front. The steering column was horizontal, like on an airplane. The instrument board and the windows might be described with the same simile.

The engineer turned the car into rough, unpaved streets. There was no pitch in going over big bumps at forty miles an hour.

"The engine is directly over the front axle," said Mr. Evans. "The shock absorption on the two axles functions independently rather than transmitting shocks. The front seats are about where the spare tire fender wells are of a conventional design. The back seat of the rear seats is twenty inches in front of the rear axle, to give a cradled ride.

"The body and chassis are one, not two parts bolted together."

Men, women, and children along the streets turned to stare. Such is the newness of this stream lining in automobiles. The reduced wind resistance, it is claimed, brings about increased fuel economy and speeds.

The 1934 Chrysler models will be on display with the national automobile show in New York Jan. 6 and in Chicago Jan. 27.

Boy's Barefoot Dancing in Snow Costs $100 Fine

Cincinnati, O., Dec. 28.—(AP)—A father was fined a total of $100 and costs today for making his 5 year old son dance barefooted in a snow covered street for what the court called "a few lousy dollars." The father, Rayman Miller, 31, of Newport, Ky., was fined $50 and costs for street begging and $50 and costs for abusing a child. Police found the boy's shoes and stockings and $6.21 in the father's pockets.

NEW CITY COURT CREATED TO WAR ON AUTO THIEVES

No More Leniency, Warns Courtney.

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS

Stolen, 30; recovered, 65; stripped, 13 [from police records for twenty-four hours ending at midnight Wednesday]

A special municipal court established to deal solely with automobile thieves will be opened Jan. 2 in the Criminal Court building. State's Attorney Courtney yesterday announced the plan and said that it had been evolved after he had conferred with the chief justices of the Criminal and Municipal courts, Police Commissioner Allman, and others.

Two assistant state's attorneys will be assigned to the court, the state's attorney said, and will seek the maximum punishment of one to 20 years in prison for the defendants in each case tried. The prosecutor also announced that Commissioner Allman had agreed to issue orders making police captains equally responsible with the police automobile detail for the theft of automobiles in their districts.

Judges Pledge Full Support.

While Chief Justice Philip J. Finnegan of the Criminal court refused to comment on the matter, it was understood that the Criminal court judges at their regular weekly meeting pledged full support to the drive to rid the city of automobile thieves.

A reply to the assertion of Municipal Judge John Gutknecht that "fences" of the city are responsible for automobile thefts was seen in the formal statement of State's Attorney Courtney.

"There has been too much loose talk about fences," the state's attorney said. "I fully recognize that fences operate in conjunction with automobile thieves. To convict a fence, however, it is essential to have good, clear believable evidence. Juries are reluctant and ordinarily will not convict a so-called fence on the uncorroborated testimony of a self-admitted thief. Too often a thief is given his liberty in exchange for promised testimony, with the result that neither the thief nor the fence is punished.

Evidence to Convict.

"I do not intend to let thieves at liberty merely upon the vague hope that some where or some time I might be able to convict a fence. But if any concrete case is brought to my attention where there is sufficient evidence to convict a fence I shall proceed vigorously.

"I do think, however, that the thief who steals automobiles is just as important to the consideration of law and order as is the fence. By destroying the thief we automatically destroy the fence. Also by strict enforcement of the law against the boy thief we may be able to get substantial help instead of meaningless statements of no value as evidence.

"It is about time that the citizens who own automobiles receive some consideration, and I propose to see they get it. I want to serve notice on the mothers and fathers in Cook county that it is up to them now to keep their boys away from stolen automobiles, because I intend that no automobile thief, regardless of age, shall receive any leniency insofar as I can prevent it.

Tears Will Avail Nothing.

"Tears and pleas will avail nothing for fathers or mothers once their boy is indicted. I realize this action is drastic and harsh, but I have no alternative. All automobile thieves will be punished. No one is more interested in the boy than I, but when a boy knowingly commits a crime the line must be drawn.

"Automobile thievery is not a prank. It is a serious crime, and will and should be dealt with accordingly. It is one of the easiest crimes to commit and most tempting so far as our younger generation is concerned. Only strict punishment will stop it."

State's Attorney Courtney said that the plan to establish the court came after he had determined that while there had been some reduction in automobile thefts, the best results were not being obtained.

"I shall insist that there be no changing of charges," the prosecutor said.

COURT DENIES PLEA OF JANET SNOWDEN TO ANNUL MARRIAGE

New City, N. Y., Dec. 28.—(AP)—Janet Snowden's plea for an annulment of her marriage to Prince di Siraggnano Don Francesco Caravita, which took place after a one day romance last August, was rejected today.

Supreme Court Justice George H. Taylor held the evidence was insufficient to cut the matrimonial bonds, but added that if the 18 year old oil heiress wishes to present further evidence within ten days he would reopen the case.

In denying the annulment Justice Taylor rejected the findings of a special referee who had listened to testimony in the case.

"In view of the public policy of the state, related to the still (with us) sacred institution of marriage," Justice Taylor said, "the proofs before the learned referee are wholly insufficient to warrant annulment on the ground of fraud, even though the parties are apparently willing, if not anxious, to have it annulled."

The prince, an amateur automobile racing enthusiast, sailed for his native Italy shortly after his bride of a few days left him.

$100,000 WORTH OF FAIR SPACE SOLD IN 3 HOURS

Exhibition space for six exhibitors, bringing in a total revenue of $100,000, was sold in three hours yesterday afternoon by A Century of Progress Exposition. A total of 161 exhibitors, paying rent in excess of $600,000, have now signed contracts with the Fair. Those signing yesterday were the Texas company, General Cigars, Libby, McNeil & Libby, Link Belt company, American Asphalt, and the North Western railway.

Friends of Rufus C. Dawes recognized his work as president of A Century of Progress yesterday with the presentation of an unique book, valued at $1,000, which contains the signatures of 150 leading citizens.

The presentation was made at a luncheon in the Midday club, and Mr. Dawes came into possession of a volume made from parchment, gold, steel, ostrich hide and nonfading ink which included a history of the Fair and laudatory words for its president.

The presentation committee included Sidney Gorham, B. E. Sunny, Rush C. Butler, Amos C. Miller, Britten I. Budd, Floyd L. Bateman, and Gen. Abel Davis.

1933 SHOWS LARGE RISE IN JUVENILE DELINQUENCIES

The year 1933 has seen the greatest volume of juvenile delinquencies in Cook county since 1919, when post-war demoralization was blamed for the situation. This was revealed yesterday by John P. Morrison, chief clerk of the Juvenile court, in his annual report.

The number of cases of delinquent and dependent juveniles in 1933, which was 26,266, was an increase of more than 6,000 over the 1932 total. The total for that year had shown a decrease of 2,000 below the 1931 level.

Of the cases handled in 1933, only about a third, however, were delinquents. The rest were dependent children. The problem of caring for these children was increased during the present year, Mr. Morrison said, by the reduction in pensions paid to mothers of dependent children by the county. These pensions were cut from $1,175,000 for 1932 to $970,000 this year.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

TO RECOVERY.

Travelers in our countryside in these days see long lines of men ostensibly engaged in public work. Paid at a higher rate than private employers can afford, working shorter hours and at a slower pace than a private employer could afford to tolerate, they represent an economic and a social problem which seriously compromises the future of the nation. Farmers and business men are asking themselves where they are to get labor upon terms which they can meet as this competition spreads. Their employés are already leaving them for the easier and higher paid jobs in public work. Meanwhile to maintain the latter, enormous sums of public money are being distributed and must be obtained by increasing levies upon the drastically depleted means of private citizens of all classes and of private enterprise. And we read that more money is to be voted and higher rates of taxation imposed.

Among those who are canvassing the financial consequences of present and prospective federal expenditure there is a growing fear that federal bankruptcy cannot be escaped unless federal expenditure is restrained, and it is recognized that restraint is becoming less of a political possibility as more money is distributed and the huge army of its beneficiaries increases day by day and month by month.

It is a disheartening situation for every American who is not able to disregard the lessons of human experience and to accept experiments as novel inventions which have been tried in that experience and found wanting. Discouraged by the unresolved problem of nation-wide unemployment and by the rapid expansion of vast government pay rolls, seeing economic and social fallacy in control of government policy, with cold comfort in preaching sound doctrine and opposing error, and unable to see any end of the present course save catastrophe, on Christmas morning came the idea and the determination to turn the resources and trained news gathering personnel of THE TRIBUNE to the direct and practical service of American recovery. As the first step in the campaign the corps of TRIBUNE foreign correspondents received orders to make its foremost objective the recovery and extension of foreign markets for American products, agricultural and industrial. TRIBUNE correspondents are at strategic centers scattered over the globe. They will make themselves liaison officers between the foreign consumer and the American producer, exploiting every possibility in their respective fields for the export of American goods. Philip Kinsley, an experienced observer through travel in many countries and one of the ablest of American journalists, will tour Canada, Mexico, and South America in the same quest. Arthur Evans, another exceptionally able and well equipped student of economic conditions, will explore the fields of metallurgy, chemistry, mechanics, and electricity for the new products which will furnish useful employment and meet new wants, resuming the progress of American material comfort and welfare.

What the recovery program ignores is that to accomplish reëmployment on the scale necessary the only agency capable of it, private enterprise, must be stimulated. Only lip service is given to this principle by the champions of a planned economy. The forces which are trying to operate and here and there are producing results are retarded by restrictions and exactions imposed by theorists now in power, who are more interested in establishing a new economic and social order than in making use of existing agencies to restore the constructive energies of the nation. The American people ought to demand that the objective for which the administration was elected be made its prime concern and not sacrificed to the purposes of revolutionary experiment of which the voters of the nation had no inkling when they went to the polls.

The American people want business recovery, and recovery must be their concentrated effort. Both American agriculture and American industry and commerce, in spite of the handicaps which burden them, must recognize that the revival of their interdependent prosperity depends primarily upon their own resourcefulness. The most important factor is the development of new markets and new demands. THE TRIBUNE intends to do all its resources permit to open up the possibilities of foreign and domestic trade. Its foreign correspondents are instructed to make an intensive survey in foreign countries of the wants the American farmer, industrialist, and exporter can fulfill. It will give encouragement and support to new inventions, to every practical new exploitation of American commodities and products. The vitilization of American private enterprise in all its possibilities is the only means of true recovery. The bleeding of private resources through vast wasteful expenditure, the paralyzing of private initiative by unnecessary government restrictions are the way down, not up. They are the only danger in the path of the nation toward the recovery of its natural health and strength.

STATISTICS.

The department of agriculture estimates that 41 million acres were sown to wheat this autumn. This was not exactly a brilliant showing for the wheat control program in view of the fact that the department's comparable figure for a year ago was less than 40 million acres. The department has seen fit to revise last year's first estimate upward by more than two and a half million acres, and, having done so, is now in a position to point with pride to its accomplishment in acreage reduction. Perhaps the revisions were made to permit the pointing-with-pride or perhaps it was all a coincidence. In fairness to the department it must be said that similar revisions in recent years have all been upward, though the increase has not as a rule been so large.

At all events, it may be worth while to quote in this connection some recent comments of that excellent periodical, the London Economist:

"That the German statistical service has been placed under the ministry of propaganda has for some time been a matter for ribaldry—or, alternately, for disgust—among economists. A recent item of news from the United States has an ominously similar sound. . . ."

The Economist then tells about the omission from the Federal Reserve Bulletin for November of its review of the month, and continues:

"It is a common belief of the layman that statistics can be manipulated to prove anything desired and the only safeguard is to insure that they are compiled and interpreted by those who are familiar with their construction and have no axes to grind. The need for impartial comment is amply demonstrated by an official announcement from Washington that no fewer than 3,476,000 persons are now employed under the public works and emergency relief schemes—a figure so enormous and so much at variance with all other indications that one can only guess at the methods by which it has been calculated. The muzzling of the federal reserve board's statisticians will inevitably cast suspicion upon the accuracy of all 'official' figures from Washington."

THE COACHES SEEK PROTECTION.

Occupational, or professional, mortality in the football coaching ranks this December was a record sports calamity. The spectators had hardly cleared the stands after the last games and the players were no more than off the field when explosions the country over disclosed coaches leaving their jobs. The highways were dotted with dazed men carrying their carpet sacks and looking for a hitch.

The coaches, meeting in a post-season, if not post-mortem, session in Chicago, have what is called a stabilization committee. The need of it in their line of endeavor requires no illustration and it deals with a situation to be described in a few words. If you don't win you lose. This season's casualty list of coaches, not of players, indicates that if something is to be done it must be done quickly. The chairman of the stabilization committee, H. J. Stegeman, made some suggestions, one being that any coach who feels he had been unjustly treated shall have an appeal to his peers, the other coaches.

From this suggestion to the organization of the coaches in a labor union is but a step. Miss Frances Perkins of the department of labor would be glad to be of service, but the coaches might learn more from Umbrella Mike Boyle or from Mr. Maloy of the moving picture operators. The proper answer to a faculty or alumni committee, after a season of two won, one tied, and six lost, is: O, yeah. Try and do it. The possibilities are immense. When such an answer has been sufficient to get an apology from the faculty, the chairman of the board and the alumni association officers it will be the decent thing for the business agent of the Brotherhood of Coaches, Coaches' Helpers, and Trainers to take over the assignment of the coaches. He will put this man in that place or three men in that place. Coaching will not only be stabilized, but it will also be standardized. It will be understood that the coach is not pitching the passes. That is up to the boy the alumni find in the Westover District No. 10 High school or in the Scragmore Iron works.

If the coaches want a new deal nothing less than this will serve them. Now, even when a faculty can be persuaded that six games lost in a row does not wholly ruin a scholastic year, the alumni will not yield an inch. They may have the surer instinct, knowing that the purpose of higher education can be wholly frustrated under present arrangements by the failure to make first downs when needed, connect passes, or convert after touchdown. The success of an institution of higher learning can be estimated only on Saturday afternoons in October and November. So long as this remains true the coach's job, without a business agent, will be one of precarious tenure.

Editorial of the Day

GERMANS QUIT READING.

[Des Moines Tribune.]

Der Aktivist, official publication of the National Socialist Students Union of Berlin, complains that the nation, "politicized in highest degree through the National Socialist movement, is no longer reading any newspapers." Those who formerly read several papers now "skim through" one.

Even Nazi functionaries "neglect their duty" in the same manner, Der Aktivist declares.

The word duty is used advisedly, for the German Supreme court has just handed down a decision making it the duty of every person to read a newspaper. The court held that failure to do so amounts to such an extreme of contributory negligence as to absolve the government from all responsibility for damages to a person in case he suffers a loss which he would have been spared if he had read the newspapers.

Der Aktivist attributes public indifference to German papers to the fact that "all of them are alike, from Koenigsberg to Constance," that they have degenerated "into an informatory instrument and have forgotten that it is the chief duty of the press to be the spokesman of public opinion." It deplores the lack of critical writing, and insists that "constructive criticism" would be welcomed.

Naïve complaints!

Our nearest approach to the brand of journalism toward which Nazi Germany is headed under its Hitlers, its Goebbels, and its Goerings would be very well represented in the United States by the Congressional Record, carefully expurgated by the deletion of all words from the administration's opposition, all criticism of the "ins."

We should have left in such a press the "voice of the government" which the government itself had decreed to be the expression of public opinion.

It is quite conceivable that something still more effective than a decision of the Supreme court would be required to enforce performance of the duty of keeping abreast of the "news," if that were our sole source of daily information.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

SAY WHAT YOU WILL about newspapers, but they are an absolute necessity. How would we know who's getting divorced if it wasn't for the newspapers? And sakes alive! it's hard enough to keep up with divorces even with the newspapers telling us. The six hour day and five day week, though, if the Reno judges some under the code, ought to lessen the number of legal separations quite a bit. Make 'em stand in line and wait their turn.

AND THE BIG ADVANTAGE of New Year's over Christmas is that you don't have to give presents on New Year's day (or get cigars and neckties, which is worse), but the trouble this year is that you'll have to drink Tom and Jerrys all over the place. And the making of a Tom and Jerry is a lost art. People pour the rum and brandy in so fast that they cook the eggs and what you get is a sort of liquid omelet.

AND DON'T FORGET that the Water Wagon starts on its annual trip Sunday night promptly on the stroke of 12. And we do hope we have a large number of lady trippers. Let us all try to get the girls out of the barrooms before New Year's.

THE SPEED OF LIGHT has just been definitely settled as 186,271 miles a second. Which seems reasonably fast, but wait until the high pressure salesmen tell you about the new model autos.

AT THE CROSSING.

On the corner of the street,
Where the world's two pathways meet—
North and South, and East and West—
Sentinels that never rest,
Robots, stern and traffic wise,
Stand and wink their warning eyes.

Red and green, and green and red,— "Caution—stop—wait—go ahead."
To and fro, and to and fro,
All day long the autos go,
Each with robot at the wheel,
Flesh and blood, instead of steel.

What do traffic robots think,
As they guard the street and wink
Signals to the ones that ride
All day, to and fro, inside
Taxis, limousines, coupés,
Threading through the highway's maze?

Do they wonder, as I do,
Where the crowds are going to?
Whence they come and come, and why
They so madly hurry by,
North and south, and east and west?
What the objects of their quest?

Green and red, and red and green—
Coupé, taxi, limousine,
Honk their horns and grind their brakes,
Till the pavement creaks and quakes,
All impatient to be gone—
Whither? On and on and on.

At their posts the robots stay;
But the crowds from day to day
Never are the same; for some Speed away, and never come Back again. Do robots care
What their fate, or where they fare?

Down each luring avenue
Waits a final rendezvous
For each robot at the wheel,
Where no robot, made of steel,
Warns of pending peril, then
Flashes "go ahead" again.
. . . . . .
Blinking robots watch the street
Where all pathways part and meet:
To and fro and to and fro,
All day long the autos go,
Grinding brakes and shifting gears,
And the days dissolve in years.

"AN' LISSEN!" the fat woman in front of me on the bus was saying to her friend, "Mr. Roosevelt is sure right! Everybody ought to go for subsidence farming, as he tells 'em. What he means is that we ought, all of us, to get a little farm somewhere and move out there and subside." It's a grand idea, Mr. Roosevelt may have called it "subsistence farming," but subsiding farming is what so many of us badly need. The world is so full of jazz, radio, movies, machinery, automobiles, NRA's, income taxes, AAA's, gas stations, liquor control, hit and run drivers, economic discussions, OOO's, and so on that it would be great to go in for subsidence farming. And, as the fat woman on the bus said, just go out there and subside. It would do us all good if for a while anyhow we'd go 'way back and sit down.

With brittle joys that cannot
Bring me laughter,
And one blunt pain that cannot
Bring me tears.

SOME FACIAL BLEMISHES.

One must know the nature of his facial blemish before deciding on a method of removal since tissues vary in their nature and in the way they react to the different methods of treatment.

In a paper appearing in Clinical Medicine and Surgery, Dr. Herman Feit told a society of plastic surgeons his conclusions as to the best methods of treating a considerable group of cosmetic defects.

One of the unpleasant looking growths that are apt to appear on the face and neck, especially of Negroes, is known as keloid. A young keloid can be removed by treatment with X-ray or radium. An old, firm keloid will not yield to these treatments. Such growths are successfully removed by surgical procedures.

The small, yellow, curdy tumors that are especially apt to develop in the skin of the eyelids are known as xanthomas. They are not benefited by treatment with X-rays or radium. The same is true of slowly growing tumors composed of fat and known as lipomas, of muscle and known as myomas, of nerve and known as neuromas, and of fibrous tissue and known as fibromas or fibroids. They are cured by operation.

Rapidly growing birthmarks, composed of young blood vessels, are cured by radium or rays. Port wine birthmarks and all other old, nonprogressive birthmarks are not benefited by radium or X-rays. Congenital, pigmented or colored birthmarks, nonprogressive and persistent, are not sensitive to radiation. The rule is that all blood and lymph vessel marks that are composed of young, growing vessels can be removed by radium and rays, but those composed of mature vessels cannot be.

In some cases injection of sclerosing solutions, such as are used for varicose veins, results in cures. The cases for such injection must be selected carefully.

Superfluous hair can be removed by treatment with X-rays. But the method is dangerous if the treatments are strong enough to kill the hair roots. Unless they accomplish that hairs come back. Therefore, the method is a poor one. The electric needle is much the better and safer method.

Excessive sweating of the hands and feet is cured by treatment with X-rays. The treatment should not be carried too far. X-ray treatments of excess sweating in the armpits promises satisfactory results.

Ordinary warts and warts on the soles of the feet, known as plantar warts, are cured by ray treatment. Horny skin growths in old people should be curetted and then rayed if anything is to be done.

For X-ray skin, the use of a salt free diet rich in vitamin A is helpful. Pancreatin is serviceable in scleroderma. In barber's itch it may be necessary to remove the beard with an electric needle or X-ray. A good sterilizing dye should be applied locally. Tuberculosis of the skin is best treated with a salt free and vitamin rich diet. Rays should not be used. Common lupus is cured without much scarring by the use of the new gold salts.

NETTLE RASH.

Mrs. A. K. writes: I have read many questions on the mysterious skin rash that so many write to you about. My personal experience with this appears as many others have explained it, with itching nearly driving me insane.

The cause, in my case, I have discovered to be eating such things as smoked ham and some kinds of bacon. I believe it is the overuse of saltpeter or liquid smoke. I have watched this on myself for over two years and will get this so-called itch about two hours after eating this meat. The itch will remain several days. I never have it if I leave these items alone.

REPLY.

There are many possible causes of nettle rash. Many besides you have attacks after eating certain kinds of meat.

Your problem is a simple one: Avoid the meats that cause it. Other cases due to other causes would not be helped by avoiding these foods.

NEED OF TRAINING.

M. S. writes: I am a girl 14 years old. I am tortured constantly with severe nervous spells which occur when I go places. For instance, when I go to church, it seems as though the organ music gets on my nerves and I feel as though I could scream. I have been troubled with these spells for over a year now. It is not natural for a person of my age. I am lifeless and have no pep or vitality. I try to be happy, and get myself out of these nervous, moody spells, but it seems like something is keeping me from being like other girls. Could you please tell me what causes me to be this way?

REPLY.

Probably all you need do is to live more hygienically. Your tendency to outbursts is merely hysterical, the remedy for which is training in self-control.

FLEAS.

Mrs. S. D. O. writes: What can we do for fleas? They are awful. We live in a new house and everything is very clean. Last June my daughter brought a cat home. It proved to be badly infested with fleas. We failed to get rid of them and decided it was advisable to kill the cat.

Our next door neighbor has rabbits. They are very filthy. Could they be supplying us with fleas? What can we do? Is the nuisance next door a matter for the health department?

REPLY.

I presume there is no question but that the cat was the original source of the pest. Are you certain your own premises are not the present source?

The best repellent is naphthalene. It is used as a dusting powder on rugs, rags, carpets, floors, and clothing. It can be made into an ointment.

It is possible your neighbor is your present source of supply. Within limits, health departments are comfort stations and can cause the abatement of nuisances.

MINOR'S RIGHTS.

Chicago, Dec. 25.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. How old must one be so that he can buy an automobile without the consent of his parents? 2. In case he is younger than the age given in the above, would his parents be held responsible for any accidents that might occur if he bought the automobile without their consent? C. R.

1. Since a minor is permitted to repudiate his business contracts and recover payments made thereunder, it would be advisable for other persons to refuse to deal with you until you become 21.

2. Not on the bare facts stated. In order for the parents to be liable, additional facts would have to be presented, such as that the trip was taken on their business.

"LAST WILL."

Otterbein, Ind., Dec. 25.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I am a widow visiting here. My husband died a few months ago. There was no will and we have no children. 1. Should I have my will, which I made a short time ago, probated? 2. What does probate mean? I made a bank in California, my home, my executor. M. M.

1. No. The probate of your will will be handled after your death.

2. It is a judicial establishment of the point that the instrument presented is the last will of the deceased. Obviously, it is not possible to know what is the LAST will until the person has died.

CONDEMNATION PROCEEDINGS.

Chicago, Dec. 25.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I have a lot in Los Angeles. Recently I received a notice that a highway is to be built where my lot is located and that the state needs 11 feet of land donated to it and there will be no tax on the property. Can you tell me if I must give up this 11 feet of land to the state without being paid for it? Can I ask the state to pay me for the land? E. D.

If you refuse the state can take the land by condemnation proceedings in which a jury will fix the amount to be credited to you. Obviously, it may be possible that such amount may be less than your share of the assessment for the improvement.

COURT APPEAL.

Chicago, Dec. 24.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—The lower court rendered a verdict in my favor and the company that I was suing carried the case to the Appellate court. Inasmuch as the company I am suing carried the case to the higher court, does my attorney have to pay anything due to their taking such action? J. G.

In order to be heard in the Appellate court you would have to pay an appearance fee and the cost of printing briefs in addition to your attorney's fee.

RIGA, Latvia.—Charged with being communists and using their immunity from arrest to transport communist literature throughout the country, five deputies representing the Workers and Peasants' party in the Latvian parliament have been turned over to the police to face trial on charges of treason.

When parliament canceled the mandates of the alleged Reds and forced them to leave the building a riot broke out. A company of police used rubber clubs to disperse the crowd.

Members of the Socialist faction in parliament, who are more bolshevik than Socialist, joined in the riot. One policeman's hand was severely bitten in the free for all.

The communist party was declared illegal in Latvia when this country achieved victory in its war of independence against the bolsheviks, but the communists have always participated in the election campaigns under the banner of the Workers and Peasants' party. The members elected by this party received orders from Comrade Straujanis, press attaché of the soviet legation, who regularly attended parliament meetings and acted as impresario for communist disturbances in the hall.

When the speaker ruled in favor of voting on the expulsion resolution the Red deputies arose and after shouting, "Down with Fascist Latvia! Hurrah for soviet Latvia!" they sang the bolshevik hymn, "The Internationale."

The Red deputies will be tried by the Riga District court, which recently sentenced an agent of the communist international to five years' imprisonment at hard labor. The total number of communists at present held in Latvian prisons is about 500. All were convicted on charges of advocating the overthrow of the Latvian government by armed uprising and annexation of Latvia to Russia. Public feeling against the Reds is growing and more arrests are expected.

THE PROFITS OF DEPRECIATION.

Chicago, Dec. 23.—According to this morning's TRIBUNE, another step in the President's money program may be announced next week. "This involves the actual devaluation of the gold content of the dollar, with a subsequent paper profit to the treasury of approximately four billion dollars on the national gold stocks."

Profits, paper or otherwise, do not materialize out of thin air. When some one, even the government, makes a profit, some one else is loser. It might be well for those who have recently purchased the government securities bearing the government's promise to pay in gold to consider from whence this colossal profit to the treasury of four billion dollars. Who, in this case, is the loser?

If this is looked on as a tax on those persons who have bought government securities, what sort of tax is it that is collected through repudiation of government promises? If government promises are so easily broken, will the government also tell us where we can look for real security?

On Dec. 1 the government ceased putting up the price of gold. On Dec. 14 huge sums in government securities were sold to the people. On Dec. 18 gold operations were resumed. Is it possible that these securities would not have sold so well if it had been known that the government intended to resume these operations of which the avowed intention is to depreciate the dollar? It has been often suggested that this is the case. If the government thus fails us where can we turn for integrity? A CITIZEN.

JNO.

Chicago, Dec. 24.—Why do directory publishers abbreviate and so horribly mutilate the good old name John? Look in the telephone books, for instance, and notice it always shows up in them as Jno. I can understand the need for abbreviation, of course, but names two, three, or four times as long appear in their original pure state. For instance, you may observe the names of Walter, Theophile, Alphonso, Lawrence, and even Bartholomew, appear just that way.

Assuming John must be abbreviated, why, after the "h" is dropped, are the remaining letters twisted around in such grotesque fashion? If these letters were left in their original order it would result in Jon. That would have exactly the same number of letters as Jno, and would, at least, preserve the phonetic properties of the name. W. R. O.

INADEQUATE GUTTERS.

Chicago, Dec. 22.—A delegation of Chicago's leading citizens started for Washington this morning to ask Secretary Ickes for $250,000,000 to rebuild the streets of Chicago. The spokesman of this delegation says our gutters are not big enough to take care of our city and county officials and our police force between the hours of 3 and 4 a. m. gathering food to feed hungry children.

Therefore, be it resolved, we build bigger and better gutters. A. E.

BAD GIRLS' PICTURES.

Chicago, Dec. 21.—In all pictures you see in the papers of young ladies who are suspected of any misdemeanor they are shown with their skirts above their knees. Perhaps there is something about girls' legs that they use to identify them by, like fingerprints.

J. M. NICHOLSON.

THE ROOSEVELT ROAD SITE.

Chicago, Dec. 24.—Our city fathers suggest the impossible and impractical, a passenger terminal at Randolph street. After spending millions of dollars beautifying our front yard, we surely do not care to have steam and electric engines mar this beauty.

The logical site for a new union passenger terminal would be the present Central station facing 12th street, and by building a new air line at 18th street should be very easily accessible to a great many roads.

The New York Central could use the Michigan Central tracks from Porter, Ind., the Nickel Plate and C. & O. could connect on the south side, the Santa Fe and C. & A. could use the new air line into this double decked new station.

The present Illinois Central right of way in our city is the best in the country and has the facilities of handling a great deal more traffic, and our coördinator, Mr. Eastman, should give this his closest consideration if he is willing to accomplish something for the railroads in Chicago. FRED FRANZ.

MEDDLERS.

Chicago, Dec. 21.—Does it ever occur to some meddling people that much heartbreak can come of their meddling?

To be specific: Monday noon, on Cornelia, near Lake Shore drive, a white spitz puppy was run over and injured by an auto. Before the pup's owner could come to her assistance, some meddling individual, without making inquiries or even waiting ten seconds, picked up the pup and went off with her, leaving the owner perfectly bewildered in his attempts to find the dog.

Had the overkind person merely looked back he or she would have seen the owner running after the dog. As a result quite a bereavement has been caused by such well intentioned haste.

MRS. B. CHIZEVER.

A BY-PRODUCT.

Chicago, Dec. 21.—You business men and property owners who worried so much about losing the name of an old established street and famous corners for fear [I suppose] you couldn't be found, think what you've done. You brought your street and its future name to the very front ranks of our great big city, Chicago. It's on every tongue; everybody's talking about it; you hear it everywhere. That's what I call making a famous name more famous [if this be possible].

You can rest assured now, you big business men and property owners, that when you say you live on Pulaski road every one will know exactly just where you are. TED SZYMANSKI.

OR BETTER.

Chicago, Dec. 23.—The citizens in this community, and particularly the wet ones, strongly appreciate your various cartoons and hope that you do everything in your power to bring about legislation in the state of Illinois similar to New York and Michigan.

HERBERT E. KERBER.

A CHRISTMAS TREAT.

Chicago's Opera Ball Tonight Will Be Gay, Hilarious Party

Orchestras, Noted Singers, Costume Parade, and Floor Show Will Help Provide Good Time.

BY JUDITH CASS.

THERE will be Marguerites, Toscas, Mimis, Carmens, Don Joses, Escamillos and various other operatic characters all over the Civic Opera house tonight instead of just on the stage, for this is the night of the Grand Opera Masque ball and every one who attends it must be costumed and masked. Not necessarily in operatic costume, but in something different from everyday clothes, and for those who haven't had time to plan special costumes there will be capes and masques on sale at the door.

Andrew Rebori and Paul Kerby have planned a grand opera review that the sponsors declare will be worth the price of admission alone, and in addition there is to be a floor show, arranged by Mrs. Charles H. Chadwick, that will employ the talents of some of the outstanding radio and stage stars in the city.

The program will start at 11 o'clock with Mr. Kerby conducting the orchestra of the Grand Opera company in the prelude to "The Meistersinger." Then George Haight will deliver an address of welcome, after which, with a fanfare of trumpets, there will be a grand parade of well known people who are patrons of opera. De Wolf Hopper will speak a prologue and then will come the grand opera review in which the Montmartre scene from "La Boheme" will be given by Margery Maxwell and a full chorus; Hilda Burke will sing "Elsa's Dream" from "Lohengrin"; Coe Glade will sing the "Habanera" from "Carmen," and Ruth Page and the Novikoff ensemble will give the ballets from acts II. and IV. of that opera; Elisabeth Rethberg will sing Madame Butterfly's aria, "One Fine Day," and Marion Claire will sing "The Jewel Song" from "Faust."

Present Floor Show on Stage.

About 12:45 o'clock there will start a floor show on the stage, with Vincent Lopez as the master of ceremonies. Bobby Arnst, Paul Ash, Cook and Brown, Janet Reade, the Duncan sisters, Stanley Morrel and Richard Cole are those who will contribute to the entertainment.

There are to be four orchestras for dancing and also four bars, so it would seem that everything that could add to an atmosphere of merriment and hilarity will be there. Some of those who will occupy boxes will be the junior Edward A. Cudahys, the Wirt Mortons, the George Woodruffs, the Alexander Carquevilles, Miss Naneen Rebori, Mrs. Jacob Baur, and the Charles S. Davises.

Mr. and Mrs. Chadwick, the Ernest R. Grahams, Vincent Bendix, the Hayden B. Harrises, Mrs. Frank Fuller, Giuseppe Castruccio, the Howard Linns, the Arthur G. Cables, Mrs. Bartholomay Osborne, the Philip Mahers, Miss Narcissa Swift, and the Ambrose C. Cramers are some of those who have reserved tables for themselves and parties of friends.

Miss Patsy Keith Will Bow Tonight.

At a dinner with dancing this evening at the Casino, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Keith are presenting their daughter, Leslie, more familiarly known as Patsy, to society. Although Miss Keith has been one of the most feted of this year's debutantes, it is not until tonight that she takes her place officially in society.

With her mother she will receive 200 members of the younger set invited for 8 o'clock. From 9 o'clock on until well after midnight the party will be a matter of dinner delicacies, soft lights, and dreamy music.

The first twins to make their debuts in Chicago for several years are the Misses Myrtle and Lillian Lampert, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson W. Lampert. The attractive young ladies, who look so much alike it is difficult to tell them apart, were presented to society at a dinner dance at the Blackstone hotel last night. Dressed alike in dusty rose Chantilly lace gowns and carrying armloads of yellow tea roses, they received with their parents in the foyer of the ballroom.

Mrs. Lampert wore gold lamé and a corsage of orchids. Only debutantes and their beaux were invited to the affair.

Suzette Morton Gives Dinner.

Miss Suzette Morton, home from her studies at Vassar for the holidays, entertained at dinner last night for a dozen friends. The party was held at the Astor street apartment of her parents, the Sterling Mortons.

Sub-sub-debutantes and prep school boys will be having a whirl tonight at the dinner dance Mrs. Edward H. Bennett and Mrs. James M. Hopkins are giving for their daughters, Elizabeth Mead and Kay Goodman. The dance is being given in Lake Forest at the Deerpath inn.

Mrs. Carl Duncan Kelly will entertain about seventy-five of the sub-debutante set at a dinner dance in her Indian Hill home tonight. Mrs. Kelly is giving the party for her daughter, Patricia, who is at home from West-

Mozart Work Leaves School in This Concert

Guiomar Novaes Plays It with Orchestra.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Guiomar Novaes, the Brazilian pianist, was the soloist with the Chicago Symphony orchestra last night, demonstrating thereby that she is quite as fine and persuasive an interpreter of Mozart as she was of Chopin last year.

The concerto in D minor was her choice on this occasion, a work which Mme. Novaes seemed to believe was worthy of being promoted from the conservatory classes to the repertoire of an artist. After hearing her there was no trouble in agreeing with her belief. She proved that simplicity is one of the fine arts, but that it need not be made a cult or become inconsistent with warmth, also that the light tone which is in Mozart's music coupled with her own marvelous, swift accuracy can be utterly charming.

After a delay of several weeks, Conductor Stock was finally able to bring out one of the novelties of the season, the dances from Hindemith's music to the play, "Nusch-Nuschi." While it is quite possible that these dances will have little effect in making the world Hindemith conscious, they were alert and perky in their modern idiom, and thereby entertaining.

There was one of the Bach suites, the least frequently played of all, for a prelude to the program; there was music of high charm after the intermission. Here appeared the Dohnanyi Suite, which because of its melody and orchestra color never fails of its effect, also Mr. Stock's own "Symphonic Waltz," one of the best examples in existence of the waltz rhythm in complex concert treatment, and good melody as well.

There had been some advance reasons to believe that Ninon Vallin, soprano, was a singer somewhat out of the ordinary before she made her first Chicago appearance in the Crystal ballroom of the Blackstone hotel yesterday, but even the preliminary publicity was hardly enough to indicate how good she really is.

She is one of the most charming artists of this or any other year. It is not merely the matter of a lovely voice, but of the smile in the tones of that voice. Nor is it only the fact of her being an accomplished musician in everything she touches, but of the deftness with which she evokes moods from her music. And not the least of her donations to the public was a new and altogether delightful group of songs, "Airs Chantés" by Francis Poulenc. These were in addition to a group of the ancients, two songs by Debussy, and two in Spanish by Joaquin Nin.

Her associate on the program was Jacques Gordon, who bears much the same relation to the violin that she does to the soprano voice, failing only to the extent that he had not found new violin music to correspond to the Poulenc songs. But his tone, interpretation, everything that goes to make good playing, put him in the position of being a distinctive and distinguished musical companion of Mme. Vallin.

Use Victorias

Winsome Martha Lee, daughter of the T. George Lees, is one of the members of Mrs. Ernest R. Graham's costume party that will drive to the opera ball tonight at the Civic Opera house in several ancient and authentic horse drawn victorias. Mrs. Graham, as the Empress Eugénie, has set the period for the costumes of her guests, among whom are Miss Lee's sister and brother-in-law, the William Grahams; William Fellows, Miss Narcissa Swift, Frederick Haskell, Miss Edna Kellogg, and Paul Butler.

Miss Lee's costume is of canary yellow taffeta trimmed with black velvet, and the panel down the front of her gown is of scarlet taffeta, also trimmed with black velvet. The men are disguising their full dress suits with wide satin lapels and ruffled shirt fronts and cuffs of lace. Although they refused to curl and powder their hair, they will be wearing false sideburns.

Art Fraternity at Institute Has Jury Exhibition

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

Two interesting little exhibits claim attention. Delta Phi Delta, an honorary art fraternity, is holding an exhibition in the lobby of the Art institute school. There are water colors, lithographs, designs, and etchings, amusing and serious—enough to while away an odd half hour. Some of the work is modern, some not.

The exhibit was chosen by a jury of instructors in the Art institute school, Norman Rice, Laura Van Pappelendem, and Willard Smythe. It will continue through the first week in January.

For those of us who know little about fraternities it might be as well to mention that Delta Phi Delta is a national organization having nineteen chapters. The local chapter at the Art institute, Zeta, has many members.

Paintings and etchings by N. P. Steinberg, an active member of the Palette and Chisel club, have been hung in the lobby of the Punch and Judy theater, making an entertaining and serious exhibit. Other etchings of Mr. Steinberg's have recently been accepted by the juries of the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts, the Philadelphia Society of Etchers, and the American Society of Etchers of New York. The current exhibit will be on view for some two weeks. It possesses beauty, pathos, interest, and sentiment.

The Art institute announces a series of interesting lectures for Tuesday afternoons during January. The lectures are given in Fullerton hall at 2 p. m. The first is "Art and Aesthetics," by Dr. Mortimer J. Adler of the University of Chicago, on Jan. 2. This will be followed by "Africa, the Cradle of Art," by Laura C. Boulton, a member of the American Museum of Natural History and Carnegie Museum expeditions.

Arthur Upham Pope, advisory curator of Mohammedan art, the Chicago Art institute, will follow on Jan. 16 with a discussion of "Ceramic Art of Persia." George William Eggers, formerly director of the Chicago Art institute and now head of the art department, College of the City of New York, will speak on "Trails and Temples of Greece Today" on Jan. 23. The last lecture will be given by Gertrude Herdle Moore, director Memorial Art gallery, Rochester, N. Y. Her subject has not been announced.

Crosby Selects Best Popular Songs of Year

Bing Puts 'Three Little Pigs' at Head of List.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—Asked by a magazine to name his choice as the ten best popular songs of 1933, Bing Crosby selected this list: "Three Little Pigs," "The Last Roundup," "The Day You Came Along," "Did You Ever See a Dream Walking?" "Night and Day," "Thanks," "Talk of the Town," "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes," "Lazy Bones," "Stormy Weather."

Mme. Sari de Fedak, Hungarian dramatic actress, independent film producer, and ex-wife of Franz Molnar, Hungarian playwright, nearly felled her first male interviewers as she arrived in Hollywood by saying: "What do all European women want? They want American husbands. If American men would just go to Europe for their wives they could climb right upon a pedestal and stay there—a condition which, I am told, does not occur for American husbands with too great frequency in this country.

"If American husbands would only go to Europe they would be adored and petted; and, believe me, if I ever marry again it will be an American, and we will get along splendidly."

She said she came to go through the studios, see for herself how they make films so well in this country, prepare for production of a new film of her own, and—"who knows, perhaps marry an American."

Spring movie fans are going to see a lot of fashion pictures. Warners' "King of Fashion," with Bill Powell, and Joan Crawford's "Fashion Plate" at MGM are scheduled to be followed by "Excursion to Paradise" with Elissa Landi, at Columbia. Robert Kalloch, who was with Duff Gordon and Mme. Frances in New York, is doing the dress designing. Other style effects will be introduced in Fox's current trio of girl and musical films.

Frederic Lee, an extra with an elaborate mustache, was in the glooms the day before Christmas because work was getting scarcer all the time. Directors told him his mustache was so distinctive it was making his face too well known to movie fans, so they couldn't use him any more.

So, accompanied by tears of Mrs. Lee, the actor shaved the mustache. He entered MGM's casting office later and found his hand pumphandled by the casting director, who told him: "You are just the man." The casting officer hustled Lee over to Director Reisner on the "Old Hannibal" set. Now Lee is playing Woodrow Wilson.

Roger Pryor, actor at Universal City, says a divorce is in the offing after nine years of married life. Mrs. Pryor lives in New Jersey.

Jean Harlow has been ill with laryngitis.

Charles Behan, her playwright husband, had little trouble launching Sidney Fox on an American screen comeback at Columbia because of his recent record in "discovering" Margaret Sullavan for Universal. At that time Behan was an official for Universal. Miss Fox came back to this country after appearing abroad opposite Emil Jannings in "Merry Monarch."

Lionel Barrymore has bought a 35 foot cruiser, thus making two members of the Barrymore navy.

Arthur Jarrett, Eleanor Holm's singing husband, pulled one that may net him his biggest film rôle. While sitting in Clarence Brown's office Brown's secretary stepped out, and Arthur, who had come to keep an appointment over a part in Brown's new film, "Sadie McKee," volunteered to take incoming calls. The first call proved to be an agent, saying: "Tell Mr. Brown I have just the right young actor for him in 'Sadie McKee.' " "Too bad," Jarrett said, "that part has just been given out and the contract all signed and everything." It looks as if Art will get the part.

Front Views and Profiles

By June Provines

ONE of the town's smart boys picked up some money the other evening by working a new racket in a gaming room. He walked up to the croupier and out of the corner of his mouth said:

Shill—
Pianist—
Tenor—
Name.

"Ed told me to tell you that I'm the new shill."

The croupier flicked an eyelash in understanding, and for about an hour the newcomer won, then he cashed his chips and departed—for good.

And if you don't know your carnival language a shill is one who works for the house but pretends to be a spectator or patron. You may have noticed on the Midway at the Fair that when the barker's ballyhoo was over there were always one or two men who pushed forward and bought tickets immediately. They, my little lambs, were shills.

WE like the story about Ruth Slenczynski, the 8 year old pianist who will play at Orchestra hall tomorrow afternoon. Shortly before he died Emanuel Moore, the composer and inventor of the double keyboard, and his wife, Winifred Christie, asked her to play for them. The child said she would like to, but that she couldn't reach the pedals.

"I'll do the pedaling for you," offered Composer Moore. So she played, and he got down on his knees and worked the pedals for her. When she had finished the child beamed at him.

"That was fine," she said. "You did that very well indeed."

YOU'VE probably heard about the distinction between opera singers and tenors. The other day Coe Glade, who will sing at Orchestra hall Sunday afternoon in the second of the Emerson house benefit series of Sunday entertainment, was being photographed with a small boy from Emerson house settlement. The child was being difficult and Miss Glade said smilingly:

"You're temperamental—like an opera singer."

The tiny boy threw her an indignant glance.

"But I'm a tenor," he said.

MISS GLADE, dramatic in black, with a strange silver ring on her hand adorned with tiny bells that jingled like the little bells of China, was guest of honor at the cocktail party Mrs. Byron Harvey Jr. gave for her the other afternoon. It was also the birthday of Mrs. Stewart Harvey, who announced that her birthday present was striped mittens. The hostess wandered about her charming modern apartment, all dusty pink and pale blue and chromium and mirror, wearing a trailing teagown, and a little upset because nobody ate the fancier of the appetizers. They had been ordered especially from the caterers for the occasion, and were not half so popular as the peanut-butter and bacon canapes and the tiny toasted anchovy rolls.

MRS. E. J. GRANGER, who has been active in behalf of La Rabida sanitarium, is about to compile a book of whimsies having to do with misconceptions about the institution's name. The other day she was riding on a bus when she overheard two passengers discussing the institution.

"What is it called?" again asked one.

"La Rabida," came the answer.

"O, named for the opera, I guess," commented the first.

W. L. ELLWOOD, EX-ILLINOISIAN, DIES IN TEXAS

Internationally Known as Horse Breeder.

De Kalb, Ill., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—Stricken with a heart attack shortly after partaking of a hearty breakfast, William L. Ellwood, age 73, millionaire member of one of the most prominent families of northern Illinois, died at Colorado City, Tex., today. Mr. Ellwood had made his home in Texas since he was a young man, supervising the vast I. L. Ellwood estate property consisting of 250,000 acres of ranch land.

As a young man Mr. Ellwood, whose father, Col. I. L. Ellwood, was one of the organizers of the United States Steel corporation, became interested in the breeding of Percheron horses and at one time was internationally known as a Percheron breeder, horses from the Ellwood Green farm of De Kalb being shipped to all parts of the United States and abroad. Col. Ellwood was at that time associated with the late John W. [Bet a Million] Gates in many enterprises, including the formation of the steel corporation.

At the death of Col. Ellwood, William Ellwood, oldest son in the family, moved to Texas to take active charge of his father's ranch holdings, returning to Illinois for no more than brief business trips, although a home still is maintained in this city. Ranch holdings in Texas centered around Lubbock.

Mr. Ellwood is survived by one brother, E. Perry Ellwood of this city, and two sisters, Mrs. Harriet E. Mayo and Mrs. S. G. Bonney, both of De Kalb, and two daughters, Mrs. F. H. Chappell of New London, Conn., and Mrs. R. L. Keeney of Summerville, Conn. Mrs. Ellwood passed away in De Kalb in 1929.

Funeral services will be held in De Kalb, probably on Sunday afternoon. The body will arrive in Chicago Saturday afternoon. Funeral plans are tentative until arrival of his sister, Mrs. Mayo, in Boston at the present time for the holidays with her son.

Mr. Ellwood was distantly related to Mrs. James Walker, divorced wife of former Mayor James Walker of New York City.

LOW PRICED FOOD CAUSE FOR REAL NEW YEAR FETE

Turkey at Lowest Level in About 20 Years.

BY PAUL POTTER.

The task of filling the larder for the week-end will not be difficult today and tomorrow, for the ending of 1933 can be celebrated with economically priced fowl. Nearly all the trimmings, such as vegetables, fruit, nuts, sea foods, and ginger ales and sparkling waters, also are attractively priced.

If it's turkey for Monday's repast, shoppers will find prices for quality birds have dropped back to the Thanksgiving price record, which was the lowest in nearly 20 years. Ducks and geese, as well as roasting chickens, remain with few changes at about 5 to 7 cents a pound less than turkey.

New Year's day is popular for sea foods as the evening meal. For an oyster stew a housewife can buy the bivalves in various types of containers or in bulk, with prices varying according to size and quality. Fresh shrimps, trout, herring, and pike, as well as smoked fish, offer a variety for an evening buffet luncheon.

Citrus Fruits Low Priced.

In three and sixes may be bought the bottles of liquids that provide an easy flow of holiday cheer. Maraschino cherries, juices, and fresh citrus fruits add sufficient variety. Juice oranges are especially low priced this week-end, and lemons are sufficiently in season to be priced nominally.

Some of the vegetables reflect the antics of the weather. Fresh green peas have become scarce, following th effects of frost in southern truck farming sections. Fresh tomatoes continue in the luxury class, in spite of the efforts of hothouse producers in nearby counties and shippers in Florida and Mexico. Even the potato has risen in price, because of a smaller supply than has been available in Chicago and other markets for several seasons.

Staples All Bargains.

Butter, eggs, cheese, and bacon are in the bargain class this week-end, showing no indication of a rise in the near future. All four items have been reduced during recent weeks in most stores.

Although fresh egg prices likely will not be lower before February or March, because of the seasonal drop in production, housewives are learning that the premium for fresh eggs is sometimes partially based on size and for "all white" shells, although the color of the shell is not a guide as to the quality or food value of the egg.

The "lowly" prune is no longer lowly, for prices are 50 per cent higher than they were several months ago. Celery and lettuce also have advanced in price this week. but new bargains have appeared in such foods as pork and beans, grapefruit, radishes, carrots, broccoli, and new green cabbage from the gulf states.

For variety in meat, in addition to the holiday fowl and sea foods, new bargains in pork loin roasts appear in many of the Chicagoland meat markets this week. Leg of lamb can be used for variety, as well, although prices are not especially low.

'AN INEXPENSIVE BUT FINE DISH IS RABBIT PIE

Rabbit pie—an inexpensive dish and a merry one! Most people cannot tell it from chicken pie, but rabbit really has an advantage over chicken, because on a domestic rabbit all the meat is white. For rabbit pie the youngest and tenderest of rabbits is not required, for any rabbit can grow tender in the cooking.

RABBIT PIE.

1 rabbit.
½ teaspoon of salt.
1 onion, chopped.
1 green pepper, chopped.
3 tablespoons of fat.
Flour.
Dash of tabasco sauce.
½ cup of parsley, chopped.
Pastry.

Wipe the meat with a damp cloth and cut it into two or three pieces. Place it in a kettle, barely cover it with water, add the salt, and partly cover the kettle. Simmer the meat until tender, or about one and a half to two hours for a mature rabbit. Drain and measure the broth and remove the meat from the bones in large pieces. Cook the onion, green pepper, and parsley for a few minutes in the fat in a skillet, and stir frequently. For each cup of broth, measure one and one-half tablespoons of flour and mix well with the fat and seasonings. Add the broth and stir until thickened. Add more salt if necessary and a dash of tabasco sauce. Mix well with the meat and pour into the baking dish. Cover pastry and bake in a moderate oven [350 degrees Fahrenheit] until the crust is golden brown.

POPCORN NEEDS SOME MOISTURE TO KEEP IT GOOD

Ithaca, N. Y., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—Storing in heated buildings is detrimental to the popping qualities of popcorn, advises F. C. Stewart of the New York state agricultural experiment station. The best place, he says, is an open shed or building.

This is true, he explains, because popcorn readily absorbs or gives up moisture to the condition of the air around it, and a moisture content of 13 to 15 per cent in popcorn is needed for best popping. Popcorn wihch must be stored indoors should be kept in air tight containers, he says.

Popcorn which pops poorly because it is too dry may be restored to good popping condition, says Prof. Stewart, by the following treatment.

Put two pounds of the corn into a two-quart fruit jar.

Add two to five tablespoons of water according to the dryness of the corn, as indicated by the way it pops.

Put on the cover of the jar, using a rubber, and clamp it down tightly.

Shake thoroughly.

Let the corn stand for about two days before it is popped.

LOWER PRICES OF EGGS TEMPT TODAY'S COOK

They Add Nourishment to Daily Meals.

BY MARY MEADE.

Alas! my child, where is the Pen
That can do justice to the Hen?
Like Royalty, she goes her way,
Laying Foundations every day,
Though not for Public Buildings, yet
For Custard, Cake, and Omelette.
No wonder, Child, we prize the Hen,
Whose Egg is mightier than the Pen.
Oliver Herford, "The Hen."

You'll pardon the flights into verse, but O. H.'s views are so pat and timely this week, with eggs positively blushing with shame over their recent drop in prices, that a mere cooking editor couldn't resist. They're not yet what we can call low. April is the month for real rejoicing in bargain eggs. But prices have slipped down in the last weeks to tempt even modest pocketbooks.

So, before these "ovals of sunshine" have a chance to zoom up again in price let's egg them into many meals a day and take advantage of the fact that their shells are packed with food for building, heating, and repairing our body machines and for protection against sickness. In other words, even at top prices an egg is an economy food. It's little but it's mighty.

As for the minutes an egg should be cooked, the figure is your own choice. Usually we think of eggs as either hard cooked, soft cooked, or coddled. The last turns out to be the softest. But here's a recipe which declines to be orthodox and gives us a firm white and still a soft yolk. It's called:

EGGS BLANDOS.
Soft Hearts Behind Firm Fronts.

Simply drop the eggs, which should be at room temperature, into boiling water, then reduce the heat and let them cook for five minutes. Duck them from the hot bath at once into cold water for a minute. Now shuck off the shells and serve with Hollandaise sauce. Are the whites firm and the yolks still soft? Then you have "blandosed" them correctly.

I've talked most flatteringly already about Eggs Marguerite, those golden brown fluffs of white with baked golden yolk centers. But here's a new note to spring on the supper table before e[illegible] go skitting up in price again:

PARMESAN EGG PLATTER.
Baked Piles of Sunshine.

4 eggs
4 tablespoons flour
½ teaspoon salt
4 tablespoons Parmesan or other dry cheese, grated
4 slices toast

Carefully separate the eggs, placing the yolks together on a shallow, wet saucer, and turning the whites into a bowl, beating them to a stiff froth. Now mix together the flour, cheese, and salt, and fold them into the egg whites. Place the freshly toasted bread on a cookie sheet, and on each slice of toast pile a fourth of the egg white mixture. In the center of each mound make a deep hollow with a spoon and into these slip an unbroken egg yolk. I advised using a wet saucer, for this allows the eggs to slide off neatly without breaking. Sprinkle each yolk with salt and pepper and dot with bits of butter. Bake in a moderately hot oven (375 degrees F.) until the yolk is partially set and the white is a golden brown on the peaks and a pale gold in the valleys. Garnish with parsley and serve very hot.

We've talked much about prosaic salads in the last year or so. Delicious but after all a bit tame, if the event's to be a child's party or we're cudgeling the brain for a laugh maker for a dull day salad. So how's about presenting the family with:

HUMPTY DUMPTY EGGS.
Which Make Funny Faces.

4 stuffed eggs
1½ teaspoons gelatin
¼ cup cold water
¾ cup mayonnaise

Mix the water and gelatin and let them stand five minutes. Melt the mixture over hot water, cool partially, and pour into the mayonnaise, beating thoroughly. The eggs should be already stuffed with the whipped yolk blended with whatever else the folks dote on. Simply cream, vinegar, and seasoning will do. Or chopped, stuffed olives, minced ham or chicken, chopped parsley, or what you wish may be added. Once stuffed, the two halves may be used either as stuffed halves or pressed back together again. These last make by far the best humpty dumpties. To complete them, dip the stuffed egg into the mayonnaise to coat it all, then design on each a funny face with bits of pickle, olive, or pimiento for the features. Pimiento also makes a perfect bow tie. Serve each humpty dumpty egg on lettuce, with salad dressing to be passed.

'ARTY' BAKED APPLES HELP ADORN TABLE

Addition of an artistic touch to that standby the baked apple constitutes a suggestion useful during the extensive baked apple season. It's the filling that counts. Here is one method:

For six apples use one and one-half cups of sugar, one-fourth cup of water, one or two bananas, one tablespoon of butter, and six marshmallows:

Prepare a sirup of the sugar and water by boiling three minutes. Core the apples and pare the tops. Fill centers with bananas, thinly sliced, and bake the apples in a pan, with the sirup poured over them, for 30 minutes, in a moderate oven of about 385 degrees Fahrenheit. Dot each apple with a little butter, baste with the sirup, place the marshmallows on top, and replace in the oven to brown.

Parents Can Make the Toys Santa Forgot

Blocks, Basis of All Play, Are Easy Job.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

Here is an after Christmas thougnt. A young mother of several children, who is a good manager, wrote me several weeks before Christmas:

"Christmas will soon be here, but I have the lists made out and we'll see how much can be made at home. So many of the simple play school toys can be very nearly duplicated at home at small cost for the little ones."

This is true, and if there were gaps in the gifts your children received—gaps that you hoped would be filled but weren't, see if you can't fill them yourselves at home. A man—or a woman either—who is handy with a hammer and can wield a sheet of sandpaper and a paint brush can make a dollar go a long way in supplying small children with some of the playthings or furniture that they need.

Blocks are one of the simplest and most important parts of a young child's business—which is play. When children get to the point where they are really carrying out any kind of a building scheme, they must have blocks in quantity. The more they have the more interesting and creative their results will be—and the more their blocks will hold their interest and develop their power of concentration. I've seen children do the most fascinating and imaginative, and really complicated things where they have had plenty of the right blocks.

If you want to experiment with homemade blocks, a good thing to start with is 2 by 4 lumber. The wood you choose will probably depend on your purse. If you can afford it buy close grained wood with few knots. I think we used to use white wood.

The sawing must be absolutely true. Eight inch lengths make a good unit. That means you have a block 8 inches by 4 inches by 2 inches. Perhaps you will want to make your largest quantity in this size. In addition you can have some long blocks, twice as long as the unite—that is, 16 inches long, and some short ones only one-half as long as the unite—that is, 4 inches long.

Rose of Le Moyne Is Pretty Quilt in Warm Shades

Rose of Le Moyne.

BY NANCY CABOT.

This lovely old pattern has several names, among them "The General's Rose," "Rose of New Orleans," and "The Lucky Rose." Quilt historians prefer "Rose of Le Moyne," on account of the date of the pattern and the influence that gallant Frenchman had on the early history of New Orleans. It is made in shades of red, deep rose, and light rose, with deep green for the leaves.

For a quilt pattern in this design send 5 cents in coin or stamps to Nancy Cabot, the Chicago Tribune, printing your name and address clearly. Or call at the Tribune Public Service office, One South Dearborn.

WOMAN'S DRESS.

A charming French dress gave the inspiration for this slenderizing model. It was in a garnet red soft wool and silk novelty, and the becoming scarf collar, sleeve trimming and girdle were of a plain toning silk. Black velvet with silver lamé would be lovely.

The pattern, No. 2724, comes in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, and 46 inches bust measure.

MINUTE MYSTERY
By H. A. RIPLEY

[Copyright: 1933: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Dr. Fordney is professor of criminology at a famous university. His advice is often sought by the police of many cities when confronted with particularly baffling cases. This problem, which has ONLY ONE POSSIBLE SOLUTION, has been taken from his casebook covering hundreds of criminal investigations.

A DEAD MAN'S NOTEBOOK.

Forest Ranger McIntosh left his snug little bungalow in Coquille, Ore., with a sigh. He was a "home man," but word had come that he must proceed at once to relieve Ranger Williams, who had been suddenly taken ill.

After relieving his brother officer he climbed the observation tower high in the mountains, picked up his binoculars, and took a searching look about. Was that the body of a man he saw lying in a clearing in the dense forest? Descending, he made his way to it and found that it was; a man who had obviously been dead for some time. Why hadn't Williams spotted it? His sickness, perhaps.

Returning to his base, he phoned Coquille, where he knew Prof. Fordney was visiting his niece, Bee Welsh, a bride of a few weeks.

A hasty examination revealed to Fordney no apparent marks of violence. After reading a small notebook taken from the dead man's pocket he was sure he was one of three men, either Ed Mercer, Simon Morris, or John Mattingly.

From the notebook he gained two other clews: That Mercer was one of the three men mentioned in the book, a woodsman, had planned on going into the lumber business together. Also that both Mattingly and the dead man feared the solitude of the forest.

Even before the body had been removed to the small morgue in Coquille the professor readily identified it as that of —— —— from the information contained in the dead man's notebook.

COULD YOU HAVE IDENTIFIED HIM? WHO WAS HE?

DON'T BUY OLD TASTELESS FISH

Old fish are tasteless. Fish are at the top of their luscious flavor when fresh right out of the sea.

40-Fathom Fish always come to you with that tender, juicy fresh-caught-taste of the sea. For 40-Fathom Fish fairly fly from the cool, deep ocean to your dealer. They are the cream of the catch—boned without heads, tails or waste. They are the white tenderloin of the sea—ready for the fire without even washing—easy to cook as bacon.

Neither you nor your dealer can tell whether fish are going to taste good when you buy them. Therefore, your one safe way to get that fresh-caught-taste is to buy 40-Fathom Fish in the 40-Fathom Wrapper with the name and the picture of old 40-Fathom on the wrapper.

If fish in some other wrapper or fish in no wrapper is offered you as 40-Fathom Fish, don't buy it, for it is not 40-Fathom Fish—probably old, tasteless, cheap fish. Get 40-Fathom Fish in the 40-Fathom Wrapper or don't buy it.

SYNOPSIS.

Bruce Pomeroy, brought up in poverty, befriended a Russian, Boris Orleneff. In return Orleneff, before his death, left Pomeroy an invention, which is about to make Pomeroy a millionaire. Orleneff stipulated that his brother's family, whom he considered parasites, were not to get a cent from the invention. While walking through New York's Central park one winter's morning Pomeroy is kidnaped and taken to a small island off the coast of Maine, where he is made a prisoner in a luxurious home, but kept on a starvation diet. His captor is Boris Orleneff, nephew of the inventor. Boris' cousins, Cyril and Olga Norrikoff, assisted in the abduction. They want Pomeroy to make a settlement. He refuses. Boris invites Pomeroy to join the family circle downstairs. The older members are unaware that Pomeroy is an involuntary guest. Pomeroy manages to elude his guard, Grateful, and get out of his room, but a raging storm makes escape impossible. Olga Norrikoff tells Pomeroy they are all starving. That the house was lent to them for the winter. Boris and Cyril hadn't been able to get work. Pomeroy arranges through Grateful to get food supplies from Andy Mason, the caretaker. He has fallen in love with Irma Orleneff, Boris' sister. Cyril's mother dies and his father commits suicide. Cyril had left, before the tragedy, in a leaky boat to get help from the mainland. Pomeroy asks Irma to marry him.

INSTALLMENT XXXV.

A PERSISTENT SUITOR.

Bruce looked at Irma with a sudden wild hope.

"Then——"

She understood, and shook her head again.

"No. Perhaps I'm terribly selfish, but I'm going to have a whack at earning my own way and living my own life. I'm not going to start my life by tying a man I respect up to such an agreement. I couldn't do it—I simply couldn't. All the advantages of the bargain would be mine. I couldn't take so much and give nothing. But one thing I will do," she added as she got up, "I'll do my utmost to persuade Boris to let you save mother's eyes. I'll be grateful to you all my life for doing it, and for this offer today."

"Thank you."

She held out her hand and he took it between both his own. She let it lie there.

"You'd be a wonderfully dependable person to have around," she said, and added more lightly: "You and I have both broken our records today. You've been rash and precipitate, and I've put another person's interest—and perhaps my own—before my family's. When we've had time to think, we'll both realize that we've had a very narrow escape."

"I shall not—and I'll get you yet. I don't intend to be a nuisance—but may I be your best friend till then?"

She laughed, on the low notes he loved. Then she stopped, with an arrested look, as if wondering how she could laugh in that tragic house.

"I'll be delighted to have you for a friend," she told him.

"That's something," he said gratefully. "It's a whole lot. I'd rather be your friend than any other woman's lover. But I'm certainly going to be your lover, some day."

"Don't count on it," she warned. "Now I must go back to my mother."

"Still saving my reputation, aren't you, Galahad?"

She glanced at the colonial clock in a corner. "Heavens, how late it is. I had no idea I'd been here so long."

The admission was like wine to him. It elated him, made him a trifle dizzy. He walked to the door with her.

"Has it occurred to you," he asked conversationally, "how braced up your mother would be if you told her you were going to marry me, and that your future and hers were assured?"

"That," she said firmly, "isn't fair. I think of you as a man who plays fair, always. Please don't make me change my mind about it."

"I'll try not to," he said humbly. But as he went back to his own room he was not disheartened. She had not crushed him. She had not snubbed him. She had listened to him and she had been very kind. With that beginning——

In the upper hall he met Orleneff coming out of Cyril's room. The young man's face was ghastly. On a sudden impulse born of optimism Pomeroy slipped his hand through the other's arm and walked along the hall with him. Possibly, too, he was moved by the memory of Irma's revelations concerning her brother.

"Orleneff," he said briskly, "what do you think has happened? I've just asked your sister to marry me."

"Good Lord."

Orleneff stopped short and stared at him in obvious stupefaction. For an instant he seemed unable to speak.

"What did she say?" he asked at last.

"She turned me down—kindly, but with apparent finality."

"Naturally." Orleneff continued to stand still. "It seems rather a bad time to go wooing," he muttered.

"On the contrary, it's the best possible time. But I admit that it was rather sudden, and I'm not surprised that I got the gate. Just the same, I'm going to be your future brother-in-law, old man, and I thought I'd better mention it and get your mind used to the idea. Being your future brother-in-law," his voice dropped, "I want to do all I can in this crisis. Will you remember that?"

"Thanks. Yes."

Orleneff turned away quickly, but not before Pomeroy had seen his sensitive features twitch. He caught his arm again.

"I suppose there's absolutely nothing we can do—in the matter of your cousin?"

"No. That's what's driving me mad. This damned helplessness! He may be floating out there somewhere, on a piece of wreckage——"

"Not a chance of that." Pomeroy spoke with quiet conviction. "He couldn't weather this storm for more than a few hours. No one could. He's either safe on shore, but unconscious, or he's rescued and too exhausted to tell his story, or——" he stopped.

"Or," Orleneff caught up the word and nodded. "I'm afraid it's a case of 'or,'" he added darkly and went his way.

Pomeroy entered his room and found Grateful waiting with the noonday meal.

He had decided that he must ease the natural constraint between himself and Grateful. "I've just asked Miss Orleneff to marry me," he said, "so I'm one of the family—at least I'm going to be."

Grateful's mouth dropped open.

"Is she goin' to do it?" he gasped.

"She says she isn't, but she is." Pomeroy started on his stew. "You really are a chef, Grateful. She'll get used to the idea in time. I want the rest of you to get used to it now. Where did you learn to make coffee?"

Grateful did not answer. He seemed stunned. He turned a long look on Pomeroy, as if studying him from this new angle of possible relationship. Then an expression of deep thoughtfulness settled over his round face, and he walked slowly out of the room.

Pomeroy leaned back in his chair with a continued sense of well being. He had done the impossible. On less than four days' acquaintance he had asked the girl he loved to marry him, and though she had refused him they had talked the matter over in detail and she had professed herself touched by the proposition. Looked at in retrospect it seemed a good morning's work.

At least he had given Irma Orleneff something new to think about. He had also given Orleneff something to think about, and Grateful, too. He grinned as he recalled the look of utter amazement each face had worn. Now the men's minds would become accustomed to the idea.

An hour later the door opened and Olga came in. He sprang to his feet and went to meet her. Very gently he drew her back across the threshold of his room and out into the hall. There, slipping an arm through hers, he walked her back and forth, up and down the long hall, giving her time to pull herself together. He hardly recognized the poised and satirical Olga in this stricken young creature, whose eyes and face were swollen by sleeplessness and tears.

At last she spoke, and something of her familiar spirit flashed out at him through her blurred eyes.

"Still saving my reputation, aren't you, Galahad?" she asked in a voice he hardly recognized.

He pressed her arm. He was so sorry for her that his throat ached, but he was also acutely conscious of the embarrassment of her presence. He had within the hour proposed to her cousin. He had told the latter's brother and Grateful that he had done so. He was touched by Olga's obvious dependence on him, and by the fact that she had sought him out on such a day.

"I can't tell you how I feel about all this," he said. "But I want you to know that if there's anything in the world I can do I'll do it. It may sound idiotic, coming from me, but somehow I actually feel as if this is my trouble, too—as if I belonged."

Present "Messiah" at Evanston Tonight.

An important drawing card this evening on the north shore will be the presentation of the sacred oratorio, "The Messiah," in Patten gymnasium on the Northwestern university campus. The Woman's Faculty Club of the Northwestern Medical school is sponsoring the production, which promises to be one of the most magnificent performances of the oratorio ever given in and about Chicago.

The cast of 600 has been recruited from Chicago and north shore singers. Proceeds from the performance are to be used for the support of the free clinics of the Northwestern Medical school.

Some of the hosts and hostesses in the 54 boxes will be Mrs. James Patten, Mrs. Louis E. Laflin, Mr. and Mrs. George Rasmussen, Mr. and Mrs. John P. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Armour, Mr. and Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank, Mr. and Mrs. William S. Monroe, Col. and Mrs. Horatio B. Hackett, Mr. and Mrs. Warren A. Lamson, Mr. and Mrs. James R. Mrs. George Everett is giving the second party tonight at the Electric club and she has invited four couples to dine and go on to the Opera ball.

Alumni of Prep Schools to Meet.

Shortly after noon today the Phillips Exeter and the Phillips Andover academies are gathering for their annual Christmas luncheon in the Harvard-Yale-Princeton club. Besides a few songs and reminiscences the undergraduates will be called upon to make speeches.

Donald B. Lourie is the head of the Chicago Exeter Alumni association and Henry A. Gardner is head of the Andover alumni.

Dr. Samuel Tomlinson Arnold, dean of undergraduates at Brown university, is prolonging his visit in Chicago to speak this noon at the father and son luncheon of the alumni of Lake Forest academy at the Union League club.

Last night Dr. Arnold, who is the guest of Col. Noble Brandon Judah, was the speaker at a dinner of the Chicago Brown club at the Chicago Athletic association.

Mrs. Susan Lawrence, a former member of the British parliament and once a member of the executive committee of the National Labor party of England, is to be the special guest of the Woman's City club at tea this afternoon in the club lounge. New Year's Party at Union League.

In recognition of Miss Elizabeth Faulkner's twenty-five years as principal of the school that bears her name, the Faulkner school alumnæ are having a holiday tea at 4 o'clock this afternoon at the Chicago College club, 196 East Delaware place. Receiving will be Mrs. Harold Ferris White Jr., who is president of the alumnæ association, and Miss Betty Patterson, the secretary.

Mrs. Albert H. Wetten and her daughter, Miss Eleanor Wetten, George Bates, the Michael F. Gallaghers with their son, David, and other Chicagoans enjoying the holidays at the Lake Placid club in the Adirondacks have been having a perfectly glorious week watching the spectacular activities of the 13th annual college week winter sports competitions.

Marjorie White to Bow in West.

Instead of making her bow to society in Chicago where her parents formerly lived, Miss Marjorie White, daughter of the Edward J. Whites, is being presented formally to society in Pasadena, Cal., at a tea tomorrow afternoon in the Whites' home on Arden road. That same night Mr. and Mrs. White are giving a ball for the debutante at the Midwick Country club in Pasadena.

Mrs. Polly Chase Boyden and her three children have returned to Lake Forest to live and for the last week they have been busy getting settled in a house on East Illinois road.

Mrs. John Irwin Marshall of Highland Park has closed her house for the winter and is now living at the Lake Shore Athletic club. Her son, John, who is a student at Cornell university, is here for the Christmas holidays, and as soon as he returns to school his mother will go to Washington, D. C., for a fortnight and then to Florida for the rest of the winter.

The Charles W. McNears are delighted that their daughter and son-in-law, Lieut. and Mrs. S. Warren Towle, have been transferred from March field to Bolling field at Washington, D. C. The Towles are sailing from San Francisco on March 6 for their new post.

Count Visconti Sails for U. S.

The Warren C. Fairbanks' son-in-law, the attractive Count Visconti, sailed yesterday for America to join his wife, the former Edith Fairbanks, and her family in Chicago. The count will arrive within ten days.

They are the Loves' grandchildren and the sons and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Horace B. Keeler of Cleveland. Mr. Keeler had to return to Cleveland after Christmas, but he will come back to Chicago in a week to take his wife and children home.

"Biography" Is Welcomed in Return to City

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

The record of the plays that Christmas week brought into Chicago would not be complete without an enthusiastic announcement of the return of Ina Claire in "Biography" to the Erlanger theater. About six weeks ago this comedy, displaying Miss Claire as a great comedienne supported by an admirable Theater Guild cast, was the talk of the town. By decision of some misguided theatrical executive in New York it was compelled to depart when it seemed to have settled down for a record breaking run. Its supplementary engagement is merely a matter of this week and next.

Miss Claire's acting in "Biography" is a masterpiece of high comedy interpretation. Her character study of the casual, light hearted, tolerant lady of the painter's easel who started to write the memoirs of her love life will be remembered, I believe, as a classic piece of interpretation. It has consummate charm; it is beautifully shaded; it is rich with grace, intelligence, and sunny humor. It places her among the famous comediennes of the generation.

There has been an important change in the "Biography" cast since the play's first engagement. Earle Larimore was nominated by the Theater Guild for a leading rôle in Eugene O'Neill's new play, "Days Without End" [at the demand of the author], and a rising young actor named Shepperd Strudwick has replaced him. This substitution does no injury to the performance, for Strudwick appears to be in the Larimore class.

He is a tall, alert, commanding chap who acts the cantankerous radical of this diverting story with the blunt but appealing quality that S. N. Behrman wrote into the character. He was a "discovery" of last season for the Theater Guild and won attention in New York City by a characterization in Maxwell Anderson's "Both Your Houses."

"The Curtain Rises," a comedy by B. M. Kaye, will be staged in the Cort theater on Jan. 7 as a successor to "Dangerous Corner," which will end its long run in Chicago Jan. 6. Louise Groody and Donald Foster will have the leading rôles.

Real Lure in Costumes for Winter Sports

Even Fireside Campers Tempted by Them.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

If they'd only send along some snow now you girls would get a chance to show what a swell looking outdoor girls you were intended.

Did you ever see such good looking outdoor costumes as are being shown this year? The fact that you're plump and forty and ordinarily love your fireside has nothing to do with that new girl in you yenning for a slide down hill in one of those sledding, skiing or skating suits.

Maybe by the time this appears in print, three'll be snow and ice. Let's hope so. For this is a good year to get the outdoor habits that are going to make those promised leisure hours of all of us valuable. As a nation of females, we have had very little opportunity to indulge in outdoor life. A Saturday half holiday formerly meant shopping for stockings, powder, creams and maybe pressing up the dress for Monday's wearing. But life is changed or changing, so let's get ready for those leisure hours.

Most of have to cultivate the habit of actually getting outdoors in winter for fun. We have become such house addicts. One thing about the grand costumes that make you feel like stepping out and having a good time outdoors is that the initial cost is about all you have to face. It's not like motoring. There you are all ready—and if there isn't any ice, you can hike somewhere. Which is what you'll do if you are dressed so the cold won't get in around the corners.

Then, there are ice-skating places that serve as a substitute. Not such bad substitutes, either. You get the exercise and it is wonderful for the silhouette, whether it's weight off or on you need. More than that, however, it's the exhilarated feeling that goes with outdoor sports that we recommend as your life saver. To repeat, we've got to learn to play; to recognize that there are other forms of amusement than the dance floor. Dance, of course—but don't let it be the only diversion. You can count on it that if the demand is great enough, places for skating will be quickly established. But, anyway, get outdoors—and stay out as much as you can this winter.

Unhappy Wife Says That Men Are to Blame

Objects to Having Women Appear at Fault.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

All right! A-l-l r-i-g-h-t! We'll be good and give the women a break, Lucy. Rather, we'll give the men their due through you!

Perhaps we, being women, are inclined to favor the other sex, but we thought we gave them plenty when plenty was coming to them.

You may have the column now! Ladies and gentlemen, let me introduce an enraged Lucy:

"May I get a few things off my chest? Maybe you think all these letters you get, Miss Blake, are silly. It's just a job to you. But some of the readers take it seriously. So why do you and all your kind uphold, pity, favor, and sympathize with the men? Is nothing ever their fault? You blame the married women for not 'holding their men'. You blame the single women for encouraging the married men. Always, always it's the woman's fault. Don't men feel smart and self satisfied enough without your encouragement?

"Most married women work hard at their jobs. They keep up the home, look after the children, try to be pals to their husbands. And what does it get them? NOWHERE! JUST NOWHERE, if you want to know. Friend husband steps around where and with whom his fancy chooses.

"When hubby does take his wife to a party, he proceeds to add insult to injury by paying all his attention to some other woman or women. Of course, this is the wife's fault or the fault of the other woman who leads him on.

"I've been married long enough to bear three children and have gone through plenty with a husband not worth feeding. I could have left, of course, put my first baby in an orphanage, and gone on my own, as he certainly would have done. But I kept trying advice. Didn't ask questions about his nights out; always went with him when he invited me. Each year things got worse. It must be my fault, according to you, and the fault of the several women he has gone with. It couldn't be his fault. O, NO, not his! Well, here's hoping I'll live to meet a real, honest husband, fair and square to himself and the wife, and one who doesn't feel sorry for himself because he has to live with and support the woman he asked to marry him."—Mrs. Lucy J.

And that's clipping your wings for you, you husbands whose wings need clipping!

Bright Prints Make Cheery Bow in Shops

New Frocks Enliven Dull Winter Coats.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

New prints have breezed into town! Printed frocks that will revive your interest in living through the winter, fascinating cheerful color contrasts that will do grand things for dull winter coats and fur coats.

Gay prints with the new carmine red background spattered with tiny chalk white designs, or soft beige patterns . . . lovely almond green splashed with color, some particularly stunning dark blue and street shades that can be worn without a coat for street and office wear later in the year.

Stripes and plaids are more eye filling than ever before . . . circumspect stripes that contrast one another in good, regular formations, wavering stripes in modernistic array and fine stripes in pencil line effects. Color combinations are bright as well as dramatic and have been used by clever designers to fashion some distinctive dresses in slenderizing V line get togethers.

Now is the time to buy new cottons and linens and printed piques . . . especially for home sewers or the foresighted shoppers who want new materials while they are new. Some of the most beautifully printed linens imaginable can be selected now . . . black and white combines, rust red and ivory, lots of green on beige or dull ivory, as well as deep raspberry red designs on white or reversed.

New loosely woven cottons that resemble coarse toweling . . . bolts of natural colored rough linen . . . all kinds of crisp, small checked ginghams and gay Scotch plaids in company with yards of wild new plaids with unusual color contrasts make the newly arrived cottons practically irresistible.

New embroidered organdies and crisp, fresh ideas in printed Swiss can be found for charming new blouses or puff sleeved guimpes to wear with dark winter wool dresses or effective neckwear in the new manner.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—President and Mrs. Roosevelt have issued invitations for the reception next Tuesday evening for the judiciary, the second one of the state evening receptions this season.

President and Mrs. Roosevelt attended the dinner tonight of the Woodrow Wilson Foundation at the Mayflower hotel. Mrs. Woodrow Wilson sat on the right of the President. Many prominent men and women, irrespective of politics, entertained parties at the dinner.

The Argentine ambassador and Mme. de Espil were the ranking guests at the dinner given last night by the Swedish minister and Mme. Bostrom. There were twenty-two guests.

Berthas, Boleros Rate High Among Paris' Chic Details

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—The mid-season collections of the Paris dressmakers are overrun with cute little tricks that offer ways and means of revamping winter frocks which have gone stale.

Mainbocher's show makes a great point of scarfs and collars fashioned out of striped necktie satin, and applied to dark dresses and jackets. Maggie Rouff puts crisp white organdy ruffles into the necklines of sober frocks. Lelong buttons fake vests of white piqué on the front bodice of a dark blue dress.

Schiaparelli has her own inimitable way. She makes shirred berthas of fresh white-and-colored striped taffeta, like the one shown in the center. The edges of this bertha, top and bottom are released in flattering ruffles.

At the top is another Schiaparelli detail that is charming and refreshing on a sober dress. It is an applied bolero made of tucked and striped silk. It forms a curved bolero effect in front, held by a clip, and in back becomes a pointed collar at the neck and a clipped-on belt at the waistline.

Lanvin likes berthas of corded silk or silver lamé, depending on the formality of the dress. The one shown at the bottom is of blue corded silk, and is buttoned to the square neckline in front and to the waistline in back.

BLACKHAWKS BATTLE SENATORS TO TIE, 2-2

DUCK! LEVINSKY WARNS BRITISH BOXER TONIGHT

But McCorkindale Is Still Confident.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Don [Dinnie if you like it better] McCorkindale, the Irishman from South Africa, will brave a tornado of flying fists which Kingfish Levinsky of Chicago will unleash at the Chicago Stadium tonight and will endeavor before the end of ten such twisters to have the nose of the Kingfish well polished from its frequent contacts with the canvas on the floor of the ring.

KING LEVINSKY.

"Never!" shout the Kingfish and his followers from the Ghetto. "Never will this happen in a million years!"

Others in Chicago admitted they were fretting about what might happen to the visitor from Great Britain if a few of the Kingfish's roving rights and lefts happen to land solidly during the course of the international struggle.

Yet McCorkindale is the least concerned man in town about it, his attitude being, "Bring him on and let's get it over."

Levinsky at 3 to 5.

The betting indicated McCorkindale may be a trifle overconfident and that he doesn't realize the power in the right hand which the Kingfish sails all over the arena in most unorthodox fashion. Every loyal Levinsky backer came out of hiding late yesterday and wagered so stoutly with the boys and gals who like McCorkindale that the King was the 3 to 5 favorite in the betting.

On the west side, around Maxwell street, that was considered a good solid price. That was most unusual for the King's henchmen. In the downtown haunts where a friendly wager is made now and then the wisest looking speculators indicated it was just like taking candy from the baby to get five dollars for every three they wager on McCorkindale.

With all these things happening and the Kingfish predicting after his final limbering up drill yesterday that McCorkindale will not be on his feet at the end of the second round, the fight fans of the town were pretty well steamed up over the affair.

Expect Crowd of 15,000.

The fact is, they were letting out more steam than at any time in recent months, and it gave the boys in the Stadium counting room confidence that around 15,000 will see the melee and that they will pay about $22,000 for the night's entertainment.

This is something, because the boxing business has indicated a few times lately it was ready to let out the last gasp and await the coming of the tombstone man.

When the big fellows crawl through the ropes the Kingfish will have a weight advantage of some 14 pounds. He will scale 207 while McCorkindale's poundage will be 193. The King will weigh a pound more than he did when he whipped Jack Sharkey. McCorkindale is at the same mark he scaled when he lost a decision in 15 rounds to Primo Carnera in London not so long before Primo captured the world's title.

How Briton Can Win.

Most of the more level-headed fans who are going out to see the squabble and have a lot of fun rather than to win or lose next week's pay check on the outcome, believe that if McCorkindale can survive the first two rounds he is more than likely to capture the decision on points.

It will be a question of whether or not McCorkindale can take it.

Levinsky hit Dempsey, Sharkey, Baer, and all the other big fellows in boxing in the early rounds of his fights with them. He hit them so hard that very few of them were able to make much progress against him in the rounds which brought the fights to a close.

McCorkindale, his record indicates, has all the fighting heart his name implies. He is a shifty fellow, with a deft left hand which many believe will have the Kingfish's head wobbling and his knees bending long before the scrap ends.

McCorkindale doesn't pop with his right unless the target is there before him, and no one ever accused the Kingfish of not being a swell target at which to toss a punch.

The winner more than likely will fight Max Schmeling or Max Baer the next time out, so the old fistic pot will be right at the boiling stage when the new year rolls around.

Talking it Over

THE coaches' banquet at the Sherman Wednesday night was good training for the six day bicycle race. . . . It tested a man's endurance. . . . WILSON TALKS TO EDUCATORS ON SPORT FINANCES

Asks Judicious Trimming of Expenses.

The biggest problem that now confronts directors of athletics of colleges and universities is to determine those things that are necessary for the welfare of the student body, how athletics can be most economically run, and to avoid cutting out departments and phases that will hurt intercollegiate programs.

This was the opening statement of Kenneth L. [Tug] Wilson, director of athletics at Northwestern university, in his paper, "Present Day Financial Problems in University Athletics," delivered yesterday at the 37th annual meeting of the College Physical Education association in session at the Stevens hotel.

Convention Is Closed.

The last day of the convention, which concluded with the annual banquet last night, was divided into four sections. They were: Intercollegiate athletics, Intramural athletics, Teacher Training, and Health Problems in college. These were presided over by Dr. W. L. Hughes, Columbia university; Dr. J. H. Nichols, Oberlin; Prof. Guy C. Lowman, Wisconsin; Dr. Joseph E. Raycroft, Princeton, respectively.

Mr. Wilson's discussion of the problems of an athletic director in view of the present economic situation which has cut the revenue for athletics in half, was closely followed by the physical educators.

"The average business that had its revenue cut squarely in two," Mr. Wilson said, "and was yet asked to go on in about the same fashion, would throw up its hands in despair. Yet most of our institutions have been forced to do just that. Such intrenchments call for closer figuring and very careful study.

Sport Programs Inflated.

"In examining the athletic budgets of several large universities I have been amazed to see to what tremendous proportions we had allowed our sport programs to grow. Most excesses were gone into gradually and it took a financial crash to bring us to our senses."

"The average university a few years ago had nearly twice as many coaches as were necessary. I can name four mid-western universities that had football coaching staffs numbering over 12 men each. One of these schools cut the staff to six in a period of two years and I believe that everyone connected with that institution will agree that these six men did a better job than 12."

Weigh Values of Sport.

In discussing a sports budget Mr. Wilson said: "I think every athletic director should weigh carefully the relative values of the various sports he has on his program. He should consider the benefit the average student derives from them. It has long been a contention of mine that we have not paid enough attention to the follow-up sports, such as tennis, golf, and swimming.

Mr. Wilson urged that a middle path be taken in the cost of tickets to athletic events. To make drastic reductions is impossible, he said, if the demands of the department are to be met, but he also admitted that boom prices now were too high in view of the competition for the customer's money. Cheaper seats in the less favorable locations at football games sometimes will return more money. Low admissions for youngsters also were advocated.

Some sections of the country have refused to permit radio broadcasts. Others believe the radio is helpful.

Considers Effect of Radio.

"This is difficult to prove either way," Mr. Wilson said. "I do think that the radio is ruining the attendance at the average small college which is situated near a larger institution. I also think it has made inroads into the crowds at these larger universities. But the universities should derive every possible benefit from the various stations in the advertising they can give our contests."

In conclusion, Mr. Wilson criticized the directors as poor salesmen in the boom days. He advocated more thorough ticket campaigns, as season tickets are the best insurance against bad weather and poor teams.

Jack Westrope Rides 301st Winner—a 25 Year Record

Houston, Tex., Dec. 28.—(AP)—Returning to the races after a five day suspension, Jack Westrope, 17 year old apprentice jockey from Baker, Mont., today rode his 300th and 301st winners of the year at the Epsom Downs track. He scored with Mrs. A. R. Smith's Outbound in the six furlong feature and then made it 301 winning mounts for the year by bringing home J. A. Best's Gallop Along in the fifth race on the program.

JACK WESTROPE.

Westrope, with his victories, became the first jockey to ride 300 or more winners since Vincent Powers achieved the feat in 1908 with 324 victorious mounts. With only two more riding days left, the little Montana rider has no chance of equaling the all time mark of 388 hung up by W. Miller in 1906.

Out of Money for 2 Races.

After finishing out of the money on his first two mounts, Westrope scored an easy victory with Outbound. He took the five year old son of Luke McLuke to the front at the half way pole and pulled away to cross the finish line five lengths in front of Cabezo, the favorite. Brookhattan, winner of his last start, was third in the field of seven.

Over a heavy track, Westrope sent Outbound galloping through six furlongs of mud in 1:14 4-5 to pay his backers $10.20 for $2.

In the fifth Westrope got Gallop Along away from the post fourth and rated him off the pace set by Finnic for a quarter, when he went to the front and continued to increase his advantage until he went by the judges six lengths in front. The winner paid $4.80 in the mutuels.

Threatened to Leave.

Irked by his suspension, Westrope at first decided last week to move to a Florida track, but remained here.

Westrope rode his first winner early in January of this year at the Oriental Park race in Cuba. He was injured a short time later and wasn't on a saddle for more than a month. He made much headway later at the Rockingham Park track in New Hampshire and at the new Texas tracks, Arlington and Epsom Downs.

His outstanding feats, however, were accomplished at Arlington track in Chicago, where he competed successfully against the best jockeys of the nation. He also rode winners at Saratoga.

Jack Gilbert led the jockeys of last season with 212 winners.

EXTEND DETROIT LEASE

Lansing, Mich., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—The Detroit Racing association won revision in terms of its lease of the state fair grounds property today despite protests of Frank D. Fitzgerald, secretary of state. The majority of the state administrative board agreed to extend the lease from 5 to 15 years and to lengthen the annual racing season from 80 to 120 days. The rental fee will remain at $480,000 a year. The association agreed to construct a new clubhouse on the property.

The association was given a lease last summer after legalization by the legislature of pari-mutuel and auction pool betting. It was claimed that losses to the association resulted and that the agreement must be modified or bankruptcy would result. Fitzgerald insisted that if there was modification of the agreement new bids should be asked.

Although held to an 8 to 5 lead at the end of the first half after a slow start, De Paul university basketball team forged ahead methodically to win from the University of Minnesota, 22 to 14, last night at the 132d Infantry armory. The game, which was watched by less than 1,500 fans, was replete with rapid passing and excellent defensive work, but neither team was accurate in shooting.

De Paul needed nearly fifteen minutes of the first half to conquer its stage fright or whatever it was that bothered its veterans. Its sharpshooters bounced the ball from the back board and from the edges of the iron loop, but seldom through the netting.

De Paul Steps Out.

In the second period Minnesota experienced the same difficulty, but De Paul recovered sufficiently to pile up a safe advantage, leading 17 to 7 with nine minutes to play and 18 to 10 with only four minutes left. George Roscoe, one hand artist, who also was a substitute on the undefeated Gopher football team last fall, and Charles Wallbloom, cut this margin to 4 points but Phil Krause and Frank Linsky counted field goals from under the basket to check insubordination.

Gordon Norman, Minnesota's 6 foot 4 inch center, around whom the Gophers centered their passing attack, played an excellent floor game, but his mates not only could not hit from a distance after receiving Norman's passes, nor could they draw the De Paul defense out of position.

Two Put out on Fouls.

George Svendsen, another Minnesota football player, and Bill Kane, a guard, were eliminated in the closing minutes on four personal fouls. Ray Adams, De Paul guard, led in defensive errors, with three.

Pete Barskis opened the scoring in the second half with a short field goal and free throws by Weston and Adams widened the gap before Weston's side shot, which was matched by Svendsen's lone goal, produced the 14 to 7 score. Four consecutive penalty shots by Adams, Linsky, and Gorsky [2] spelled defeat for the touring Minnesotans.

De Paul now holds victories over North Central, Nebraska, and Minnesota. The Blue Demons meet the University of Arizona Jan. 3 at the De Paul gymnasium.

BALL BROTHERS OF N. U. TAKE TENNIS MATCHES

New York, Dec. 23.—[Special.]—Russell and George Ball, Northwestern university freshmen, both advanced to the quarter-final round of the national junior singles tennis championship tournament today. George defeated Lyman Middleditch Jr., Cornell, 6-3, 6-2, while Russell, who had upset Sumner Rodman, Harvard, third seeded player, on the opening day, eliminated Carleton A. Rood, Brooklyn, 6-3, 6-3.

Frankie Parker, Milwaukee, top seeded favorite, continued his winning ways by defeating Barclay A. Kingman, Yale, 6-3, 6-1.

FOOTBALL FORECASTING.

IN football forecasting for the season of 1933 The Wake's percentage of winners to losers, ties eliminated, was .758 plus. This compares with a high of .836 in 1931 and a low of .745 in 1927. In our own mind we have fixed .750 as the minimum we wish to reach. In the present trend toward closed contests perhaps it will be necessary to lower that figure of desideratum.

Since the idea was originated by THE TRIBUNE in 1923, later adopted quite generally in varied forms throughout the country, the average for 1933 is our second lowest. In general, that was because of a greater number of so-called upsets or reversals, desirable from the viewpoint of competition even if not pleasing to winning percentage averages.

We feel this tendency will continue—that football elevens are headed, for the present at least, toward nearer equality of competition. Strong elevens, partly because of a desire for gate receipts and partly for reasons of sportsmanship, schedule fewer setups in their early contests, once known as practice affairs. More elevens of their own level or near level are played.

Another factor which entered into Wake's 1933 averages was our including in the forecasts many smaller colleges in the Chicagoland territory. The Little Nineteen, in particular, did damage to figures. The Pacific coast, usually with several consistent winners each Saturday, had the reversals which also raked the Big Ten. In the south Alabama Poly and Baylor were notorious in-and-outers.

No effort is made in the forecasts to obtain a high percentage of victories. The forecasts are supposed to give relative strength of representative elevens throughout the country. Smaller colleges in Chicagoland territory are presented for geographical reasons.

In looking back over the forecasts our view of greater equality of competition and tendency of stronger elevens to discard setups is supported by comparative figures for 1932 and 1933. After three Saturdays of play in 1932 our average was .871. In 1933 it was only .807. Here is the record by full years:

	W.	L.	Ties.	Ave.
1923	166	35	19	.826
1924	125	36	17	.776
1925	206	61	21	.774
1926	226	54	19	.807
1927	205	70	24	.745
1928	275	67	21	.804
1929	262	75	25	.780
1930	290	79	30	.786
1931	390	79	35	.836
1932	389	107	45	.784
1933	456	145	59	.758

It may be of interest to note that the percentage of tie games to the total number played was .0863 in 1923 and .0894 in 1933.

COUTURE'S GOAL EVENS COUNT IN THIRD PERIOD

Chicago Team Still Unbeaten at Home.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Blackhawks, by virtue of a 2 to 2 tie with the Ottawa Senators, last night continued undefeated on their home ice. The tie was good enough, since the Gorman lads were obliged to do a lot of midwinter sweating early in the third period, at which time they were behind, 2 to 1.

LOLO COUTURE.

It was a good fast game and another lesson in the recent policy designed to show that hockey can be fast and exciting and at the same time devoid of dangerous roughness. In the 70 minutes of play there was but one penalty and it a mild matter of holding. Seven thousand attended.

The Hawks, who haven't tasted the dregs since Dec. 12, were the first to score. Jack Leswick got the rubber home in 7:15 of the first period on a two ply pass from Lolo Couture and Johnny Gottselig. Gottselig took the disc into the Senator defense zone down the left boards, then passed across the rink to Couture. Couture in turn passed to Leswick near the corner of the cage and Leswick lost no time in smacking home goal number one.

Senators Catch Up.

The Hawk lead did not prevail two minutes. At the ninth minute the Senators rushed right down the middle of the rink into the Hawk defense zone. Before the defenders of Goalie Gardiner could discover what was going on, Danny Cox and Nick Wasnie feinted Gardiner out of his nets, whereupon Mr. Nick beat him on a nice shot which tied the score.

The 1 to 1 tie prevailed throughout the second period, but in 3:15 of the third period the Hawk home slate seemed pretty badly cracked, when Alex Kaminsky picked up the puck and shot a high one right past Gardiner. Three minutes and 15 seconds later, however, the final tabulation was established when Couture scored on a pass from behind the cage by Gottselig.

The Hawks opened the game as if they meant business, but Kendall missed an easy shot on a pass from Cook. Cook hit the post with the rebound, and a few seconds later Conacher made a fine solo rush, but his shot was wide. Coulter got a hand when he appeared at defense for the first time after his injury. The Hawks were not to be denied, and Leswick scored on a pass from Couture after Gottselig had taken it down the side boards.

Senators Tie Score.

About two minutes later the Senators rushed the puck into Hawk territory and Cox scored a beautiful shot to tie the score on a pass from Wasnie.

About five minutes of the second period passed dully until the Hawk line of Kendall, Sheppard and Cook livened things up a bit with a furious sally on the Ottawa goal. Leswick missed one from five feet out and the Hawks kept Goalie Beveridge dancing merrily during the ensuing scramble but no goal resulted.

Bowman drew the only penalty of the game while the Hawks were pressing Beveridge hard. During the next two minutes Coach Gorman put four forwards on the ice, but the Hawks were unable to score before Bowman returned.

Early in the third period Kaminsky picked the puck up and made a high shot from about fifteen feet in front of the cage to beat Gardiner's solo effort on defense. The time of the goal was 3:15.

The Hawks knotted the count at 6:30, Gottselig got the puck back of the cage and somewhat to Goalie Beveridge's right after a general melee and promptly shoved it out in front of the cage to Couture who executed a lightning swish for the goal and tying counter.

C. Y. O. FIGHTERS HEAD WESTWARD TO BOX ON COAST

Meet California Boys in Frisco on Jan. 12.

The Catholic Youth organization's amateur boxing champions and runnersup left last night for Pasadena, Cal., en route to San Francisco, where they meet a combined Los Angeles-San Francisco team on Jan. 12. It will halt for the same length of time again tonight. This procedure will be followed all the way to California so that the boys can do light exercises.

Bishop B. J. Sheil, general director of the C. Y. O., headed the party of 36, which included the Rev. Louis F. Kroeck, Packey McFarland, Don Hutchinson, Dr. James V. Russell, and Thomas O'Connell.

Others were the Rev. Daniel Frawley, the Rev. Patrick Maloney, the Rev. H. Kennedy, the Rev. James Carroll, and the Rev. Robert E. O'Connell.

ZOO'S ANIMALS JUST LAUGH AT CHILL WEATHER

Bushman, the Gorilla, Puts On Best Show.

BY BOB BECKER.

Zero waves in Chicago have no terrors for denizens of the small animal house in the Lincoln park zoo. When we visited this interesting [and noisy!] building in the park yesterday to get more intimately acquainted with some of the small African and South American monkeys, Bushman, the handsome gorilla; Billy and Heine, the chimpanzees, and Barney, the calm, friendly ourang-utan, we found the animals unmindful of the cold weather ouside.

The temperature of the animal house was high enough to be extremely comfortable Bushman, the gorilla which is the prize and pet of the zoo officials, was in fine fettle. Billy, the chimpanzee, was tearing around his cage, stomping on the boards and making so much noise that it sounded as if the zoo were falling apart. And the spider monkeys from Brazil were swinging around their quarters using their long, prehensile tails to grasp the bar, thus reminding us of our hunting days in Brazil when we saw monkeys of this species racing through the thick, leafy tops of tall trees.

Don't Miss Bushman!

No visitor to the Lincoln park zoo should pass up Bushman, the valuable and very tame gorilla on exhibition, not only because he is a gorilla, but because Bushman is the only big ape that put a steeple on an African church! He was captured when young and raised by missionaries in a remote little village of Africa. Along came an animal collector who wanted him. The missionaries sold Bushman for enough cash to build a steeple on their church.

Today this animal's value would put a good steeple on several African churches. He weighs about 101 pounds and is gaining weight rapidly.

When Floyd S. Young, superintendent of the Lincoln park zoo, joined us on a visit to Bushman's cage we found the gorilla clean and sleek because he had just been given his shower bath. Bushman is given a bath every other day by Edgar Robinson, who is in charge of the small animal house.

He Wants a Ride.

When Bushman came up from the shower bath he sat down until Robinson put a leash on his collar, and then put his arms around Robinson's neck for a ride Bushman won't walk to the cage. Instead he wants to ride "pick-a-back," with his arms around Robinson's neck. Once at the door of his cage Bushman rushes into his quarters to seize his football, which is at present his favorite plaything.

Toronto evened it up on a goal by Joe Primeau in the second period and went ahead in the third when Ken Doraty scored. A penalty to Busher Hollett, young Toronto defenseman, paved the way for the tying goal by Bun Cook.

DISGUISED HORSE AND ITS OWNER RULED OFF TURF

Charlestown, W. Va., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—A disguised race horse and its owner, Michael Krock, of Perth Amboy, N. J., were barred from West Virginia tracks today by Racing Commissioner J. B. McLaughlin. The horse was being masqueraded under the name of Hustle Over.

The horse, McLaughlin said at a hearing for Krock today, was much faster than Hustle Over and its entry under that name "would have meant a killing on West Virginia tracks."

Attention was attracted to the horse, the commissioners said, when Krock bought him at an auction at Charlestown under that name and didn't want to wait for registration papers. Also, the brown spots on the horse's head began to fade into white.

TODAY'S GAMES.
[Quarter finals.]
3 p. m.—Harrison vs. Tuley.
4 p. m.—Austin vs. Lane.
7 p. m.—Blue Island vs. Parker.
9:30 p. m.—Marshall vs. Hyde Park.

Upsets and thrilling finishes marked the third day's sparkling play in the holiday high school basketball tournament at the University of Chicago yesterday. Seven city teams and one suburban quintet struggled through the second round into the quarter-finals. The winners, who will meet today, were Harrison, Tuley, Austin, Lane, Blue Island, Parker, Marshall, and Hyde Park.

Height, defensive strength and the strange talent that makes a "good tournament team" began to tell as the tournament tightened. The upsets came in the afternoon, and were scored at the expense of two suburban favorites, La Grange and Morton, by a pair of west side city teams, Tuley and Austin.

Rallies Thrill Fans.

But the big thrills came in the evening, first when Roosevelt's spirited team staged a last quarter rally good for eleven consecutive points but not quite—by one point—good enough to overtake Marshall. The second revolved around another rally, this time successful, in which Hyde Park's lightweights again emerged as rescuers and giant killers, this time against Calumet.

The latter game, the last of the evening, involved the lowest scoring total of the meet thus far. With both teams showing a flypaper defense the first half ended with Calumet leading, 5 to 3. The lead went to 10 to 5 at the three-quarter point.

Little Fellows Take Charge.

Then Hyde Park's five lightweights went in. It was speed against an air-tight defense. Jim Porter and Lennie Carmisa of Hyde Park dropped free throws. Carmisa sank a short one, and Rossin converted another free shot to tie the score. Carmisa hooped a last minute long side shot for Hyde Park's victory, and Cherner and Porter added free throws, Hyde Park winning, 14 to 10.

Roosevelt's unsuccessful rally in the preceding game nearly overcame the lead of 19 to 8 which Marshall had built up at half time by steady hammering. Both teams played a clever and scrappy, if somewhat wild, game, but Marshall with Adelstein doing the scoring, was more effective at first. A fiery dribbler, Louis Levy, started Roosevelt's rally. Marshall seemed helpless to stop the rush, which netted five consecutive baskets, three of them by Wimmer, but the timer's gun intervened with the score at Marshall, 29; Roosevelt, 28.

Parker Wins, 42-16.

Parker's towering team, which experienced difficulty in the first round, crushed the tiny McKinley squad 42 to 16 in the first evening game. The Parkerites kept the ball in the stratosphere. Leonard Rumpf, 6 foot 6 inch Parker center, dropped in seven baskets and three free throws for high scoring honors in the meet so far, and his teammate, Bob Peterson, was only a point behind him.

Tuley's surprise victory over the veteran La Grange team, 21 to 19, in the afternoon stamped the Tuley boys as a "good tournament team." Rottner, Swirsky, and Golden led a second quarter Tuley rally which La Grange was unable to overcome. Austin's 24-19 victory over Morton was less surprising, since the Austin team has height and speed and a 6 foot 5 inch center in Jack Drees, who gets the tip-off, handles the ball expertly and does most of the scoring.

COLUMBIA AT LOYOLA

Loyola university's basketball team will be seeking its second victory of the season tonight when it meets the Columbia college five of Dubuque, Ia., at the Loyola gym. The game will start at 8:15 o'clock.

Four of Columbia's starters were regulars last year. Raymond Broderick, sophomore guard, is the only nonletterman, but he has been the visitor's high scorer in their first three games.

ILLINOIS PLAYS KNOX

Galesburg, Ill., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—Knox college basketball team will play the University of Illinois at the armory here tomorrow night.

Capt. Tom Kelly of Knox, who has had an injured ankle, is back in uniform. The Siwash team, undefeated this season, will be considerably smaller than the Illini, but hopes to make up in speed what it lacks in height.

Coach Ruby of Illinois will start Howard Braun at one guard position, as the Belleville sophomore has developed rapidly since he was shifted from forward. Les Lindberg may be tried at guard. Lineup:

NO. 18 FOR IRISH?

The basketball teams of Northwestern and Notre Dame will help usher out the old year at Patten gymnasium tomorrow night. Since 1927 the teams have met 13 times with Northwestern winning seven games and Notre Dame six.

Notre Dame beat Northwestern, 23 to 24, at South Bend two weeks ago. The Irish now boast a string of 17 consecutive victories, six of them having been hung up this year.

The big fellows in the Irish lineup are Capt. Ed Krause, 6 feet 3 inches; Marty Peters, 6 feet 3 inches, and Joe Voegele, 6 feet 1 inch. Krause, at center, has been the kingpin of the team for the last two years. He is one of three football men on the basketkall team, the others being Don Elser and Marty Peters.

Now that Al Kawal has returned to the lineup after a month's absence due to a football injury, Coach Lonborg of Northwestern has switched his lineup, sending Eggs Manske to forward. He will pair with Del Prendergast, a sophomore.

Marquette to Play Chicago Five Tonight

A University of Chicago basketball team greatly enlivened by the addition of Bill Haarlow, sophomore scoring genius, but not yet up to full strength, will take the Midway floor tonight against Marquette. The game will be played at 8 o'clock between two quarter final matches in the holiday high school tournament.

Five more sophomores, two of them of varsity ability, will join the Maroon squad on Jan. 1 when they reenter class work, but will not appear tonight. These include Bob Pyle, 6 foot 2 inch forward from Vincennes, Ind., and Leo Oppenheim, 6 feet 3 inch guard from Kenosha, Wis., both of whom are first string men.

Others are Maurice Gottschall, a guard from Vincennes; Earl Seaborg, a center from Joliet, and Ray Weiss, a guard from Lindblom high. All will be eligible when they register for the winter quarter. These five and Haarlow, playing together in practice, have been beating the erstwhile varsity regularly.

The two high scoring forwards of last year, Morstadt and Gorychka, are the offensive stars of the Marquette team.

Blue Ribbon Lacrosse Team Wins, 16-15

BY PAT DWYER.

The Chicago Blue Ribbon lacrosse team met the Milwaukee Imperials the second time this season at the Arcadia Gardens last night. They met violently all over the floor, and after the last battered acrobat picked himself up at the end of the game an official count revealed that the Blue Ribbons won, 16 to 15.

The first period opened with the customary body bombardment, handsprings, and wall dives. White of Chicago, in a praiseworthy attempt to carry the ball deep into enemy territory, made a series of dives along the side boards much after the fashion of a billiard ball that is made to carom along the rail with high inside english. He recovered long enough to dive into the wall behind the goal net, then staggered out and dived into the referee. As a rule, lacrosse referees are exceedingly nimble, but our hero last night was too slow. He piled up with a thump that filled the fans with joy.

Mr. Quirie Takes Leave.

During the second period Bob Quirie, Milwaukee defense, ran into a cross that tore open his lower lip and exposed his teeth, roots and all. An upper tooth was knocked out, and the unfortunate lad was escorted to the dressing room. Bob, however, was not greatly impressed with his injury. He consented to go to the hospital with the stipulation that he might return to play in the final period. He didn't come back.

Chicago went into the third quarter trailing 8 to 7, but White tied the score, and Baldwin made another point shortly after. Then Kingdon scored from the middle of the floor. He sent the ball through a forest of flying crosses straight to the net.

Milwaukee tied the score twice more before time was called, but White broke the tie before the whistle blew. Baldwin, Chicago defense, forgot to dodge a blow, and as a result he wound up on the floor with a gash over his right eye.

Goalie Goes on Furlough.

Milwaukee goals in the third period were scored while the Chicago goal keeper was twenty feet from his post taking a rest, or thinking about his income tax. As a matter of fact, he ran out to meet the enemy, and didn't get back in time.

Bradley of Milwaukee was carried out in the fourth quarter with an injured leg, but he came back into the game. An instant before the whistle blew Barron of Chicago made the goal that won the game.

Rickey Hints at Player Deal Within Ten Days

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 28.—(AP)—Branch Rickey, vice president of the St. Louis Cardinals, said today he may have "two or three things" to announce within the next ten days, but he declined to comment on a revived report that Bob O'Farrell, Cardinal catcher, will be sent to Cincinnati to become manager of the Reds. "I can't discuss that," Rickey said.

Little Aims at Speed for Columbia

Tucson, Ariz., Dec. 28.—(AP)—Work designed to add to the speed and deception of Columbia's football team marked the practice session today as the Lions drilled for the Rose Bowl game with Stanford at Pasadena on New Year's day.

Outweighed, the New Yorkers concentrated on improved execution of their passing and running attack, with Cliff Montgomery, Al Barabas, Ed Brominski, and the two ends, Tony Matal and Owen McDowell, figuring prominently in the plays.

Newell Wilder, Columbia's field goal counter threat to Bill Corbus of Stanford, also drilled on his specialty.

The Lions have an impressive array of second string reserve backs in Joe Linehan, senior, and Tommy Tomb, Frank Chippendale, and Sam Maniaci, second year men.

The one drawback so far as the Columbia backfield goes is lack of weight. Barabas tops the list at 190 pounds, and Maniaci tips the beam at 181, but the others will go into the game at 170 pounds or less.

The weight handicap probably will be felt more in the line, especially through the tackles and guards. Paul Jackel, first string left tackle, weighs 180, while Stephen Dzamba, right guard, weighs 185.

INDIANS ARE READY

Pasadena, Cal., Dec. 28.—(AP)—Stanford football players, reduced to a once a day routine in preparation for the Rose bowl game with Columbia Monday, worked this afternoon under a beaming sun.

The Indians, however, did not need the cheering rays of the sun to enthuse them. Coach Tiny Thornhill has no secrets from the multitude and crowds have thronged the practice field, some more interested in autographs than forward passes, but the Indians have gone their carefree way an they will be in shape—mental and physical—when the starting whistle sounds New Year's day.

Hard Work Ends.

There will be no more hard work for them. The last two workouts will be devoted to perfecting a snappy defense against the style of play Columbia is expected to employ. Lou Little's reputation as a football slicker has preceded him and the Stanford board of strategy seeks to prepare the active players for the unexpected.

One of the important cogs in the well oiled Stanford machinery will be the sure footed Frank Alustiza. This sophomore can kick and is at his best in getting off boots from just behind the line of scrimmage.

East and West Stars Settle on Starting Elevens

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 28.—(AP)—After seeing eastern football stars shuffled about in practice for the last five days, observers had their first glimpse today of what is expected to be the team that lines up for the kickoff against the West in the annual charity game here New Year's day.

Coaches for the East, Dick Hanley of Northwestern and Andy Kerr of Colgate, were noncommital on the subject, but those who have followed the workouts at Stanford university believe the starting eleven has just about been decided upon.

The team that appeared to have found favor was distinguished by the absence of Beattie Feathers, half back from the University of Tennessee and one of the outstanding stars of the Southern conference. Whether the switch is merely another of a long list of experiments was not explained, but Feather's place was taken by Herman Everhardus from the University of Michigan. Everhardus held down the left half back position on the eleven that drilled on offense tactics steadily for an hour today.

Left end, Robinson, Minnesota; left tackle, Schammel, Iowa; left guard, Ceppi, Princeton; center, Beard, Michigan; right guard, Gailus, Ohio State; right tackle, Walton, Pittsburgh; right end, Skaladany, Pittsburgh; quarter back, Sebastian, Pittsburgh; left half, Everhardus, Michigan; right half, Laws, Iowa; full back, Lukats, Notre Dame.

Out of the West's training stronghold at the University of California also came the starting eleven Coaches Percy Locey of Denver and Orin Hollingbery of Washington State have practically decided upon. Only one player is from east of the Rockies. He is George Sauer, Nebraska's full back, but a left half back for the West's purposes.

Badminton Champion in Exhibition Tonight

Jess Willard, United States badminton champion, and Cliff Sawyer, Boston, arrived in Chicago yesterday for a series of matches. The first exhibition match will be held at the Union League club tonight, and tomorrow night the pair will perform at the Lawson Y. M. C. A. Matches also are scheduled at the Winnetka Badminton club and the Illinois Athletic club next week.

Ski Riders! Report Early for Numbers

All contestants in THE TRIBUNE'S third annual ski tournament which will be held Sunday at Riis park, Fullerton and Meade avenues, must report between 12 o'clock and 1 o'clock at the park fieldhouse for their racing numbers. The tournament will start promptly at 1:30.

Joseph F. Gubbins, president of the northwest park commissioners, who are cooperating with THE TRIBUNE in holding the ski tournament, has made arrangements for contestants at the fieldhouse. He also has had a crew of workmen preparing the slide and from now until Sunday morning all contestants who wish to do so may practice on the hill. None will be admitted to practice Sunday morning.

Karl M. Nilsen of the Norge Ski club and the officials of the tournaments have chosen the men who will conduct the contests Sunday. Mr. Nilsen will act as chief of the hill and his assistant will be Harold Hansen.

Eugene Petersen will be referee of the meet. Mr. Petersen is president of the Central United States Ski association. Judges for form will be Trygve Schan, Christ Steiner, Haakon Lehn, and Adolph Swenson. Starters will be Thomas Lee and Louis Eidness. The scorers selected are Arne Engedhal, John Ohs, Thor Wesby, and Morten Fadum. Markers are Christ Berger, Alf Jansen, Einar Jensen and Arne Sletner.

Six Brothers Enter.

"Enter six Bietila brothers for your meet Sunday. Paul, age 15, world's boy champion. [Signed] James E. Flaa, secretary Ishpeming Ski club, Ishpeming, Mich."

This telegram was received on the final day for entries and insures competition for the riders from the Fox Athletic club, Forest Preserve Ski club and the Norge Ski club. Other members of this famous family of ski jumpers are Ralph, 9 years of age; Roy, 13; walter, 17; Leonard, 24, and Anselm, 26.

Four gold championship medals are ready for those who negotiate the slide with the best average for form and distance. It is possible that all may be won by the Bietial brothers from Ishpeming. A grand slam such as this might also win the silver trophy for team championship. The Norge club won the cup in 1932.

Room for Big Crowd.

There are accommodations for thousands of spectators at Riis park. In other years crowds of 30,000 have gathered to see the skiers come down the hill and leap far out into space. Each contestant will be required to make at least two jumps.

Dr. Thomas E. Dwyer, of THE TRIBUNE Athletic association, will be in charge of the medical examinations prior to the contest. Neither THE TRIBUNE nor the Northwest park district will assume responsibility for injury to either the contestants or the spectators. All precautions will be taken, however, to prevent injury.

New York Boxing Fans to Get Fill of Beef Tonight

New York, Dec. 28.—(AP)—The boxing season of 1933 fades out of New York tomorrow night with a roundup in Madison Square Garden which may not be the best, but which stands without challenge as the biggest set of bouts of the year.

It is a heavyweight festival, featuring Ray Impelliittiere, the American Carnera, who stretches up some 6 feet 7½ inches and weighs 250 pounds, against Walter Neusel, a comparatively little fellow of 200 pounds, 6 feet 2½ inches in height. Neusel is the most recent of the foreign importations, a blond German who knocked out Les Kennedy and Stanley Poreda in his first American matches. They fight ten rounds.

Jack Pettifer, Great Britain's response to the Carnera influence, has been arrayed against the largest Negro still in action, Leonard Dixon of Philadelphia, for six rounds. Pettifer, who knocked out Jack McCoy, also of Philadelphia, in his first match here, stands 6 feet 7 inches, while Dixon rises ⅝ of an inch higher. They weigh about the same, between 225 and 230 pounds, and leave little room in a normal ring for a referee.

Ordinary sized heavyweights, Red Barry of Washington, and Abe Feldman of New York, are matched for eight rounds, and Eddie Houghton of Philadelphia and Lou Poster of Wilkesbarre, Pa., for six.

N. C. A. A. OPENS ITS 28TH ANNUAL MEETING TODAY

Will Name Rule Making Committees.

The 28th annual convention of the National Collegiate Athletic association will open this morning at the Stevens hotel. It is the first time in more than a decade that the association has held its meeting in Chicago. Maj. John L. Griffith, commissioner of athletics of the Western conference, is president.

The N. C. A. A. appoints rules committees that compile and publish the rules in football, track, swimming, basketball, track and field. It also conducts annually collegiate championships in track and field, swimming and wrestling. For twelve years the national track and field meet was held in Chicago, but next June the competition will be shifted to the Pacific coast.

Not Governing Group.

The N. C. A. A. does not attempt to regulate or govern college athletics. It recognizes the autonomy of its individual members and attempts to accomplish desired results by and through an exchange of ideas and educational methods. Several ideas, such as the one year residence rule regarding eligibility, the three year participating rule, scholarship and amateur rules, have been adopted in a period of years.

Two Discussions Today.

Today two round table discussions will feature the opening day of the convention. Romeyn Berry of Cornell university will conduct one of these this morning on the general topic of athletic budgets and finances. In the afternoon Kenneth L. [Tug] Wilson of Northwestern university will preside over discussion of college aims and ideals, with special reference on recruiting and subsidizing of athletes.

Tomorrow morning several prominent speakers will address the convention. This group includes the Rev. John O'Hara, C. S. C., acting president of Notre Dame university; Chancellor E. H. Lindley, University of Kansas; President Robert E. O'Brian, Morningside college, and C. L. Brewer, director of athletics, University of Missouri.

CHICAGOANS INVADE KANSAS.

Arkansas City, Kas., Dec. 28.—The Chicago Collegiates, a barnstorming basketball team composed of former Northwestern, University of Chicago and Purdue players, have been signed for a game here Jan. 8 against the Arkansas City A. A. U. Ramblers.

CANADIAN ICE SEXTET SWAMPS WISCONSIN, 6-0

The Queens university hockey team of Kingston, Ont., swamped the University of Wisconsin sextet, 6 to 0, in an international match before 2,500 at the Coliseum last night.

The Canadians scored early in the first period when Democko, burly defense man, skated away from the entire Badger team to push the puck into the net. Peterson and Patterson also scored in the first period. Peterson counted his second goal in the second period. Patterson collected two points for Queens in the final session. Lineup:

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 28.—Gains of a point or more were recorded in a long list of railroad, utility and industrial bonds today. Many issues were close to their best prices for the year to date. Switching was much in evidence in connection with year-end transactions in relation to tax matters.

Rail issues that gained 1 to 3 or more points included loans of Alleghany corporation, Central of Georgia, Chesapeake corporation, Chesapeake and Ohio, St. Paul, Chicago and North Western, Denver and Rio Grande, Erie, Great Northern, Fort Scott, Louisville and Arkansas, M-K-T, Missouri Pacific, New York Central, Nickel Plate, Pennsylvania, Frisco, and Southern Pacific.

Federal Issues Quieter.

Trading in federal bonds was much quieter and the demand and supply seemed evenly balanced. Price changes were small but uneven. An interesting transaction in this group was the sale of $75,000 of United States Consolidated 3s at 97⅛. These bonds had not been traded on the stock exchange since 1924. Although there are $599,724,025 of them outstanding, they seldom appear in the listed market because their national bank circulation privilege makes them strictly a bank investment.

In the foreign bond group, German loans closed irregularly higher, with the government issues showing fractional advances. French governments and municipal loans were little changed. United Kingdom issues were fractionally easier.

Transactions Dwindle.

Despite the general showing of strength, activity dwindled sharply as transactions for 1933 income statements were no longer permissible because of the two day delivery rule. The sales total was $11,914,000, par value, compared with $21,145,000 in the preceding session.

Curb bonds pointed higher in both the domestic and foreign groups. Trading was considerably less active than on the previous day. The maximum gains in the domestic issues ranged from 1 to 4 points, and in the case of foreign loans, from 1 to 3.

Southeastern Express.

Investors' Guide: I shall appreciate information on stock of Southeastern Express company.—S. J. E.

Answer: Southeastern Express company has contracts giving it the exclusive privilege of conducting express transportation business over 10,000 miles of railroads in the Southern Railway system and Mobile and Ohio Railway company.

Its contract provides that 47½ per cent of gross revenues goes to the railroad companies. After such payments, if earnings of the express company are greater than 7 per cent on its 10,000 shares of $100 par stock, the difference between $70,000 and total net income shall be divided equally between the railroads and the express company until earnings equal $100,000. Any additional net income in any one year is divided on a 75 per cent [to the railroads]-25 per cent basis.

If 52 per cent of the earnings of the express company are insufficient to pay operating costs, payments to the railroad companies may be reduced. If payments are less than 25 per cent of gross revenues no dividends may be paid on the stock. The dividend rate is on a sliding scale basis when payments to the railroad are between 25 and 47½ per cent. The rate starts with 3½ per cent on a payment to the railroads of between 25 and 26 per cent, graduated upwards to a 7 per cent dividend on the 47½ per cent basis.

This contract, which is for five years, was entered into on March 1, 1933. Previous contracts had contained a guarantee by the railroads of 7 per cent dividend on the stock.

Express revenues in 1932 totaled $4,174,000, against $5,603,000 in 1931 and $6,764,000 in 1930. Net income, before payments to railroads, amounted to $1,490,000 in 1932, $2,186,000 in 1931 and $3,010,000 in 1930.

Current assets on Dec. 31, 1932, totaled $1,301,000 and current liabilities were $591,000.

The 10,000 shares of $100 par stock now pay $2.50 semi-annually.

Deposit Guaranty.

Investors' Guide: Under the new banking law which will take effect on Jan. 1 a deposit up to $2,500 is guaranteed. If a person has, say, four $2,500 deposits in four different banks, does each bank guarantee the full $2,500 or only a proportionate share of $2,500? In other words, would the depositor be guaranteed the full $10,000 on deposit in the four banks or only $2,500 by all four banks?—F. H. H.

Answer: The deposit guaranty provision which goes into effect on Jan. 1 provides that accounts up to $2,500 in each bank be guaranteed in full. Therefore, if you have four $2,500 accounts, each in a different bank, each account will be guaranteed 100 per cent.

U. S. TO SEIZE ALL GOLD FOR DEVALUATION

Treasury Acts to End Hoarding.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 28.—The treasury department tonight reached out to seize all remaining private holdings of gold as a preparatory step for eventual devaluation of the dollar.

Acting Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr., in an order issued tonight under the emergency banking law, demanded the surrender of all gold holdings, with five specific exceptions, regardless of their size.

Previous anti-hoarding orders had allowed an exemption for private holdings of $100 or less. Acting Secretary Morgenthau explained especially that this exemption has now been wiped away and that a new drive against large hoarders who have not previously complied has been launched.

Heavy Punishment Possible.

Failure to follow the treasury's order and conviction carries a maximum penalty of ten years in prison, $10,000 in fines, or both. The order applies to corporations, partnerships, and associations as well as individuals.

Besides rounding up the last privately held gold, the new order, an official treasury spokesman explained, plugs up a hole which a New York court decision punched in the previous anti-hoarding order. The court held that under the banking law the secretary of the treasury, and not President Roosevelt [as previously had been the case], must issue the anti-hoarding order, and on this ground threw out one count in an indictment against a gold hoarder.

Essential to Devaluation.

Rounding up of private gold is essential prior to devaluation of the dollar, experts explained here, because a reduction of 50 per cent in the gold content of the dollar would double the dollar value of all gold. This profit the government is anxious to secure for itself and is particularly concerned lest the profit accrue to persons who have hoarded gold in defiance of the president's order.

One important exception which still blocks the way to devaluation was left in the new gold order tonight. Federal reserve banks, which own 3 billion 700 million dollars in gold and gold certificates out of a total American gold stock of 4 billion 300 million dollars, were still allowed to keep their gold.

How to deprive the reserve banks of this gold legally, or at least of the profit which the banks would otherwise reap from devaluation, has long been puzzling treasury legal experts and was still unsolved tonight.

Wants Reserve Holdings.

President Roosevelt has told Attorney General Homer S. Cummings to study the Thomas bill for nationalization of all gold stocks, but reports persist that the President is anxious to take over reserve bank gold and devalue before congress convenes.

Unless the treasury succeeds in taking the gold away from the reserve banks it will lose to the banks a 3 billion 700 million dollar profit which would grow out of a 50 per cent devaluation and a doubling of the dollar value of the gold in the reserve banks.

The section of Secretary Morgenthau's order commandeering private gold and setting forth the five exceptions follows:

"Now, therefore, I, Henry Morgenthau Jr., acting secretary of the treasury, do hereby require every person subject to the jurisdiction of the United States forthwith to pay and deliver to the treasurer of the United States all gold coin, gold bullion, and gold certificates situated in the United States, owned by such person, except as follows:

"A. Gold bullion owned by a person now holding such gold under a license heretofore granted by or under authority of the secretary of the treasury, pursuant to the executive order of Aug. 28, 1933, relating to the hoarding, export and earmarking of gold coin, bullion, or currency and to transactions in foreign exchange;

Collector Gold Exempted.

"B. Gold coin having a recognized special value to collectors of rare and unusual coins [but not including quarter eagles, otherwise known as $2.50 pieces];

"C. Unmelted scrap gold and gold sweepings in an amount not exceeding in the aggregate $100 belonging to any one person; and gold which has been through a process of fabrication for a specific and customary industrial, professional, or ornamental use;

"D. Gold coin, gold bullion, and gold certificates owned by a federal reserve bank or the Reconstruction Finance corporation; and

"E. Gold bullion and foreign gold coin now in the Philippine islands, American Samoa, Guam, Hawaii, Panama Canal Zone, Porto Rico, or the Virgin islands of the United States, owned by a person not domiciled or doing business in the continental United States."

Praise, Pound Expound New Deal Theories

BY REUBEN CAHN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 28.—The New Deal was expounded, praised, and pounded today before the annual convention of the American Economic association. The principal explainer and advocate was Assistant Secretary of Commerce John Dickinson, former law professor at the University of Pennsylvania, who failed to make a scheduled appearance yesterday. He was assisted by Dr. Alexander Sachs, former chief economist of NRA, now identified with a Wall street firm.

The most severe attack came from Dr. H. Parker Willis, professor at Columbia university, one of the authors of the federal reserve act, and a monetary authority internationally recognized though not on Irving Fisher's list of "18 who know money."

Why New Deal Was Developed.

The New Deal was called into being by the break down of free competition, Dr. Dickinson said. He declared that when the present administration came into office, industry was prostrate and there was nothing in the indiviualistic order which could revive it. This was so, he added, because "whereas in the past the opportunities for profitable investment which had initiated recovery from depression have practically always been connected with the opening of foreign markets, now there are no foreign markets which could be opened.

"Although there are today still large undeveloped sections of the world, the opening of which might, if other conditions permitted, afford a way out of the current depression along the lines of the past, great obstacles make it impossible to take advantage of these opportunities."

Domestic Demand Blocked.

Nor, he insisted, could the key to future prosperity be found through "the development of new demand at home by a rise in the standard of living, for that pre-supposes on the part of the people a capacity to buy, which does not exist midst general unemployment.

"The device adopted for increasing agricultural purchasing power has been primarily the reduction of agricultural production, coupled with the payment to the farmers of a sum derived from a tax on the process of farm products. The device adopted for increasing the purchasing power of workers engaged in industry and distribution has been a shortening of hours, accompanied by the maintenance or increase of the wages.

Funds for Trade Channel..

"Through both these channels it was expected that a greatly increased volume of funds would be made available for consumptive expenditures, and thus released into trade channels."

Dr. Willis, most devastating of a number of severe critics of the new deal, declared at the outset that he had had some difficulty in the past in analyzing the recovery program because of "a lack of consistence and frankness on the part of those identified with its origin and administration.

"One fully accredited spokesman of the recovery administration stated that the new deal was devised after a careful study of European socialism, Russian communism and Italian fascism. But almost at the same time another equally high and equally authoritative spokesman denied that there was anything revolutionary in the undertakings.

"But taking the most recent and official exposition of the recovery, I find it based upon a fundamentally false premise. It rests upon the assumption that the depression was due to a breakdown of laissez faire. When did industry lose its freedom? Certainly not on March 3, 1933, but many years earlier.

Too Much Interference.

"As a matter of fact the panic of 1929 grew out of the existence of too much interference with some industries and nursing, spoon-feeding and coddling others. It is not true that an uncontrolled excessive individualism has destroyed itself. What we are suffering from today is an undue governmental interference with business.

Seventeen professors of money and banking representing specialists in this subject in the leading universities tonight issued a joint statement condemning the government's policy.

The statement said, in part:

"We disapprove those aspects of the monetary policy pursued by the government which are destroying public confidence in the value of the dollar, are distorting the normal movement of investment funds and discouraging sound investments, thereby retarding an orderly and enduring recovery. It is undesirable to subject the money, the savings, and the trade of the American people to the uncertainties of arbitratory political policies.

"The present policy of monetary experimentation should be abandoned immediately. Efforts to depreciate the value of the United States dollar by manipulation should be stopped. A definite policy of returning to a gold standard should be adopted immediately."

Rock Island Authorized to Pay Its Bond Interest

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson yesterday authorized the trustees of the Rock Island railroad—James E. Gorman, Joseph B. Fleming, and Frank O. Lowden—to pay $2,000,000 in bond interest, which was due on July 1. Under the terms of the bond indenture there is a six months' grace period before default, which would have made the entire $100,000,000 issue due at once.

Stock Exchange Seat Sells for $135,000; Up $10,000

New York, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Sale of a New York stock exchange membership for $135,000, up $10,000, was announced today.

HEAVY BUYING OF AUTO SHARES BOOSTS PRICES

Many Stocks Rise 1 to 3 Points.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 28.—Large scale buying of automobile and accessory stocks marked today's dealings on the New York exchange. General Motors and Chrysler, in particular, were turned over in enormous volume reflecting growing confidence in the 1934 outlook for this major industry.

Chrysler was boosted to a new high for the year on a rise of almost $2 a share while General Motors just about duplicated its previous peak. Brokers attributed the bulk of the activity in this group to an absorption of offerings made for year-end accounts rather than as a new outburst of speculative activity. Mack Trucks, Auburn, and Nash came in for worthwhile slices of new patronage at rising prices.

Borg Warner Prominent.

Among the accessories Borg Warner was prominent, reaching a new top for the year, and Electric Auto Lite moved up about a point and a half.

The market as a whole was in an up and going mood and price betterments of 1 to 3 point or more were the rule in the more active departments. American Telephone, Vulcan Detinning, Owens Glass, and a number of preferreds provided a dash of color by moving up 4 points or more each.

The session was notable for the unusually large number of "cash" sales transacted. This is the only way in which sales made to establish tax losses can be placed into the record for the remainder of the year and the frequency with which the symbol "C" came out on the tape showed that numerous traders had postponed their tax selling until the last, evidently in anticipation of some sharp swing in the market.

At intervals during the day the "cash" sales seemed fully as numerous as those made in the regular way.

Bullish on "Control" Views.

Wall street opinion attributed some of the bullishness to the statement of Speaker Henry T. Rainey that he did not anticipate stock exchange control legislation at the forthcoming session of congress. The air about the "street" had been alive with bugaboos for weeks as to what the nation's lawmakers may do about stock control. The continued dribble of news and comment indicating improved trade conditions were further factors in the cheerful sentiment.

Utility stocks had an added stimulant in the form of a "surprise" declaration of the regular 75 cents a share quarterly dividend for stockholders of the Consolidated Gas corporation. The announcement came around noon and had a helpful effect on the power and light oup as a whole. Consolidated rose nearly 2 points and Peoples, Public Service, Standard Gas, and others moved up 1 to around 2 points each.

New York Central was the most prominent of the railroad division. Gains of about a point were made by New Haven, Union Pacific, and others.

PWA APPROVES $27,534,000 LOANS TO SIX CARRIERS

Washington, D. C., Dec. 28.—(AP)—The public works administration today allotted $27,534,000 for loans to six railroads, bringing to $210,342,000 the total so far allocated to carriers.

The Southern Pacific was allotted $12,000,000 for purchase and laying 40,000 tons of rails and fastenings, 1,820,000 ties and other work. The Baltimore & Ohio was allotted $4,230,000 to lay 35,000 tons of rails, build 820 new coal cars and repair 5,000 freight cars and 240 locomotives.

Receivers of the Wabash railway were allotted $1,489,000 to purchase 10,000 tons of rails and 3,000 tons of fastenings and for other work.

The Kansas, Oklahoma & Gulf was allotted $265,000 and the Interstate Railroad company $250,000.

CHICAGO'S USE OF POWER IS 7% ABOVE YEAR AGO

Consumption of electric power in the Chicago district for the week ended Dec. 23 made the best comparative showing with 1932 in the last five weeks.

Output totaled 105,136,000 kilowatt-hours, a gain of 7 per cent over the same period last year, when a total of 98,290,000 was registered. In the preceding week the gain amounted to only 3.8 per cent despite the fact that consumption slightly exceeded last week's aggregate. Weather conditions were fairly comparable for both periods. Comparative figures on kilowatt-hour output follow:

Commodities Decline Again, Index Shows

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 28.—The recent downward movement of wholesale commodity prices was continued last week, the decrease in the index number amounting to six-tenths of one per cent, Isador Lubin, commissioner of labor statistics of the labor department, announced today. The decline, he said, was due to marked reductions in the market prices of farm products and manufactured foods.

It brought the index number for the week ended Dec. 23 to 70.4 per cent of the 1926 average of 100, as compared with 70.8 for the week ended Dec. 9.

Lowest Since Oct. 21.

The index for the last week, Mr. Lubin said, was the lowest since the week ended Oct. 21 and was nearly 2 per cent under the high point of the year which was reached during the week ended Nov. 18, when the index registered 71.7.

Present wholesale prices are 12½ per cent above the level for the corresponding week of a year ago, when the index stood at 62.5 and 18 per cent above the low of the year, when the index was 59.6 for the week ended March 4.

Of 10 major groups of commodities covered in the report, four showed a strengthening in prices and three no change. The manufactured foods group showed the greatest decline by dropping more than 2 per cent.

Butter and Cheese Fall.

Butter and cheese continued for the fourth consecutive week a downward movement, decreasing nearly 5 per cent on the average. Declining prices were also registered for flour, oranges, lemons, cured beef, ham, fresh pork, lard, raw sugar and smoked fish.

Market prices of farm products dropped 2 per cent on the average. Although barley continued to show advancing prices, the sub-group of grains declined nearly 5 per cent. Steers and hogs again showed reductions. Eggs showed the greatest decrease of any single item. Average prices for cotton, wool and potatoes registered slight advances in certain cities. The miscellaneous group also showed a decline over the week.

RECEIVER GETS 'GOOD BIDS' FOR NATIONAL LIFE

Five or six "very good bids" have been submitted for the reinsurance of the policyholders of the National Life Insurance Company of the U. S. A., Patrick J. Lucey, receiver, said yesterday. The offers will be submitted to Superior Judge William J. Lindsay early next week, Mr. Lucey said.

The receiver and his assistants are now analyzing the revised bids. Several of the bidders changed the terms of their offers after a conference last week with the receiver and Ernest Palmer, director of the state insurance department.

Mr. Lucey indicated yesterday that he believed Judge Lindsay would accept one of the several propositions made.

NEW JERSEY HAS TO RAISE RATE TO SELL BONDS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 28. — A syndicate headed by the Bankers' Trust company was awarded $7,000,000 state of New Jersey bonds with a bid of 100.61 for 4¾s, 1934, to mature serially from 1936 to 1942. The bids were opened at noon under the requirement that the rate of interest should not exceed 5 per cent.

The last previous bond issue of the state was on Oct. 31, when Lehman Brothers was the successful bidder for an issue of $5,000,000 emergency relief bonds at 4¼ per cent interest. They mature 1934 to 1941 and were priced to yield from 2.25 to 4.10 per cent.

CONSOLIDATED GAS CO. VOTES ITS DIVIDEND MONTH IN ADVANCE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 28.—Directors of the Consolidated Gas Company of New York today surprised stockholders and the financial community by declaring, fully one month in advance of the date on which action was scheduled to be taken, the regular quarterly dividend of 75 cents a share on the common stock, payable March 15, to holders of record Feb. 2.

The rate is the same as that paid in the previous quarter, when the disbursement was reduced from 85 cents a share. There was no reason advanced by the board for acting on the dividend earlier than usual. The board meets monthly and the decision on the dividend was set for Jan. 25.

Coincident with the announcement, it was disclosed that James H. Perkins, chairman of the board of National City bank, was elected to the board of trustees to fill the vacancy created by resignation of Charles E. Mitchell.

The Arlington Mills has declared a dividend of $1, its first disbursement since July, 1927, when $1.50 was paid. The disbursement is payable Jan. 15, to stock of record Dec. 27.

The Easy Washington Machine Company of Syracuse announced that its directors had declared a dividend of 50 cents, payable Jan. 15 to stock of record Jan. 5. This is the first payment since July, 1930, the statement said, and will be "amply covered" by 1933 earnings.

Frank Phillips, president of Phillips Petroleum company, says that at the directors meeting next week he will recommend declaration of a 25 cent dividend.

B. E. HENDERSON NAMED HEAD OF LOAN CONCERN

Byrd E. Henderson yesterday was elected president of the Household Finance corporation, one of the country's leading personal finance organizations, to succeed Leslie G. Harbison, who died suddenly last Friday of a heart attack. Mr. Henderson, who is 44 years old, has been the executive vice president of the company. He started his business experience at the age of 17 in a small loan office in Louisville, Ky. He later participated in the business in Canada and in a number of other cities in this country.

Mr. Henderson has been with Household Finance since it was organized in 1925 with Mr. Harbison as president.

The board of directors of the company, following the elevation of Mr. Henderson, elected F. B. Hubachek, general counsel, chairman of the executive committee. Other members are Mr. Henderson and Fred Huettmann. The vacancy on the board caused by Mr. Harbison's death was filled by the election of A. R. Dana, vice president, who has been in charge of the concern's eastern headquarters in Philadelphia.

NO REGULATION OF STOCK MARKET LIKELY—RAINEY

Washington, D. C., Dec. 28.—Speaker of the House H. T. Rainey today declared after a conference with President Roosevelt that he did not expect any legislation looking toward regulation of the stock exchanges.

He said that while the session would be very important he expected it to be harmonious and constructive.

He thought it is very likely that some monetary legislation will be enacted. He said there is strong agitation for silver legislation and he believed that it would go through if it has any support from the President.

The speaker said purchase of new silver does not accomplish much and broadening of the basic currency will prevent inflation.

Credit Decline Is Revealed by Reserve Banks

(Statistics on page 24, column 8.)

A shrinkage in commercial credit, coupled with a seasonal decline in the circulation of money, were shown in the weekly banking reports released last night by the federal reserve board.

Reserve member banks in both Chicago and New York reduced their commercial loans, while their deposits held about steady, statements of the member banks in those cities showed.

Money in Circulation Drops.

There was an aggregate decline of 25 millions in all forms of money in circulation for the week ended Wednesday. Of this shrinkage, about 12 millions was reserve currency. The figures reflect the return of the abnormally large amount of currency which is in circulation during the holiday period. The report of the Chicago Reserve bank, however, showed that reserve currency circulation in this district again expanded. Some 3½ millions of additional currency were put out in this district, indicating Christmas buying continued up until the last minute before Christmas.

Deposits Steady Here.

Reports of the Chicago member banks showed practically no change in deposits, with the indicated gross figure off some 2 millions. Banks here again added to their holdings of government bonds this time 6 millions—while the New York banks sold the same amount.

In Chicago commercial loans, as distinguished from collateral loans, were down 31 millions and in New York 25 millions. Loans secured by collateral were sharply higher in both cities. On investments, however, the New York and Chicago banks followed different policies. Chicago banks bought "governments" and sold some 37 millions of "other investments." In New York the procedure was reversed, the banks there selling 16 millions of "governments" and buying 17 millions of "others."

Brokers' loans increased $48,000,000 to $801,000,000.

SURRENDER OF ILLINOIS LIFE ASSETS ORDERED

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson yesterday entered a formal order directing Abel Davis, receiver of the Illinois Life Insurance company, to turn over the assets to the Central Life Assurance society [mutual] of Des Moines. The contract for reinsuring the 70,000 Illinois Life policyholders by the Iowa company was approved by Judge Wilkerson last July.

Judge Wilkerson's formal order also directs officials of the Illinois Life company to turn over all real estate holdings to the Iowa concern and orders directors to meet and adopt a resolution approving the fulfillment of these orders. Receiver Davis was not discharged, for, it was explained, his services in the liquidation of certain Illinois Life assets will be required.

Briefly the reinsurance contract provides for the payment of all death claims in full, but a 70 per cent lien is placed against the policies. The principal of the lien, but not the interest, will be waived on all death claims accruing prior to Dec. 31, 1938.

Bachrach Made Receiver of Commonwealth Light

Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley yesterday entered an order in the United States District court here appointing Walter Bachrach receiver for the Commonwealth Light and Power company, a subsidiary of the Middle West Utilities company. Bachrach replaces Graham P. White, who resigned recently.

Rails Report November Net 15% Over 1932

New York, Dec. 28.—(AP)—November net operating income of class 1 railroads will show an improvement of some $5,200,000, or about 15 per cent, over the results for the same month last year, it was estimated today on the basis of reports already published.

Aggregate net, figured at $39,300,000, represents a decrease of about 31 per cent from the results of October, but the seasonal decline is less than it was last year and the year before.

The first 69 roads to report for November had total net operating income of $35,311,000, against $51,503,000 in October and $30,382,000 in November, 1932. Gross revenues approximated $235,886,000, against $268,746,000 in October and $230,132,008 in November last year.

Santa Fe Earns Less.

The Santa Fe railroad today reported that its net operating income for November was $2,231,044, compared with $2,982,749 for the like month of 1932. Gross for the month totaled $11,000,983, compared with $11,680,318 a year ago.

Net railway operating income for the 11 months of this year was $12,391,615, compared with $16,435,523 for the 1932 period. Operating revenues were $110,552,309, compared with $123,112,389 last year, and operating expenses $86,351,186, compared with $93,887,494.

The Illinois Central railroad is expected to cover its charges in December after showing a deficit of around $77,000 last month, says L. A. Downs, president. There has been a sharp pickup in the road's coal traffic so far this week.

Net operating income of the Rock Island for November was $3,328, compared with a deficit of $164,965 in the same month last year. This represents a gain of $168,293 from 1932. Total operating revenues for the month were $5,234,630, compared with $5,124,591 in November, 1932.

L. R. Powell Jr., one of the receivers for the Seaboard Air Line, today reported that the road's gross income for the first 11 months of this year showed an increase of $2,197,000 over the like period of 1932.

Traffic Shows Decrease.

Powell stated that the business of the road is increasing and that the number of passengers traveling has increased considerably since reduced fares were put into effect. The road's Orange Blossom special, operating between New York and Florida points, will be air conditioned starting Jan. 2.

Other roads to report on their November net operating incomes, with comparison with November, 1932, follow:

	1933.	1932.
Western Maryland	$361,668	$ 316,895

Delaware and Hudson	210,068	*43,319
Northern Pacific	638,738	535,802
Maine Central	147,908	125,018

*Deficit.

The Baltimore and Ohio yesterday reported that it handled 35,927 cars during the week ended Dec. 23, compared with 36,093 cars in the preceding week and 33,492 cars in the like week of 1932.

DOLLAR AGAIN TURNS UPWARD; RISES .22 OF CENT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 28.—The dollar resumed its slow upward trend in foreign exchange markets today as the treasury kept the price of domestic gold at $34.06 for the eighth consecutive day. In terms of gold French francs the dollar closed at 64.44 cents, an increase of .22 of a cent on the day. The world price of gold set in London was 126 shillings 3 pence, equivalent to $32.16 on a basis of the opening sterling price of $5.09½.

The British pound sterling slid off 2¼ cents on the day to $5.07½, and the French franc declined 2½ points to 6.07½. The Canadian dollar declined 3-16 of a cent to 99 13-16. With the exception of Dec. 13, the Canadian unit has been above par since Nov. 6. All other principal currencies also sagged.

Year-end short covering was said to have had some influence on the dollar's firmness.

NEW SETUP FOR MADISON-KEDZIE BANK APPROVED

A reorganization plan for the Madison-Kedzie Trust and Savings bank has been approved by State Auditor Edward J. Barrett, George R. Boyles, president, announced last night.

A new national bank taking over 40 per cent of the present bank's deposits will be opened within 40 to 60 days. A loan of $250,000 from the RFC and subscriptions of $250,000 from stockholders have already been obtained. Consent of depositors to a 60 per cent waiver remains to be gotten.

The new bank will have capital of $200,000, surplus of $30,000 and contingent reserves of $20,000. The bank had approximately $1,900,000 of deposits when it closed last March. A 40 per cent release would free approximately $1,000,000. Some deposits have preferred claims.

800 BANKS MAY NOT ENTER U. S. GUARANTY PLAN

Either Fail to Qualify or Don't Apply....

Washington, D. C., Dec. 28.—[Special.]—Between 200 and 250 banks will fail to qualify for the federal insurance of bank deposits which begins on Jan. 1, Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, estimated today.

Something less than another 600 banks have failed to apply for inclusion in the insurance fund, some of them announcing definitely that they do not choose to enter it, figures released by the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation itself indicated today. About 14,000 banks will be covered by the guarantee.

A warning to banks against advertising that they are members of the insurance fund until the insurance actually goes into effect was issued today by Walter J. Cummings, head of the insurance corporation. His move was regarded as an effort to avoid undue concern among depositors in banks which do not announce their admittance.

Notify Banks on Membership.

Certificates of membership are being mailed to all banks which have qualified for the fund, according to Mr. Cummings. Those admitted too late to be notified by mail before Jan. 1, the date the insurance is effective, will be telegraphed, he said.

For any bank to advertise or announce its membership in the corporation before Jan. 1, however, is a violation of the baking law and the regulations of the corporation, Mr. Cummings warned. No list of banks admitted for the whole country will be announced here, according to Mr. Cummings, but banks will be allowed to make their own announcements after Jan. 1.

In estimating that not more than 250 banks which apply for insurance will have to be rejected, Mr. Jones said that many banks not able to qualify on the basis of the first examination had been rebuilt and enabled to qualify by selling preferred stock or capital notes to the RFC.

Buy 786 Millions of Stock.

Approximately 786 million dollars has been poured into 3,883 banks in preferred stock and capital note purchases by the RFC, largely for the purpose of enabling these banks to qualify, Mr. Jones revealed. Some of the banks selling securities to the RFC, however, have merely been desirous of increasing their capital. Approximately $192,500,000 has been for the strengthening of 2,867 banks not members of the reserve system.

Lumping all banks in which the RFC has bought preferred stock or capital notes together, the RFC has a 40 per cent control, the remaining 60 per cent being represented by common stock privately owned. He said that the RFC will control few banks outright.

All member banks of the federal reserve system automatically are admitted to the temporary insurance fund, which will guarantee deposits up to $2,500. Nonmember banks are admitted on qualification.

PACKERS RAISE OUTPUT, WAGES IN NOVEMBER

The volume of production at slaughtering establishments in the United States expanded 15 per cent in November over October, the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago reported yesterday. This was in contrast to an average gain for this period of 2½ per cent. It was 17 per cent greater than a year ago and 7½ per cent greater than the 1923-'32 November average.

The November gain was reflected in the pay rolls of the reporting companies, which showed an improvement of 1½ per cent over October in number of employés, 4½ per cent in hours worked and 5 per cent in total amount of wages paid.

There was a 15½ per cent decline in distribution from October and an increase of the same percentage from a year ago. This year's decline was explained as being partly due to a general lowering of the price level.

WALLACE STARTS WAR ON DODGERS OF PROCESS TAX

Farmers Are Penalized by Practice, He Says.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 28.—(AP)—Secretary Wallace today threatened to use all powers of the farm administration to prevent the evasion of processing taxes by local hog buyers.

In a statement the secretary declared that local hog buyers, small processors, and other purchasers of live hogs for commercial slaughter have been reported to be deducting part or all of the processing tax from the market price quoted to farmers selling hogs.

"Country buyers and others, who, in settling with the farmer, make a deduction for the processing tax on the bill of sale are penalizing the farmer and are tending to frustrate the declared policy of the agricultural adjustment act," Wallace said.

Tells Farmers Not to Sell.

"There is absolutely no excuse for such a practice and farmers should refuse to sell to any buyer who makes or proposes to make any such deductions."

Buyers who deduct the tax from the price offered farmers and who then resell the live hogs to another person or processor take advantage of the farmer to realize a larger profit than is represented by the usual difference in price between the local shipping point and the terminal market because country buyers who do not slaughter hogs are not required to pay the processing tax, he added.

RAINEY CHARGES DENIED.

William W. Woods, president of the American Institute of Meat Packers, yesterday issued a statement denying the charges of Henry T. Rainey, speaker of the house, that the meat packing industry is "standing in open defiance of the recovery program."

"The packing industry," he said, "is cooperating vigorously in the recovery program, despite Speaker Rainey's charge to the contrary. Opinions regarding the government's plan for reducing corn acreage and controlling hog production have differed, but the plan is now being put into effect."

Wood said that Speaker Rainey implied that the packers have forced live stock prices down. "This is not the case," he pointed out, "for whether individuals or the government operate the packing industry, the price will be determined by the consumers. Neither the government nor any other agency can make consumers buy meat at a given price level."

COTTON FAIRLY ABSORBED; SMALL NET GAINS MADE

Trade interests were credited with absorbing a large part of offerings of cash and futures. A fair volume of business was under way, with higher prices for securities offsetting the effect of the weakness in grains at times. The close was around the best of the day, with futures in Chicago unchanged to 5 points higher and other markets up 1 to 4 points on futures.

The spot market advanced 5 points at New Orleans and New York, the latter being 10.35 cents and the former 10.15 cents. Houston and Galveston were unchanged, Houston at 10.10 cents and Galveston 10.15 cents. Liverpool was strong and closed 5 points net higher. Prices:

LARD PRICES STRONGER; LIGHTER STOCKS EXPECTED

A steadier undertone is noticeable in the lard market due to heavy shipments, and expectations are there will be liberal reductions in the stock report on Jan. 2. Offerings were moderate yesterday, and prices on old May contracts advanced 10 cents, but on new delivery only 2½ cents on December and May.

Cash lard declined 2½ to 5 cents, with regular 4.85 cents, while loose gained 2½ cents, being 4.62½ cents, and leaf was unchanged at 4.62½ cents.

NRA ANNOUNCES FAIR PRACTICE RULES FOR BANKS

Provides Service Charges to Assure Profit.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 28.—Standard fair price rules for banks, intended primarily to prevent unjust competition between small and large institutions, and to insure that banks shall not operate at a loss, were approved today by Gen. Johnson, NRA administrator.

The proposed rules, which will be subject to modification as local conditions require, are offered by the NRA purely to guide local banking or clearing house associations in formulating the uniform local regulations contemplated in the bankers' code, which becomes effective on New Year's day.

The bankers' code was adopted in line with the President's reemployment program, when bankers, under the lead of the American Bankers' association, pledged themselves to add more employés, shorten working hours and raise pay.

Most Important Provisions.

Some of the more important provisions of the proposed standard fair practice rules as announced today are:

1. That the hours of banking in various territories and communities will be as nearly uniform as possible.

2. That the maximum rate of interest paid on time accounts will be governed by the regulations of the federal reserve board.

3. That the schedule of bank charges for services rendered its customers will be fair, alike both to the bank and the customer, with the latter compensating the bank for such services only as he requires.

"The activity in many accounts is far greater than the balances maintained justify, and methods are devised under the code of establishing the requisite balance which should be maintained to correspond with the activity," the NRA announcement continued.

Adjust Balances to Services.

"In the event that a customer's balance is insufficient to justify the service he requires, a schedule of equitable charges is provided under the code whereby the bank is enabled, through analysis, to advise the customer as to the balance he should maintain to cover the costs of the services required to avoid direct charges.

"In total effect the operation of the code will not mean a greater cost for banking to the public as a whole, but rather an adjustment of banking to a sound basis."

SENATORS MEET TODAY ON SILVER REMONETIZATION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 28.—Twenty senators representing the silver mining states, the middle west, and south, have agreed to attend a conference Senator Wheeler of Montana has called for tomorrow to perfect an agreement on silver legislation.

Senator Borah, who will participate, declared today that the "remonetization of silver and its inclusion in our monetary base would in my opinion prevent radical inflation." He thought that unless silver was added to the currency the inflation bloc would be strong enough in due time to force the government to issue treasury notes to cancel government obligations.

This is also the view of Senator Wheeler, who is confident that the conference will agree to support his bill for the free and unlimited coinage of silver at a ratio of 16 to 1.

WEST. ELECTRIC TO GET 130,000 LOEW'S SHARES

New York, Dec. 28.—(AP)—A total of 660,900 shares of Loew's, Inc., common stock, sold at auction last week, is being distributed among the seventeen banks and corporations owning the $20,000,000 notes of Film Securities corporation, for which the stock was pledged as collateral. The notes matured last April, but only a small part of the issue was paid.

The holdings of Western Electric, manufacturing subsidiary of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, are believed to be the largest, and the company is understood to have received 130,000 shares of the Loew's stock.

The Western Electric management has made it known that the company will not maintain a permanent interest in the Loew's company.

Butter Decline Brings Loss to Beatrice Creamery Co.
